A New Attitude

In just one season, Adam Schmitt has transcended the attitude of the LSU program back to the golden days of the late 1980s. Schmitt has seen first hand what it takes to build a championship program as a top assistant at Auburn and Arizona State. What Schmitt and his staff stress is preparation, teaching and focus. Competing against top opponents on a regular basis is something every LSU swimmer and diver has the opportunity to do now. With a rigorous offseason training program, Schmitt has also emphasized a chance for his student-athletes to participate in national and international competitions following the completion of the Tigers' dual-meet and championship seasons. Last season, LSU qualified swimmers and divers for the World Championships, U.S. National Championships and U.S. Olympic Trials. It's just the beginning for a program that enters its 38th men's season and 27th women's campaign.

Adam Schmitt became the school's seventh women's head coach and eighth men's head coach on June 22, 2004.

Schmitt was a member of the only SEC Championship squad in 1988. As a sprinter, Schmitt won the 50 freestyle three times during his career and still holds the school record for the 100 freestyle with a time of 43.22. Schmitt swam under the direction of former head coach Sam Freas, who served a three-year tenure from 1985 to 1988, still owns the highest winning percentage in school history. He guided the men's team to a 28-6 (.824) career record and captured one SEC Championship and the school's highest NCAA finish, sixth in 1988. He also helped lead the women's squad to a 31-8 (.795) career record. During the 1986-87 season, Freas led the women's team the only perfect record in school history when the Lady Tigers finished the season with a 10-0 record.

The LSU program has featured 12 Olympians in its history.

Most recently, sprinter Mandy Leach represented the country of Zimbabwe in the 2000 Summer Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia. Leach qualified and finished 13th in the finals of the 200 freestyle against the world's best. Sion Brinn, a letterman from 1994-95, also competed in the 2000 Olympics for Great Britain. Brinn is one of six former LSU athletes who have competed in Olympic competition more than once. Samantha Purvis served for Great Britain as well, making appearances in 1984, 1988 and 1992. Several young LSU swimmers could be on the verge of qualifying for the 2008 Beijing Games.

LSU has six NCAA champions to its credit, including four divers.

All-American divers Ashley Culpepper and Jamie Watkins won the 3-meter and 1-meter, respectively in 2000 at the NCAA Championships. They became the first NCAA title holders at LSU in six years. Both Alison Maisch and Susie Ryan have NCAA titles to their credit as well. Todd Torres and Mark Andrews are the only two swimmers in school history to win at the NCAA Championships. Both teammates of head coach Adam Schmitt, Torres won the 100 breaststroke title in 1987 and Andrews was victorious in the 50 freestyle in 1988.

“A championship mentality is what we are creating here. Competing against the best, qualifying for championships, and experiencing the LSU tradition is something that every student-athlete should have an opportunity to do.”

SEC Swimming and Diving: The Best in the Nation

TIGER HISTORY

While arguments persist over which conference is the best in the nation in several sports, that is not the case in swimming and diving. The Southeastern Conference continues to prove that its nine member institutions form the premiere league in NCAA swimming and diving. On the men's side, Auburn won its third straight national title, while all eight SEC teams placed in the top 30 nationally last March. Fellow league member, Georgia, captured the women's national championship. Three SEC women's teams finished in the top five. The SEC also sent the most swimmers of any conference to the U.S. Nationals and World Championships.

2004-05 Season Review Notebook

Tigers Place 27th at NCAA Championships

The men's team wrapped up NAAs in a tie for 27th place with Louisville. LSU earned nine points during the three-day event held at Minnesota's Aquatic Center in Minneapolis. The Tigers were led by senior swimmer Christian Clausen and freshman diver Niko Dalman. Clausen placed fifth in the consolation final (13th overall) with a career-fast time of 1:57.89, the third-best mark in school history. Dalman placed 12th in the 1-meter and also scored in the 3-meter and platform. Sprinter Miko Malberg took 32nd out of 50 participants in the 50 freestyle, swimming a time of 20.03. Fellow SEC school Auburn won the men's title for the third straight season.

