Closing in on a title: LSU visits Arkansas to close the regular season needing just one win to clinch the SEC championship.

- LSU is seeking its 13th conference championship, but its first since 1997. If the Tigers win the title, they will tie Alabama for the most league titles since the SEC was formed in 1933.
- LSU enters the weekend with a 2 1/2 game lead on Auburn, Ole Miss and South Carolina, and a three-game lead on Mississippi St.
- LSU is closing its regular season on the road for the first time since 1998, when the Tigers lost two of three to Ole Miss.
- LSU has now won at least 18 conference games for the eighth consecutive season and for the 14th time in the last 15 years.

Scouting the Razorbacks: Arkansas was within one-half game of the lead in mid-April, but has lost eight of its last 10 SEC games.

- Arkansas comes off of a sweep at the hands of Tennessee last weekend in Knoxville.
- Arkansas is in its first season under former Razorback infielder Dave Van Horn. Van Horn was an All-Southwest Conference infielder for the Hogs in 1982
- Van Horn came back to his alma mater after five very successful seasons at Nebraska, where he led the Cornhuskers to the College World Series in 2001 and 2002.
- Prior to Nebraska, Van Horn spent three seasons (1995-1997) as head coach at Northwestern St. in Natchitoches.
- Van Horn replaced Hall of Fame coach Norm DeBriyn, who was 1,161-650-6 in 33 years at the Razorback helm.
- Arkansas features the SEC's leading home run hitter, senior center fielder Ryan Fox, who has hit 18 on the year.
- Junior right fielder Andrew Wishy and Fox share the team lead in RBI with 46, while junior first baseman Haas Pratt has 43.
- On the mound, the Hogs are paced by a solid bullpen led by Boyd Goodner (3-0, 1.95) and Caton Hall (2-2, 3.72, 3 saves).

About the series: LSU holds a 33-14 edge in a series that has been dominated by the home team in recent years.

- The Tigers swept the Razorbacks last year in Baton Rouge, with Lane Mestepey and Brian Wilson throwing 3-0 and 8-0 shutouts, respectively, in the first two games before LSU won 13-5 in the finale.
- LSU has won 11 consecutive meetings in Baton Rouge and 21 of 25 overall since the series began in 1960. Arkansas' last win in Baton Rouge was a 3-2 triumph in the opener of the 1996 series.
- Arkansas swept the last series between the teams in Fayetteville, holding LSU to eight runs in three games. At the time of the series, the Tigers were leading the SEC and ranked number one in the nation.
- The Razorbacks have won six of the last seven from the Tigers at Baum Stadium, including a 16-1 win in the 1997 series finale and a 2-1 series win in 1999.
- LSU holds a 4-2 edge in SEC Tournament meetings, but Arkansas won the last two meetings, 8-4 in 1998 and 9-8 in 1999, both at Birmingham.
- The Tigers eliminated the Razorbacks from the 1987 College World Series with a 5-2 victory.

This weekend in the SEC

The 2003 regular season comes to a close this weekend, and entering the final weekend, five teams have a chance to win the SEC championship. Of course, if LSU wins one game at Arkansas, all bets are off and the Bayou Bengals will take home the crown. With the Tigers in Fayetteville to close the regular season, here's a look at the other five series that bring down the curtain on the championship race:

Ole Miss at Auburn— The premise here is pretty simple: the winner of Friday night's game will have a chance at the title should LSU lose its game at Arkansas, while the loser will not. Both the Rebels and the Tigers are 2 1/2 games behind LSU, and neither can afford a loss if their slim title hopes are to stay alive. Neither team has won a league championship since the Carter Administration, with Auburn's title coming in 1978 when current coach Steve Renfrpe was an outfielder for Paul Nix, while Ole Miss' last title came in 1977 under former Rebel legend Jake Gibbs. Auburn can secure a home regional site by winning twice; may still have a shot a national seed due to high pseudo-RPI of No. 2. Ole Miss' RPI of 33 puts them close, but a collapse late in the season given its shaky nonconference slate could spell trouble.

