Long Beach St.
Game 11

Friday, February 28, 6:30 p.m.
Blair Field, Long Beach

California, here we come: LSU visits Long Beach State in the Fighting Tigers' first trip to the Golden State.

➢ LSU has not played since winning 5-2 on Sunday over Houston, giving the Tigers a two-game split of the series.
➢ Prior to this season, LSU's farthest trip west was to play at Nevada-Las Vegas in 1991. LSU played at Arizona State in 2001 in the Tigers' other trip west of the Rocky Mountains.
➢ LSU is 1-0 on the road this season, with the only game away from Alex Box Stadium being a 15-0 victory over Centenary in Shreveport on February 11.
➢ Following this series, LSU plays seven of its next eight at Alex Box Stadium, leaving only for a March 11 game against Tulane at Zephyr Field.

Scouting the 49ers: The "Dirtbags" enter the weekend at 8-4 against one of the nation's toughest early-season schedules.

➢ Long Beach has won five of its last six outings, sweeping a three-game series from Washington St. and winning two of three over California last weekend at Blair Field.
➢ The 49ers opened the season with back-to-back series against Pac-10 superpowers Arizona State and USC. Long Beach lost two of three to the Sun Devils in Tempe, but took two of three from the Trojans.
➢ The Dirtbags' top pitcher is All-America candidate Abe Alvarez, who is 4-0 with a 1.23 ERA on the season.
➢ Alvarez was a teammate of LSU infielder Aaron Hill on the U.S. National Team that won a silver medal at the World University Games last August in Italy.
➢ Long Beach pitchers have posted a sterling 2.69 ERA on the season and are allowing a .231 opponents' batting average.
➢ The 49ers' steadiest position player has been outfielder Steve Velazco, who is hitting .375 with a team-high seven runs scored.

About the series: LSU leads the all-time series, 6-2, including last year's 2-1 series victory in Baton Rouge.

➢ Alvarez pitched Long Beach to an 8-3 victory in the series opener, but LSU won the last two games, 10-2 and 5-4 in 11 innings.
➢ Matt Heath gave LSU the victory in the series finale with his solo home run in the 11th inning. The game was the coldest recorded game on record at LSU, with a first-pitch temperature of 31 degrees.
➢ The teams have met four times in the College World Series. LSU won 8-5 in a 1989 elimination game, and the Tigers won two of three meetings in 1993 (7-1, 8-10, 6-5).
➢ Long Beach's first visit to Baton Rouge came in the 1997 South I Regional. The 49ers were 2-2 in the regional, including a 14-7, 11-inning victory by LSU in an elimination game.
➢ LSU is 24-9 all-time against California schools, with 27 overall meetings in NCAA tournament play and 13 in the College World Series.

Westward ho!

For the first time in its 110 years of baseball, LSU is making the trek to the Pacific Ocean, facing Long Beach St. this weekend at the 49ers' Blair Field.

Only twice before have the Fighting Tigers played baseball west of the Rocky Mountains. LSU won two of three at Nevada-Las Vegas in 1991, and in 2001, LSU went 2-0-1 in a three-game series at Arizona State.

The last LSU team to play in the Los Angeles area was Sue Gunter's Lady Tiger basketball team, who lost to Louisiana Tech in a 1999 West regional semi-final at the Los Angeles Sports Arena. LSU's men's basketball team has played in the L.A. area on several occasions, most recently in 1993 at UCLA, while Bill Arnsparger's football team defeated USC 23-3 in 1984 at the Memorial Coliseum.

LSU does have a history in California with Long Beach State, just not in baseball. The 1991 Tiger volleyball team reached the Final Four at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion, where Long Beach State ousted LSU in the semifinals with a four-game triumph. The 49ers' star that year was Danielle Scott, a future U.S. Olympian who prepped at Baton Rouge's Woodlawn High

LSU's history with California

The Long Beach series will be the Tigers' first trip to California, but LSU has a rich history against teams from the Golden State.

