STADIUM GROUND RULES

- All green padding on any of the walls is live. If a ball wedges off the ground into the vertical seams of the green padding, it will be a dead ball. Ball is live that appears wedged at the bottom of the outfield fence padding between the padding and the ground (warning track).
- The top step of the dugouts, as well as the top step of the camera wells, is considered dead.
- Any ball that hits off the netting or railing in front of the dugouts is live as long as it remains in live ball area.
- Balls that are caught and carried into the camera wells or the dugouts, will immediately become a dead ball. Runners will advance one base and there will be no throwing of the ball from inside the dugout.
- If the ball hits the facing of the roof of the dugout, or any of the interior walls of the dugout, it is a dead ball.
- If the ball goes under any of the bullpen benches, the ball remains live as long as it can be seen by an umpire.
- If a batted or thrown ball lodges in the tarp, book rule applies.
- The yellow "home run" line on the outfield fence merely indicates the top of the fence. The ball must completely clear the yellow line and wall to be a home run or ground rule double.
- The silver colored chain link fencing behind the left field wall and in front of the left field bleachers is out of play. A ball that hits the chain linked fencing would be a home run or a ground rule double.
- The batter's eye in centerfield is out of play. A ball that hits the batter's eye would be a home run or a ground rule double.
- The flag poles in centerfield are out of play. A ball that hits the flagpoles would be a home run or a ground rule double.
- A player cannot use the tarp, or any other object that is in the field of play, to elevate himself.
- The backstop netting is live with no breaks.

LSU Tiger Habitat

The environment created for Mike is 15,000 square feet in size with lush plantings, a large Live Oak tree, a beautiful waterfall and a stream evolving from a rocky backdrop overflowing with plants and trees. The habitat has, as a backdrop, an Italianate tower, a campanile, that creates a visual bridge to the Italianate architectural vernacular that is the underpinning of the image of the entire beautiful LSU campus.
