THE SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE

The Southeastern Conference has continued its rise as one of the top conferences in women's soccer.

The 2004 women's soccer season reaffirmed the SEC's prominence in the country. Three teams from the SEC were invited to the NCAA tournament. Auburn, Florida and Tennessee made the 64-team field. The three teams combined for a record of 3-3 with the Lady Vols advancing to the Third Round before falling at Ohio State. The SEC now has a 33-34-3 (.493) NCAA Tournament record in 31 appearances.

SEC women's soccer will begin its 13th season in the year of 2005 deeply rooted in the national scene of collegiate soccer. Since the SEC initiated women's soccer as a varsity sport in 1993, the sport's popularity has grown through the country and especially in the Southeast. A definitive point in the SEC's women's soccer success came in 1995 when FOX Sports South broadcasted the SEC Tournament Championship match between Alabama and Kentucky on a tape-delayed basis, signifying the first appearance of an SEC women's soccer match on television. Southeastern Conference women's soccer continued to grow over the next couple of years as the conference made a name for itself nationally. In 1998, the SEC had its breakout season with Florida winning the conference's first NCAA title in women's soccer in just the program's fourth year of existence. The league led the nation with six NCAA Tournament teams that year, an accomplishment which firmly inserted the SEC as one the major conferences in women's soccer. The SEC also made bigger strides in its television coverage with three regular season matches and the SEC Tournament championship match shown live on the SEC-TV package. In 2004, SEC-TV's women's soccer coverage was four regular-season matches, in addition to the SEC Tournament championship match. That incremental growth combined with increasing exposure on the national and regional scene has SEC women's soccer looking to blossom to new heights in the year 2005 and beyond.