Two of LSU's four College World Series games against Stanford have been among the most memorable, with vastly different outcomes. The Tigers won the 2000 national championship on Brad Cresse's base hit in the bottom of the ninth with a 6-5 triumph over the Cardinal, but in 1987, Ben McDonald gave up a grand slam to Paul Carey that gave Stanford a 6-5 triumph in 10 innings, propelling the Cardinal to its first championship. In both cases, the winning team rallied from a 5-2 deficit. LSU also took 13-9 and 10-5 decisions from the Cardinal in the 1997 CWS en route to the championship.

To reach the 2000 CWS, LSU swept UCLA in the super regional, defeating the Bruins 9-2 and 14-8.

LSU and USC also have a rich, albeit brief, history. The Trojans and Tigers played three one-run games in the 1990 South Regional, with USC winning the first meeting to advance to the championship game, but LSU came back to win on consecutive days to reach the CWS. After LSU beat USC twice in the 1994 South Regional, the teams met again in Omaha in 1998. LSU hit eight home runs in the first game of the CWS for a 12-10 victory, but after coming within one strike of elimination, the Trojans rallied for five consecutive victories and the national championship, denying LSU's hopes for a third consecutive national title with 5-4 and 7-3 victories. LSU earned a measure of revenge in 2000 with a 10-4 victory en route to the championship.

Long Beach State's rivals from the Big West Conference, Cal St.-Fullerton, also has waged great games with LSU. The Titans are responsible for the Tigers' two worst losses in NCAA tournament history—11-0 in the 1992 South I Regional and 20-6 in the 1994 College World Series, and the Titans also won the 1995 South Regional at Alex Box Stadium without facing LSU. But the Tigers got their revenge in 1998, rallying from a 7-0 deficit to claim a 13-11 victory in the South II regional, and LSU punched its ticket to Omaha the next day with a 14-3 rout.

LSU is also 2-0 against Fresno St., winning 15-3 in the 1991 CWS and 6-2 in the 1994 South Regional.

Prior to last year's series with Long Beach, the Tigers' only regular season meetings with California teams came in the 1988 Busch Challenge in the Superdome in New Orleans. LSU lost to Cal St.-Fullerton and defeated USC and UCLA.

LSU enters the weekend as...an underdog?

The battle between LSU and Long Beach State this weekend will be a watershed event for LSU's baseball team, as for the first time in the program's history, LSU enters a non-conference weekend series ranked lower than its opponent. The Tigers are ranked no higher than 13th in any of the three major polls, while Long Beach is ranked ninth by Collegiate Baseball and 11th by both Baseball America and ESPN/USA Today.

Tigers have rich California pipeline

You might not think a school located 2,400 miles from California would have many players from the Golden State, but in the Skip Bertman-Smoke Laval era, LSU has dug up quite a few prospects out of the rich baseball mines of California.

The Tigers' best find from the Golden State came from Long Beach State's backyard. In the fall of 1995, LSU signed a catcher from nearby Seal Beach High named Brad Cresse, the son of Los Angeles Dodgers bullpen coach Mark Cresse. In his four years at LSU, Cresse earned All-America honors twice, help the Tigers win national championships in 1997 and 2000, with his final hit for the Tigers scoring Ryan Theriot with the national championship winning run in the 2000 CWS title game against Stanford. Cresse is second on the SEC's career home run list with 78, two behind former teammate Eddy Furniss' 80.

This year's LSU team features five California natives, three of whom will be in uniform this weekend. Leading the way from the Golden State are infielder Aaron Hill (Visalia) and starting pitcher Jake Tompkins (Auburn), along with backup catcher Shawn French (San Mateo). Eric Wiethorn, a native of nearby Newport Beach, will not play this weekend due to a knee injury suffered last week, while reserve catcher Ty Jensen is also a San Mateo native who will likely redshirt this season.