Alabama at Mississippi St.—The SEC's closest rivals in terms of geography (80 miles) square off in Starkville. The Bulldogs had title designs after winning first two games of LSU series, but two losses at Georgia have put Ron Polk's crew on thin ice; State needs to sweep, hope LSU gets swept and have three teams in front of them (Auburn, Ole Miss and South Carolina) each lose once to have any hopes of the title. Alabama is reeling, having lost five of six league games, including three-game sweep at home by South Carolina. The Crimson Tide needs late makeup work to secure NCAA regional bid.

Georgia at South Carolina—The Gamecocks have bounced back quite nicely after 1-5 start in the league, and need just one win to secure fifth consecutive East division title; still can win overall title with a little help from Arkansas. Georgia is out of SEC Tournament running but has played well in May, sweeping Vanderbilt and winning two from Mississippi St. Carolina swept last year's series in Athens and won overall title when LSU swept Alabama.

Tennessee at Vanderbilt—One team in the Volunteer State clash was expected to be in the running for Hoover this weekend. However, it wasn't supposed to be the Volunteers, especially after UT was swept by LSU and outscored 42-14, while Vandy had taken two of three from both LSU and Auburn to close April. But the Vols are back in the SEC mix after winning two from Alabama and sweeping Arkansas, while the Commodores have lost five of six to Georgia and Kentucky.

Kentucky at Florida—For the Wildcats, it's the end of an era, as Keith Madison coaches his final series for Kentucky after 25 years. Florida has no time for sympathy, though; the Gators need at least two wins and some help to reach the SEC Tournament. Good news for Florida is that this series is in Gainesville, where the Gators are 29-5 compared to 3-13-1 on the ro ad.

LSU and Arkansas have met twice before in May, in 1997 and 2001 in Fayetteville, but in both cases, that was on the ninth weekend of a 10-week league schedule.

LSU and Arkansas, of course, face each other to close the year in football, and since 1996, have played for "The Boot", a 24-karat gold trophy in the outlines of the states of Arkansas and Louisiana, in Little Rock in even-numbered years and in Baton Rouge in odd-numbered years. In men's basketball, LSU and Arkansas closed the regular season in both 1996 and 1997 at the Pete Maravich Assembly Center.

Don't get used to this series being played on the last weekend, though; the series will be played next year in April in Baton Rouge, as LSU closes the 2004 season at Ole Miss while Arkansas hosts Auburn on the final weekend.

LSU closing on the road is rare

This weekend's series in Fayetteville marks the first time LSU will be closing the regular season on the road since 1998, when the Tigers finished their campaign at Ole Miss.

Ironically, that weekend also marked the last time LSU entered the final weekend as the leader in the overall SEC race. In the 1998 series at Oxford, LSU won the first game over Ole Miss, 11-4, but needing just one more win to claim the championship, the Rebels knocked the Tigers out of the top spot with 9-0 and 10-8 victories, leaving Florida to claim the title by a half-game when the Gators swept Georgia.

LSU hasn't won a road series to close the regular season since 1993, when the Tigers won two of three at Mississippi St. LSU also dropped two games at Starkville in 1995 and two at Alabama in 1997.

The Tigers have twice clinched the SEC championship on the road, winning a doubleheader in 1991 at Georgia to start a three-game sweep, and winning the final game in 1997 at Alabama.

Rug bugs

One of the quirks about going to play in Fayetteville is the fact that Arkansas' home fields—Baum Stadium and George Cole Field before it—have AstroTurf, leaving the Razorbacks as the only SEC team to play its home games on fake grass.

LSU is 8-7 in games played at Fayetteville and is 41-30 in all games on turf. The vast majority of those games have come at the Superdome in New Orleans, where LSU is 26-15. LSU is 2-

LSU already has experience with the surface in 2003, defeating Northwestern St. on April 9 at Natchitoches and losing to Tulane at the Superdome on April 29. Ironically, Arkansas coach Dave Van Horn was also the coach at Northwestern St. from 1995-97.

