Dear Walter:

I have been trying to contact you by telephone but find that phones do not apply to intellectuals.

What I wanted to tell you was that I am quite anxious to check over the symposium on Ista'el, in which I participated and which you are preparing for publication in the forthcoming TRADITION. I will feel very uncomfortable having the piece go to press without my seeing it in advance.

Incidentally, I came home by plane from Chicago with Pincus Peli and he told me that he has the identical feelings. I suggest you let him see a copy too.

Cordially yours,

RABBI NORMAN LAMM