Tompkins is the latest in a long line of LSU players to hail from Sacramento City College in the last eight seasons. Former Tigers from "Sac City" include catcher Conan Horton, pitchers Brandon Bowe and Jake Esteves, and outfielder David Raymer.

The California trend got its start in the mid-1980s when Bertman and Laval came to Baton Rouge. As recruiting coordinator, Laval brought in four California natives who were all starters on LSU's first CWS team in 1986: first baseman Jim Bowie, third baseman Jeff Yurtin, left fielder Rob Hartwig (LSU's single-season stolen base leader), and catcher Rob Leary. Another early product from California, Craig Cala, was an All-SEC outfielder in 1989, leading LSU back to Omaha.

Tigers battle another ranked foe in 49ers

For the second consecutive weekend, LSU is facing a ranked team, as Long Beach St. enters at #9 in the Collegiate Baseball poll and #11 in the Baseball America and ESPN/USA Today polls.

This marks the second time in four years that LSU has faced ranked teams on back-to-back weekends in non-conference play, as the Tigers took on Arizona State and Houston at home in 2000. But such occurrences outside of conference play are indeed rare; the cases in 2000 and 2003 are the only times in LSU's 110-year history, not counting tournaments and the Winn-Dixie Showdown, the Tigers have faced ranked non-conference foes on consecutive weekends.

Road Warriors

LSU faces its first weekend road series of the season, and although the Tigers have won more than 80 percent of their home games sine 1984, the road has been not so bad since the turn of the millennium.

Since the 2000 season, LSU is a solid 57-32-1 in all games played away from Baton Rouge, and 43-29-1 in contests on an opponents' home field. The Tigers were 13-12 in 2002 in games on enemy turf and are 1-0 in road games in 2003 after a 15-0 victory at Centenary on February 11.

LSU was 6-3 in 2002 in non-conference road games, not counting the post-season.

Since 1998, LSU is 6-5-1 in non-conference weekend games on the road, not counting the Winn-Dixie Showdown. The Tigers lost two of three at Texas (1998) and Houston (2002), won two of three at Central Florida in 2000 and was 2-0-1 at Arizona State in 2001.

Tiger foes not seeing double

Lost in the shuffle of the early season road trip is the fact the Tigers have yet to allow an opponent to score in double figures this season.

The streak of holding opponents out of double figures stands at 18 runs entering the Long Beach State series. The last time an opponent hit 10 runs was in last year's SEC Tournament when South Carolina beat LSU 10-8 on May 25.

In fact, that game with the Gamecocks is the only time LSU has allowed double figures in its last 45 outings. The Tigers gave up 10 or more runs only six times last year and have yielded double figures just 13 times in 143 games since the start of the 2001 season, compared to 13 times in 69 games in the 2000 national championship season.

Tigers are seeing double, though

LSU tied a school record on Sunday by grounding into four double plays against Houston. In 10 games this season, LSU has hit into 14 double plays, the highest total in the SEC. On this pace, Tiger batters will hit into 78 double plays in the regular season after hitting into only 60 in 66 games in 2002.

Hitting hanging in the balance

LSU's .299 batting average may not be the most impressive, but the Tigers continue to get contributions from just about everybody at the plate.

No LSU player has more than 12 hits (Quinn Stewart) on the season, but 10 players have at least five hits this season, and four are in double figures already. Of the Tigers' 98 hits this season, 32 of them are for extra bases (19 doubles, 5 triples, 8 home runs), as 10 different LSU players have at least one extra base hit.

Run production has also been distributed quite evenly throughout the roster. Seven LSU players have scored six runs or more, and six Tigers have collected at least five RBI.

Five LSU players (among qualifiers for the batting average leaders) are hitting .300 or above heading into the Long Beach St. series, although no Tiger is hitting above .348, Ryan Patterson's team-leading average.