Tigers continue SEC dominance at home LSU looks to avoid Fayetteville three-peat Losing consecutive series at one site is a rare occurrence The Tigers' two wins over Auburn last weekend gave LSU series for the LSU baseball program, but losing three straight wins in all five of its home conference series for the first time series at one site is nearly unheard of. LSU has not lost three consecutive SEC series at one road site since the Tigers lost four consecutive series at The 5-0 record in SEC home series is LSU's fourth since the Mississippi State from 1981 through 1985. Prior to the league adopted the 30-game conference schedule in 1996. Since the start of the 1996 season, LSU is 34-5-1 in SEC home Since Skip Bertman's arrival in 1984, LSU has only been series, losing only to Alabama in 1996, Georgia and Mississippi swept at the same site in consecutive visits twice-in St. in 2000, Auburn in 2001 and Vanderbilt in 2002. LSU has now won eight consecutive SEC home series dating back to last year. The Tigers began their current streak by Tigers continue to win big in the SEC sweeping Georgia, Arkansas and Alabama in the final three The two wins over Auburn last weekend at home gave home series of 2002. Tigers hit the 20 mark again

Saturday's 20-3 win over Auburn marked the second time in a five-day span LSU hit the 20-run mark in a game, joining a 21-6 victory over Loyola of New Orleans on May 6. The 20-run games in quick succession were the fastest for LSU since the Tigers defeated Ohio University 26-5 and 20-6 in two games of a three-game weekend series in March of 1999.

Ironically, Auburn was the last SEC team to give up 20 runs to LSU, as the Bayou Bengals drubbed the Tigers of the Plains 20-5 on May, 11 2001.

Since 1991, LSU has hit the 20-run plateau seven times against SEC opponents, with the record coming in a 27-6 rout of Arkansas on March 22, 1998 at The Box. LSU has scored 20 or more runs 25 times since 1984, with the record coming in a 28-8 victory over Evansville on March 14, 1990.

Tigers see double yet again

After going nearly three years without a double-digit inning, the Tigers are making up for lost time in recent weeks.

Saturday's 11-run third inning against Auburn was LSU's second 11-run inning in a three-week span, joining the 11-run fourth inning the Tigers posted on April 27 against Tennessee.

Prior to the uprising in the Tennessee game, LSU hadn't posted double figures in an inning since the 2000 regional against UL-Monroe, when Smoke Laval's Indians gave up 14 to the Tigers in the third inning, as LSU went on to eventually win the national championship.

The Tigers' record for runs in an inning in an SEC game was 14 in the first inning of the 27-6 rout of Arkansas in 1998 (see above). The record for runs in an inning in any LSU game was the 18 the Tigers scored in the seventh inning of the 1996 South II regional championship game vs. Georgia Tech.

Lucky seven

The Tigers' series win over Auburn marks the seventh time in the eight years under the current SEC schedule format that LSU has won at least seven conference series. The Tigers missed out only in 2002, when LSU was 6-3-1 in league series. The single-season record for SEC series wins came in 1986, when LSU was a perfect 9-for-9, which still stands as the league record.

After failing to win any of its first three SEC series of last year, LSU has now won 13 of its last 16 league series, losing only to South Carolina last year and Vanderbilt and Mississippi St. this year, all on the road.

Tigers in the RISP groove

LSU has been a consistent team all season when it comes to collecting hits with runners in scoring position, but over the last three weeks, the Tigers have gone from consistent to lights out.

Since the start of the Tennessee series on April 25, the Tigers are hitting a sizzling .394 (61-for-155) in RISP situations, including a solid .395 clip (15-for-38) in the Auburn series. LSU was a season high 10-for-17 with RBI opportunities in Saturday's big win.

To show just how balanced LSU's RISP hitting has been in recent weeks, the top three hitters in those situations are quite surprising indeed. Leading the way is outfielder Bruce Sprowl, as the little sophomore is batting .533 (8-for-15) in that stretch in RISP situations,. Junior third baseman Ivan Naccarata (6-for-9, .667) and sophomore designated hitter Quinn Stewart (5-for-8, .625) have also produced quite well in their RBI opportunities.

Not surprisingly, big sticks have also been swung by Ryan Patterson (8-for-16, .500) and Clay Harris (8-for-17, .471) in recent weeks with RISP. Of the 13 LSU players who have come to the plate in RISP situations, 12 have at least one hit, and eight of those players have five or more hits.

For the season, LSU is hitting .325 in RISP situations, second in the SEC to Florida's .376 mark. However, in SEC games, LSU's RISP average jumps to .337, 28 points higher than the next closest team, South Carolina at .309.

