Knock knock. Who's there?
Termite. Termite who?

(Ter)mite v want to study chimps with me?

Why are chimpanzees good comedians?

Because they're a hoot!

What style of dance do chimpanzees enjoy?

Swing dancing!

I'm made of leaves
and sit high in the trees.
Chimps crawl into me at night with ease.
What am I?

Answer: a nest

Say it three times — fast!

The chimp tripped on a chipped chip on a trip to the chimp's ship.

Fawn finally found four fireflies furrowed in Frank's fickle fur.

The chimp swiftly swung to the swing, but sadly swung short by six sweeping swoops.

Chimps comb through each other's fur with sticks.
Dirt, leaves and insects
they pick.
What activity is this?

Answer: grooming

Chimps fish for me
in my dirt hills.
I get pulled out
by chimps with skill.
What am I?

Answer: a termite

Nesting

Chimps build leafy nests to stay cool and safe as they sleep. Today, build a chimp nest! Gather leaves and sticks (or pillows and blankets) and assemble your own nest.

Chimp Food

Chimps eat a variety of fruits, including figs, mangoes, bananas, watermelons, and apples. Today, make a chimp fruit salad! Select your favorite fruits, and with the help of an adult, assemble a refreshing bowl of chimp fruit salad.

One, two, three chimps,
too many to count!
As long as they're
in this group,
it matters not the amount.
What am I?

Answer: a troop

Why did the Weddell seal cross the ice?

To get to the other tide.

Why can Weddell seals jump
out of the water?

Because there's no seal-ing.

What does a Weddell seal say when it takes a bath?

Blub-a-dub-dub!

Bubble Bump

Weddell seals chase fish out of their hiding places by blowing bubbles at them. Today, get outside and play “keep away from the bubbles.” Have someone blow a bunch of bubbles into one area, and take turns trying to cross through without touching any. If you're hit by a bubble, you're out. Last one standing wins!

The Weddell seals whistled while windy waves washed all their woes away.

Antarctic artists always

I glide through the ocean
swimming in a pack.
What am I?

Answer: Fish

I'm cold and wet
and often gray.
The seal's happy smiles
keep the gloom at bay.
Which continent am I?

Answer: Antarctica