Dalman, Clausen Earn All-American Finishes

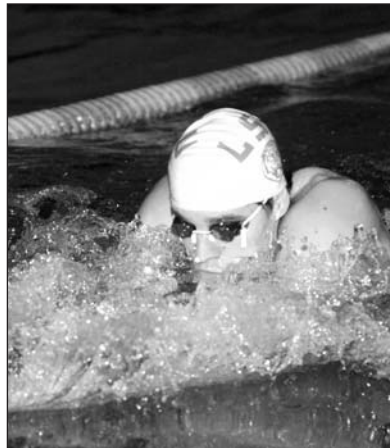

Niko Dalman became the fourth diver in school history to earn All-America honors as a freshman with his honorable mention 12th-place finish in the 1-meter at the NCAA Championships. He is also the highest scoring diver in the 1-meter at NAAs since Eric Petursson and Corey Fox finished in the top 16 in 2001. Senior Christian Clausen closed out his career with an honorable mention All-America finish in the 200 breaststroke. Clausen took 13th overall with the third-fastest time in school history (1:57.89). It was a tremendous way to close out a career that now includes three All-America honors in two seasons. In 2004, Clausen earned honorable mention All-America accolades in the 200 and 400 medley relays. He becomes the sixth swimmer in school history to achieve All-America status in the 200 breaststroke and the first since Jarrod Marrs did so in 1998. Clausen joins a prestigious list of 20 LSU men's swimmers who have earned All-America honors at least three or more times during their careers. Over half of the list lettered for four years, while Clausen did it in two.

Dalman Voted SEC Freshman Diver of the Year

Niko Dalman was voted by the league's coaches as the SEC Freshman Diver of the Year in 2004-05. Dalman, a native of Auburn, Wash., became the first freshman diver in school history to receive the prestigious award. He proved to be the Tigers' most valuable diver and was a constant scorer in all three events all season. Dalman wrapped up a successful first-year campaign with an honorable mention All-America performance in the 1-meter at the NCAA Championships. He scored better than nearly two-thirds of the field with a 12th-place mark of 301.50. In reaching the NAAs, Dalman was the lone freshman who qualified for the national event at the Zone B Regionals, featuring the conference's best divers.

Cannizzaro Named to Academic All-America Team

Leon Cannizzaro was named to the ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America Men's At-Large Third Team. It was announced by CoSIDA. Cannizzaro, a native of Metairie, La., graduated from LSU in the spring of 2005 with a perfect 4.00 grade point average in biology and is currently enrolled in LSU Medical School. Cannizzaro earned SEC Academic Honor Roll honors twice during his career, and he was named a first-team District VI All-American as well. The Men's At-Large squad for the Academic All-America program includes the sports of fencing, golf, gymnastics, hockey, lacrosse, rifle, skiing, tennis, volleyball, water polo and wrestling. Cannizzaro becomes the first LSU swimmer to be named to the prestigious squad, and he is the fifth LSU representative selected to a national academic list this year.

Christian Clausen

Brand Competes at World Championships

LSU swimmer Heather Brand concluded the FINA World Swimming Championships with success in five events at the prestigious event held in Montreal. Brand, a native of Harare, Zimbabwe, opened the competition with the women's 100-meter butterfly. She finished 40th in the preliminaries of the 100-meter freestyle with a time of 58.85. The following day, Brand earned a top-30 finish in the 50-meter fly, swimming a mark of 27.83 to take 27th-place out of 69 participants. She wrapped up the meet in the 50-meter free, placing 32nd with a final time of 26.65.

Wantz, Brand Represent Lady Tigers at NAAs

Jessica Wantz and Heather Brand each represented the LSU women at the NCAA Championships. Wantz closed out her three-time All-America career by scoring in all three diving events. Brand, in her first NCAA appearance, placed 29th in the 100 butterfly (54.73) and 49th in the 50 freestyle (23.45).

Wantz Closes Out Stellar Career

Diver Jessica Wantz closed a storied career at the NCAA Championships last spring. The Houston, Texas, native earned three All-America awards and two SEC Diver of the Week honors during her four-year campaign. In 2004-05, Wantz won a school record 12 straight events in dual meets, including every meet during the month of January.