Tigers continue to score with two out Another clutch component of LSU's efficient offense is its ability to score runs with two out, something the Tigers did 15 times in the three-game series with Auburn. LSU batted .325 (13-for-40) and collected 12 two-out RBI in last weekend's series, continuing LSU's season-long trend of defying the end of an inning.

For the year, the Tigers have collected a stunning 149 two-out RBI, as 40 percent of their season total (149 of 334) have come before the final out. The Tigers have spread the wealth in these situations, as nine LSU players have at least 10 two-out RBI on the year, led by 22 from Clay Harris and 20 from Blake Gill.

The 149 overall two-out RBI leads the SEC, as does the Tigers' 93 two-out RBI in SEC games. In fact, no other team is within 30 two-out RBI of the Tigers' total in conference games, with this weekend's opponent, Arkansas, second at 61 two-out RBI in league games.

Finally, a home run in a pinch

Quinn Stewart's three-run home run on Saturday marked the Tigers' first pinch-hit home run of the 2003 season. Last year, LSU had six pinch-hit home runs, including grand slams by Jason Vargas, Clay Harris and Blake Gill. The last pinch-hit home run for LSU was by Matt Heath last May 12 at Florida.

Hill seeing double, closing in on big year LSU junior shortstop Aaron Hill is seeing double this year— literally—and it has allowed the California native to climb up the Tigers' career charts for doubles.	Liuzza sees double twice as nice LSU catcher Matt Liuzza has been the right man at the right time for the Tigers in their two biggest uprisings of the season, as the true freshman has two hits in both of the Tigers' 11-run innings this year.
Hill, who leads the SEC with 24 two-baggers this season, is tied for seventh for the most doubles in a single season with Jeff Yurtin in 1986 and Chad Cooley in 1995. On his current pace, Hill has a good opportunity to become just the second LSU player to collect 30 doubles in a season. The first was Brad Hawpe, whose 36 doubles in the 2000 national championship season also set an NCAA record. Hill now has 47 doubles for his three-year career, leaving him ninth on the Tiger career chart, and just three shy of becoming just the seventh LSU player to record 50 or more career doubles.	In the 11-run third inning on Saturday against Auburn, Liuzza contributed a pair of RBI doubles in the bit inning, giving him his first game with two doubles in his career. In LSU's 11-run fourth inning on April 27 against Tennessee, Liuzza had an RBI single followed by an RBI double. Liuzza, who went hitless in the Mississippi St. series two week-ends ago, bounced back nicely in the four games last week, batting .417 (5-for-12) with four RBI and an even .500 on-base percentage, and enters the final week of the regular season hitting .290.
Hill slumped a little bit in the Tennessee series and in the first two games at Mississippi St., but in the Tigers' last five games, he is hitting .440 (11-for-25) with nine RBI, including a 3-for-6, 4-RBI effort last Saturday against Auburn.	Tiger hurlers stingy in the clutch LSU hitters may be collecting hits with runners in scoring posi- tion in bunches, but on the flip side, LSU pitchers aren't being quite so generous when it comes to allowing hits to drive in runs.
Hill also continues to lead the SEC in on-base percentage at .474, and is fourth in the league in batting average at .366 and runs scored with 52. The 2002 U.S. national team member also continues to show great patience at the plate, striking out just 14 times in 250 plate appear- ances.	In the Tigers' last 12 games, the LSU pitching staff is allowing opponents to hit just .206 in RISP situations, compared to .394 for LSU hitters. The Tigers were especially effective in the three-game series against Auburn, allowing just a .194 average (7-for-36), with three Auburn runs in the seven-run first inning on Sunday coming courtesy of a hit batter and two bases loaded walks.
Hill has also taken over the league lead in batting average in SEC games at an even .400, while also posting league high marks in on-base percentage (.485) and doubles (16).	For the year, Tiger pitchers are allowing opponents to hit just .238 with RBI opportunities, and that mark has stayed steady in the SEC as well.
Patterson stays sharp with solid series Heading into the final week of the regular season, LSU outfielder Ryan Patterson shows no signs of cooling off. Patterson was the Tigers' leading hitter in the three-game	LSU pitchers have been tough with two out this year, giving up just a .232 mark with the end of an inning looming, a far cry from the 19-for-43 ledger posted by Kansas in the Jayhawks' three-game sweep in February. series against Auburn, batting an even .500 (6-for-12), and true to his consistent nature, collecting two hits in all three games. Patterson's biggest hit of the series, though, came on Friday when he launched a two-out, solo home run in the seventh inning, giving LSU a 6-4 lead. It turned out to be the winning run when Auburn scored once in the eh ninth but could not tie the game.	Inherited runners stay stranded Opposing hitters might cringe if the Tigers make a call to the bull- pen with runners on base, and that's because of the tremendous work done all year by the bullpen corps with inherited runners. Only 13 of 60 inherited runners have scored against LSU reliev- ers this season, a rate of just 21.6 percent. Last year, LSU al-
Patterson is batting a cool .402 in the second half of the year, and he continues to lead the Tigers with a .434 bat- ting average (23 for-53) with runners in scoring position, and a .452 mark (14 for-31) with RISP in SEC games. Pettit comes through with key win Although it wasn't the greatest pitching performance in his long LSU career, for fifth-year senior Bo Petitt, last Saturday's game with Auburn provided the Houston na- tive another chance to gain momentum and confidence heading into the post-season.	Bummer, part II For LSU right-hander Nate Bumstead, Sunday's game against Auburn represented a rare misstep in his first season in a Tiger uniform, as he gave up seven runs in just two-thirds of an inning in a 14-8 defeat.
Pettit, who will take his usual turn in the rotation on Sat- urday here in Fayetteville, struck out eight batters and gave up just three runs over six innings against Auburn, the lowest run total he has allowed in a start since giving up just two runs in a complete game win over Florida on March 15. Pettit got out of a first-inning jam with just one	The loss was the first for the Las Vegas native in eight SEC starts, as Bumstead came into the Auburn game at 7.0 with a 2.80 ERA in the SEC, having given up just eight runs total in his previous three conference starts. The seven runs were one more than his previous high yielded in an SEC game, which was six on March 30 at Alabama.
run, and coasted from there after the Tigers built a 17-1 lead through three innings.	For Bumstead, Sunday's game against Auburn brought back memories of his last loss, which was to Kansas way back on February 16 in the finale of that series. In the game against the
The win gave Pettit his 26th career victory, tying him for ninth on the LSU career list with current Chicago Cubs hurler Mark Guthrie, who won 26 from 1984 through 1987. outs, leaving him nine away from moving into the LSU top 10 in that category. Tigers to flip Meier, Bumstead in rotation	Bumstead became the first LSU starting pitcher to get knocked out of a game in the first inning since Brandon Bowe failed to retire a batter in the first game of the 1999 super regional at Alabama.

