Rabbi Mordechai Kirshblum
Jewish Agency
Jerusalem, Israel

Dear Rabbi Kirshblum:

This letter will serve to introduce to you a very dear friend of mine and my family, [REDACTED], formerly of Brooklyn New York. [REDACTED] and her son, [REDACTED] were the pillars of the community of Williamsburg when my family and I lived there. They have now decided to go on aliyah, principally at my urging.

Because [REDACTED] is a widow with very very little experience in Israel, I will deeply appreciate any courtesies that might be extended to her. I know she will try her best to get along without imposing on you, but she is a sensitive and highly intelligent person and if she does find it necessary to approach you, I am sure that there is a genuine need for assistance and advice.

I trust that you will be able to guide her properly and I thank you most warmly in advance for your cooperation.

Cordially,

RABBI NORMAN LAMM
