

Instruments Around the World

Write the names of instruments found around the world.
Trace each letter with a pencil by following the arrows.

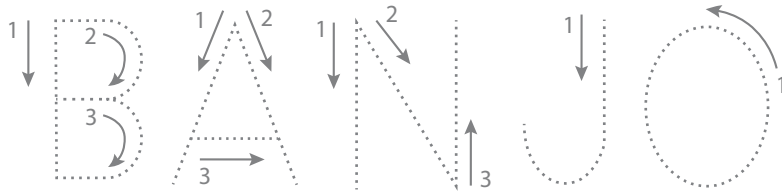

The Chinese gong is a metal plate that makes a musical sound when struck with a mallet.

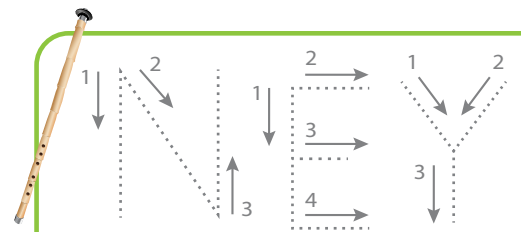

The pipa is a four-stringed lute that has been played in China for thousands of years.

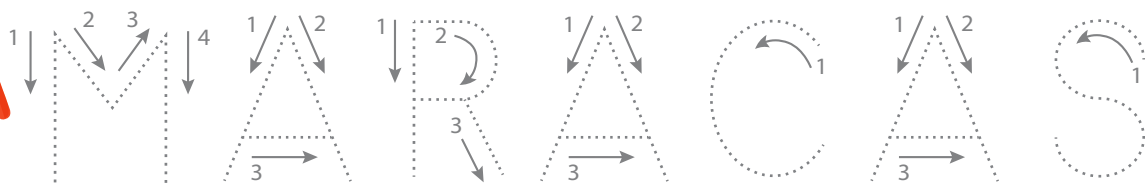

The violin was first made in Italy in the 1500s.

The banjo is popular in today's American folk music, but its roots are actually in Africa. Some Sub-Saharan African cultures have been playing banjos for 800 years!

The ney is a flute used in traditional Arabic music. Today, it is still popular in Egypt and Persia.

Maracas are rattle-like instruments that have been played in both Puerto Rico and Africa for a long time. Today they are most popular in Caribbean salsa music.