With one weekend left in the regular season, the LSU coaching staff will take the series at Arkansas to experiment a little bit with the Tigers' pitching rotation for the upcoming post-season.	Five is Meier's magic number For LSU freshman Justin Meier, run support has been the differ- ence between victory and defeat throughout the season.
The change this weekend is that the Tigers will swap freshman Justin Meier and junior Nate Bumstead in the rotation. Bumstead, who went just 2/3 of an inning in losing to Auburn on Sunday, will now get the call in Fri- day's series opener in Fayetteville, while Meier will get two extra days of rest and start Sunday's regular season	The math has not been too hard to figure out: when LSU scores five or more runs with Meier on the mound, the Tigers win. That has been the case five times this season, including LSU's 6-5 win over Auburn last Friday. Meier was also supported well in wins over Centenary (15), UL-Monroe (9), South Carolina (5) and Tennessee (17).
finale. Saturday starter Bo Pettit will remain in his usual slot.	On the other hand, LSU is just 1-5 this year when the Tigers
The move is to see if Bumstead can pitch on short rest in the post-season should LSU need him to do so. Bum- stead could see action in Sunday's game if he does not throw an excessive number of pitches on Friday. Bum- stead will likely start again next Thursday in LSU's second	can't get to five runs for Meier. Meier's only win when LSU was held under five runs came on March 5 against Southeastern Louisiana in a 4-2 triumph. In SEC play, Meier took the loss in games against Ole Miss (7-2) and Vanderbilt (4-2), and while the Tigers fell at Mississippi St. on May 2 by a 4-2 count, Meier did not get the decision.
	LSU has averaged just 6.09 runs in the 11 games Meier has started this year, compared to 8.82 runs in Bo Pettit's 11 st and 8.80 in Nate Bumstead's 10 starts.