Jessica Wantz

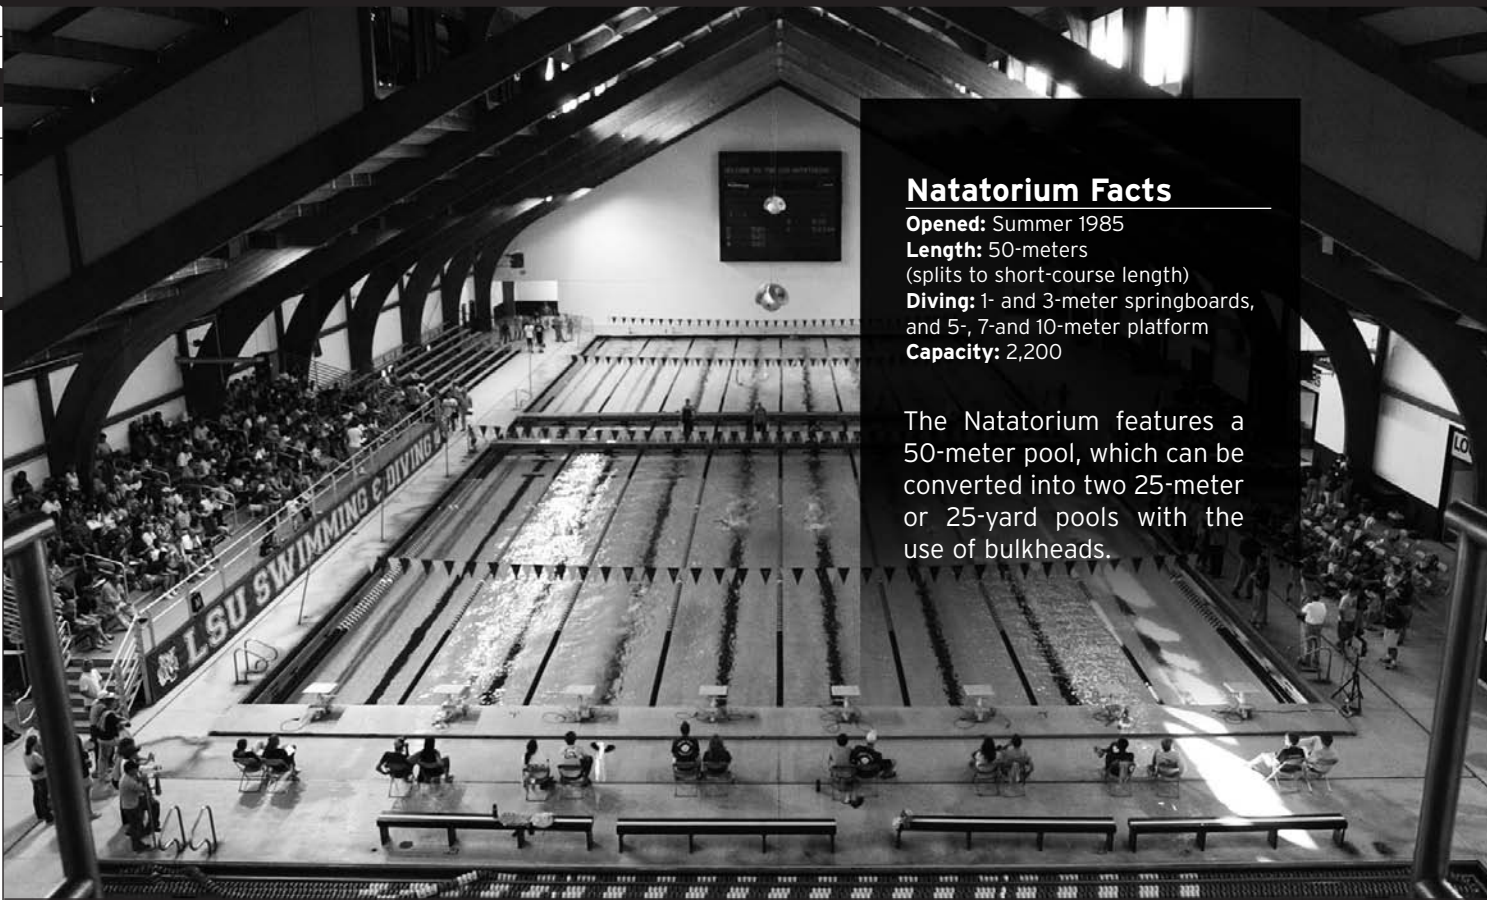

Saucier, Brown Earn Experience at U.S. Nationals

In what surely is proven experience for the future, divers Hali Saucier and Paige Brown qualified for the U.S. National Championships last summer. Saucier earned a berth in the 1-meter springboard with a runner-up finish at the Zone C Midwest Championships. She also qualified in the platform by finishing fourth. Brown also participated in the platform. The two became the first LSU divers of the new millennium to qualify for the national championships.