Naccarata masters new position, hitting

Ivan Naccarata is looking more and more like the hitter the Tigers envisioned when the Canadian transferred from Chipola Junior College at midyear. Naccarata heads to the west coast with a seven-game hitting streak, batting .375 (6-for-16) during the streak after starting 4-for-17.

On Sunday, Naccarata hit his first career home run for LSU, a two-run shot in the sixth that doubled LSU's lead from 2-0 to 4-0. Of Naccarata's 10 hits, four have gone for extra bases, giving him a .515 slugging percentage.

Defensively, Naccarata has not committed an error in his last six games, the last two coming at third base after starting the early portion of the schedule at second base.

Harris makes most of opportunity

For the first time in his LSU career, Will Harris started back-to-back games in the Houston series, and the Slidell native made the most of the opportunity, going 3-for-6 against the Cougars to finish as the Tigers' top hitter in the series.

Harris was 2-for-2 in Sunday's 5-2 victory, driving in LSU's first run with a sacrifice fly, then adding a double and scoring the Tigers' final run in the seventh inning. In his limited action this year, Harris has shown flashes of potential, batting .357 (5-for-14) with a pair of RBI.

Harris, the younger brother of LSU pitcher/infielder Clay Harris, has also handled 39 chances in the field without an error.

RISP a barometer for Tiger fortunes

Getting hits with runners in scoring position is one of the most telling statistics in a team's success, and for LSU so far in 2003, this has been no exception.

In the Tigers' six victories, LSU is batting .424 (28-for-66) in RISP situations, while in its four losses, that average plummets all the way to .162 (6-for-37).

On Sunday, LSU defeated Houston despite being only 1-for-5 in RISP situations, the first time the Tigers had fewer than two hits in those situations in a win this season.

LSU is hitting .330 on the season in RISP situations. Bruce Sprowl is 3-for-7 in those situations, while Ivan Naccarata and Aaron Hill are both 4-for-11.

Hill, Gill looking to bust loose

The Tigers' two top hitters early in the season, Aaron Hill and Blake Gill, have struggled as of late. The tandem went a combined 0-for-15 in last week's three games against Louisiana-Monroe and Houston, although the pair did reach base by walking a combined seven times.

Gill started the season 8-for-16, but has since slumped to a .288 average by going 2-for-19, while Hill has fallen from .429 to .310 with his 0-for-8 ledger last week.

Weaver returns to lineup

LSU catcher Dustin Weaver returned to the Tiger lineup in the Houston series, starting both games and going a combined 2-for-4. Weaver drove in LSU's final run of a 5-2 victory on Sunday with an RBI single in the seventh inning to score Will Harris.

Weaver missed five games from February 11-18 after suffering a shoulder injury while lifting weights.

Strikeouts cut down

LSU's batting average may be lower than this time in 2002, but the Tigers have shown improvement in patience at the plate.

Through 10 games last year, the Tigers have struck out 13 fewer times (54) than they did at this point in 2002 (67). Aaron Hill and Bruce Sprowl have fanned only once each this season.

Wilson turns in best effort

Not only did LSU hurler Brian Wilson need a personal bounce back on Sunday against Houston, but the Tigers needed a strong effort from the New Hampshire native to avoid losing their fifth game in the last six outings.

Wilson came through and then some, taking a shutout into the eighth inning before settling for a six-hitter and a 5-2 victory. Wilson threw just 88 pitches in seven-plus innings, yielding only six singles and walking none while striking out five. Wilson gave up two unearned runs in the eighth inning, but retired the side in order of four of the first seven innings and at one point retired 10 consecutive batters in the second through fifth innings.

Seven days earlier, Wilson gave up five runs on 11 hits in taking a loss in the second game of the Kansas series. The Houston game allowed Wilson to shave more than two and a half runs off of his ERA, from 6.75 to 4.08.

Wilson will take his turn in the starting rotation this weekend at Long Beach St., but in 2002, he turned in a sterling relief appearance against the 49ers, throwing three scoreless innings in the series finale and earning the victory when Matt Heath hit the game-winning home run in the 11th inning.

