Rabbi Norman Lamm,
The Jewish Center,
131 West 86th Street,
New York 24, N. Y.

Dear Norman:

Many thanks for your letter of last week. My curiosity and interest are aroused and I will, please G-d, call you when I go to the mid-winter conference at the end of January.

In the interim, I have two very important books which should be reviewed for TRADITION, perhaps in the form of a review article. They are Schoeps' "The Jewish-Christian Argument" and Heschel's latest book in Hebrew, "Torah Min Hashamayim." Do you feel that you would be able to review either one of these books for us? The first is important, of course, in view of the current Ecumenical winds in the air and is by a recognized authority in the field; the second is obviously of great significance for us.

Again, many thanks for your interest in my welfare.

Cordially,

Manny

Rabbi Emanuel Feldman