Men Seventh, Women Eighth at SEC Championships

The LSU men finished seventh, while the LSU women took eighth as the SEC Championships came to a close. The Tiger men ended the four-day event with 189.5 points, while the women ended the championships with 181. Top-ranked Auburn captured its third consecutive league title with 829.5 points on the men's side and 816 points on the women's side. Christian Clausen closed out his final SEC Championship appearance, taking fourth-place in the championship final of the men's 200 breaststroke. Kevin Braud won the men's 200 backstroke consolation final with the third-fastest time in school history, an NCAA "B" cut time of 1:45.76. Miko Malberg, Heather Brand and Colleen Bertirotti each posted school all-time top 10 times in qualifying for finals of their respective events.

Natorium Facts

Opened: Summer 1985
Length: 50-meters
 (splits to short-course length)
Diving: 1- and 3-meter springboards, and 5-, 7- and 10-meter platform
Capacity: 2,200

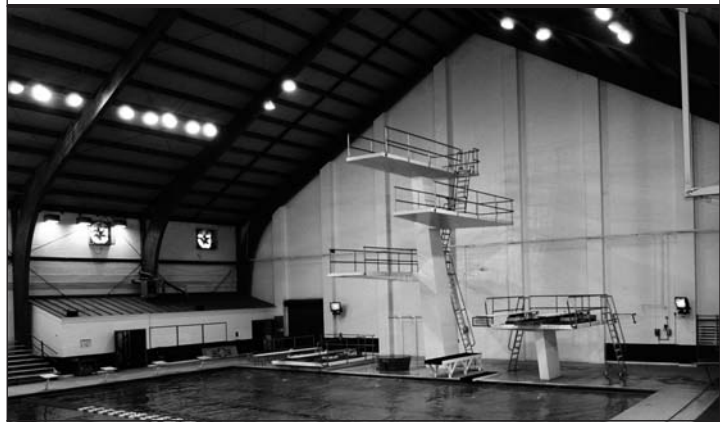

The Natatorium features a 50-meter pool, which can be converted into two 25-meter or 25-yard pools with the use of bulkheads.

The LSU Natatorium has served as the exclusive home of the swimming and diving team since the summer of 1985. The facility has played host to several national competitions, including the 1985 National Sports Festival, the 1986 Men's Southeastern Conference Championships, the 1987 NCAA Diving Regional and the U.S. Diving National Championships in the spring of 1987. The Natatorium was also the host facility during the 1999 NCAA Regional Diving Championships.

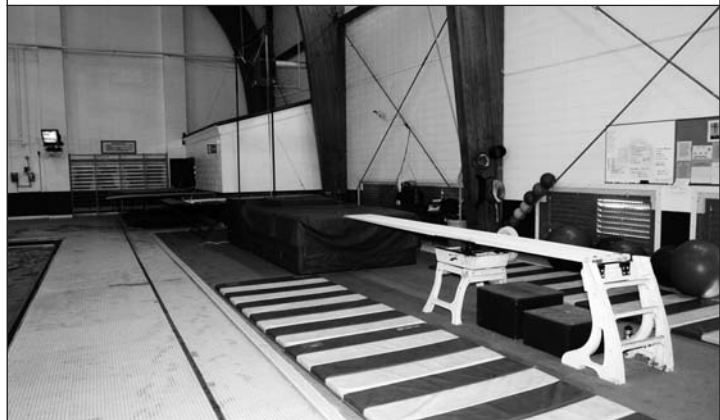

The Natatorium features a 50-meter pool, which can be converted into two 25-meter or 25-yard pools with the use of bulkheads. The facility also houses a new championship diving well that was completely renovated in the summer of 2003 with 1- and 3-meter springboards, and 5-, 7- and 10-meter platforms. In addition, the Natatorium also contains fully computerized scoring and timing systems.

The landmark is located immediately north of the LSU Field House and can comfortably accommodate 2,200 spectators. New seating along the championship end of the pool has been added and will accommodate large crowds for dual-meet and championship competition. A school dual-meet record of 275 fans watched the Tigers defeat Delta State and UL-Monroe on Jan. 29, 2005.

Renovated locker rooms were completed in September 1998. The spacious locker rooms feature separate varsity lockers, both for men and women, and also accommodate public showers and locker areas.