Pettit closes the deal in first outing of 2003

The heavy rains that wiped out the first game of the Houston series last Friday also cost Bo Pettit his first start of the 2003 season, which was scheduled for the third game of the series. But Pettit still found a way to contribute against the Cougars.

Houston native Pettit made his first relief appearance since March of 2001 in the series finale against the Cougars and pitched two scoreless innings to notch his first career save. Pettit walked the first batter he faced to load the bases, but retired the next six batters in order to end the game, striking out three.

Pettit, who started 19 games last season, will make his first start of the season this weekend in Long Beach.

Tigers play the lineup shuffle

In LSU's first two games of the season against Northwestern St., LSU used the same lineup in both games, However, since those first two games, LSU has not used the same lineup in any two games, going through eight different lineups in the last eight games. Two players—Aaron Hill and Blake Gill—have started every game, but not at the same position. The only constant in the order is that the catcher—Dustin Weaver, Matt Liuzza or Shawn French—has always batted ninth in the order.

Cutting off the clutch hits

LSU pitchers continue to do a fine job of limiting opposing hits with runners in scoring position, with Tiger hurlers yielding just a .211 batting average in RISP situations. Of the 19 hits in those situations, it should be noted that five came in one inning—the third inning of the series finale against Kansas on February 16, when the Jayhawks scored seven runs on eight hits with two out.

In RISP situations with two out, LSU is limiting foes to a .186 batting average. Jake Tompkins has not allowed a hit in seven such situations, retiring five of those seven batters with strikeouts, while Brian Wilson has allowed just one hit and one walk in 11 at-bats in those situations.

Tigers raise slugging percentage

LSU's 32 extra base hits this season have allowed the Tigers to significantly raise their slugging percentage from the same point last season. Going into the Long Beach series, the Tigers' slugging percentage stands at .460, 56 points higher than it was after 10 games in 2002 (.404).

LSU has five more extra base hits through 10 games this year than it did in 2002, including three more doubles (19 to 16) and two more home runs (8 to 6).

Tigers facing steady southpaw diet

When Long Beach State's Abe Alvarez takes the mound against LSU, it will mark the ninth time this season the Tigers will have faced a left-handed starting pitcher. The 49ers are undecided at press time on a third starter for their rotation, leaving open the possibility the Tigers could face a pair of southpaws.

With all the practice LSU has been getting against southpaws, it's no surprise LSU has raised its average against left-handers, hitting .319 so far this year compared to .288 in the 2002 season. The biggest improvement has come from Blake Gill, who was 3-for-26 (.115) against lefties last year, but is 7-for-21 (.333) this season.

Unfortunately, LSU's batting average against right-handed pitchers has fallen off from last year's .313 mark to .270 through the first 10 games of this season. LSU has won its only two outings against right-handed starters, defeating Northwestern State on February 8 and Houston's Brad Sullivan last Sunday.

LSU Coach Smoke Laval

Smoke Laval had a very successful first year as LSU's coach, leading the Tigers to the NCAA Super Regional round for the fourth consecutive year and posting a 44-22 record. For his efforts, Laval was named the Louisiana Sportswriters' Association Louisiana coach of the year.

Laval was named Skip Bertman's successor on July 18, 2000, and spent the 2001 season as the LSU administrative assistant. From 1994-2000, Laval coached for seven years at Louisiana-Monroe, guiding the Indians to three NCAA regional berths (1995, 1999, 2000) and a 241-159 mark. Among Laval's pupils at ULM was Ben Sheets, a 2000 member of the United States Olympic gold medal team and a 2001 major league all-star with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Laval was Bertman's top assistant at LSU from 1984-1993, helping the Tigers reach the College World series six times and win the national championship in 1991 and 1993. Laval was also a graduate assistant at LSU under Jack Lamabe in 1979 and an assistant at Florida in 1982 and 1983.
