

Dear Rabbi Damm,

3/7/73

I've been meaning to write you sooner, but somehow here in ISRAEL I have no concept of time. I can't believe I've been here a month.

Machon is pretty good. It's like any school - there are great teachers and a few boring ones. I have JNN Leibowitz for ~~math~~, She's great and I just have to get used to her method of teaching. I'm so used to just reading the ~~ewny~~ 'en. I have Rabbi Rothcoff for Jewish Philosophy which I love. It's also a ~~join~~ class. Gabi Cohen - the principal - teaches us ~~math~~ which is very interesting. We have a fantastic teacher for ~~math~~ ~~and~~ and we discuss evolution + other topics of interest. We also have ~~math~~ ~~and~~ geography, ~~math~~ ~~and~~ (~~math~~), ~~math~~, ~~math~~ and ~~math~~. The thing I find lacking in ~~math~~ is a certain type of ~~math~~. I guess it's up to the individual, but there is no one I can really talk to here. I try ~~math~~ in as much as possible in order to ~~math~~. I talk to certain boys who are in ~~math~~ they have a ~~math~~, but here we just have teachers - not much communication. There are certain things which I'm quite undecided about - especially about wearing pants, and covering of the hair. I would appreciate it if you could ~~answer~~ give me your opinion on these 2 points. I know that these 2 points deal with the external appearance, and that internal feelings are much ~~more~~ more important. But I feel I must set my ~~standards~~ ~~as~~ as well as working on my ~~internal~~ ~~feelings~~ ~~internal~~ feelings. I would also like to know your feelings on the subject of ~~math~~. I have heard so many interpretations

I don't know what to believe anymore.

I am also very interested in reading about different religions - especially the Christian religion. Is there a good book you can recommend? I heard there was a book written by a R. who proves many fallacies in Christianity, but I don't know the name of the book. I am reading the 19 on my own (of course in English) and The Nineteen Letters by R. (S. K. 1983). Today I start working in R. 1983.

in INTERNAL. This way I'll get to see a little of everything, and start getting used to it. ~~Only~~ I hope to be back before Nitzan and I'll be going to Shin this summer which I'm looking forward to.