Where LSU's offense ranks in the SEC

Throughout the 2003 season, LSU's offense has been the SEC's best in conference games, but heading into the final weekend of the regular season, the Tigers find themselves at or near the top of many categories for all games, not just conference games. Tigers move up in pseudo-RPI

LSU's 2-1 series win over Auburn last weekend moved the Tigers up two spots in the latest edition of the pseudo-RPIs published by Boyd Nation of Birmingham. The ratings, which are available on the Internet at www.boydsworld.com, are an approximation of the Ratings Percentage Index formula that the NCAA Division I Baseball Committee (including LSU athletic director Skip Bertman) uses to select the field of 64 teams and seed them accordingly.

The RPI's three components are as follows: winning percentage (25 percent), strength of schedule (50 percent), and a the strength of schedule of a given team's opponents (25 percent). The 2002 Tigers finished ninth in the official RPI released by the NCAA following the season.

LSU is up to No. 6 in this week's rankings after standing in eighth prior to the Auburn series. Auburn is ranked No. 2 in this week's ratings for the third consecutive week, behind Florida St., which is also ranked first in all three media polls. Auburn had been first in the pseudo-RPIs until losing two of three to Vanderbilt two weeks ago. Georgia Tech is third behind FSU and Auburn, followed by Stanford, Rice, LSU, Miami, Texas, Cal St. Fullerton and Baylor in the Top 10.

Here is a breakdown of how LSU stacks up against various teams in the RPI. Note that the Tigers' game on May 6 against Loyola of New Orleans does NOT count, as Loyola is not a Division I school.

A quality start is defined as a starting performance of six or more innings allowing fewer than four earned runs, OR if a pitcher allows ZERO earned runs in five or more innings.

If a pitcher throws a predetermined number of innings or is on a pitch count and meets all other criteria for a quality start, he shall be credited with a quality start. Such situations are noted with an asterisk.

Complete games wins, regardless of runs allowed, are always considered quality starts. Games that LSU eventually lost are in bold.

LSU Pitchers baserunners per inning ratio

This chart tells how many baserunners a pitcher is putting on base per inning, not counting errors by the defense that allow extra baserunners to reach base. The ratio is found by adding up the number of hits, walks and hit batsmen allowed per inning and dividing it by the innings pitched.

IR-immediate response; times a team responds to an opponent by scoring in the next half inning.

GA—Giveaways: total # of runs a team gives up in the half inning immediately after scoring runs. If LSU scores one run in the bottom of the eighth but gives up two in the top of the ninth, it counts as two "giveaway" runs.

TA-Takeaways: total # of runs a team scores in the half inning immediately after the opponent scores.

Net: Net of giveaways and takeaways after counting runs that were scored by the opponent in the half inning immediately preceding the giveaway and/or takeaway. For example, if LSU scores one run in the bottom of the eighth inning, but gives up one run in the top of the ninth, the net is zero. Therefore, the net figure does not necessarily add up to the total of giveaways and takeaways.

May 16 in LSU baseball history

2001–Jason Scobie throws a four-hit, complete game shutout in the opening round of the SEC Tournam ent as the Tigers blast Florida, 10-0, in a game that is called after seven innings by the 10-run rule. LSU breaks the game open with a seven-run second inning, highlighted by a three-run home run by Mike Fontenot and a two-run triple by Matt Heath.

1999–Behind a pair of triples by Jeff Leaumont, LSU overcomes a 3-1 deficit and goes on to a 6-4 victory over Kentucky in the regular season finale. Leaumont ties a school record for triples in a game and allows LSU to finish third in the SEC at 18-11-1, the Tigers' 10th season of 18 or more conference wins in an 11-year stretch, a streak that continued this year.

1997–Eddy Furniss ties a school record with three doubles, while Brandon Larson contributed a three-run double in the ninth inning of a 12-5 SEC Tournament win over Tennessee.

1996–Eddie Yarnall fires a complete game four-hitter in the opening game of the SEC Tournament as LSU defeats Tennessee, 3-1.
