UA-Ann Rhoads Intercollegiate

Tuscaloosa, Ala. -- Sept. 21-23, 2003

Capstone Club of Alabama -- Par 72

LSU came out of the block with its best tournament showing in nearly a year in the season opener, shortened to 36 holes by rain ... LSU posted rounds of 305-311 to finish at 41-over par 617, seven shots behind winning Florida State (610) and one shot out of second, held by Mississippi State (616) ... Three LSU players, including freshman Alexis Rather, in her first collegiate tournament, posted top 10 finishes in the event with senior Devon Day the best with a sixth at 9-over 153. Rather and Vicky Meyer tied for eighth at 10-over 154.

Tulane Nokia Sugar Bowl Invitational

New Orleans, La. -- Feb. 9-10, 2004

English Turn Golf, Country Club -- Par 72

In a tournament plagued by cold and rainy weather, LSU finished second although they were never able to seriously challenge the home course advantage of winner Tulane ... The Lady Tigers had rounds of 303-306-320 (the last in a driving rainstorm) to finish at 65-over 929 ... Vicky Meyer finished fifth in the individual competition, while Brooke Shelton posted a second straight top 10 finish.

Central District Regional

Parrish, Fla. -- Feb. 23-24, 2004

River Wilderness Golf Club -- Par 72

LSU was back in the winner's circle for the first time since the 2001 season with a wire-to-wire decision over a strong Michigan State team ... The Lady Tigers opened up a three-shot advantage in the first round of the 36-hole opening day and then matched the Lady Spartans in the final two rounds to bring home the title ... LSU had rounds of 295-298-310 for a 54-hole winning score of 39-over 903 ... Michigan State finished three shots back at 906 ... LSU went with a lineup that would prove beneficial later on as twin sister Nicola Eaton joined Melissa Eaton, Vicky Meyer, Alexis Rather and Brooke Shelton and it was Melissa Eaton who posted the best for the Tigers with a sixth-place tie at 9-over 225 after shooting three identical rounds of 75.

Devon Day

LSU/Cleveland Golf Classic

Baton Rouge, La. -- March 5-7, 2004

The University Club -- Par 72

The Tigers hosted the Cleveland Golf Classic for the fifth time at the University Club, but the tournament was held five weeks earlier than in the past because of the SEC Championships, which LSU also hosted. The Lady Tigers were in quite a battle for the championship entering the final day, three shots out of the lead, but North Carolina figured out the tricky conditions the best, shooting 4-over 292 on the final day to rally to win ... LSU finished third at 49-over (301-306-306 -- 913), 10 shots out of the lead ... Brooke Shelton had her fourth straight strong finish with a tie for third after rounds of 74-72-77 -- 223.

Lady Gamecock Classic

Columbia, S. C. -- March 12-14, 2004

The University Club -- Par 72

After only playing one round in 2003 because of rain, the tournament was able to get in all 54 holes ... The Lady Tigers never really were able to get much going, finishing in seventh place at 75-over 939 (311-317-311), 34 shots behind North Carolina, the team that also won the LSU/Cleveland Classic ... In the final event of the spring, Brooke Shelton had her string of top 10 finishes snapped at four, as Vicky Meyer's 12th-place finish proved to be the best for LSU.

SEC Women's Golf Championships

Baton Rouge, La. -- April 19-21, 2004

The University Club -- Par 72

The Lady Tigers played perfect hosts and almost came up winners on their home course ... Five teams were within six shots of the lead entering the final round and LSU posted the best round of the competition, a 1-over 289 on the final day, the fifth lowest single round in LSU history and the best since 2001 ... LSU finished with Auburn in a tie for second at 17-over par 881 (299-293-289) and the 54-hole aggregate was the fourth best total ever shot by an LSU women's team ... Vanderbilt won the competition with a score of 13-over par.

NCAA East Regional Championship

Howey-In-The Hills, Fla. -- May 6-8, 2004

El Campeon Course-Mission Inn -- Par 72

The Lady Tigers put themselves in a bad position in the opening round, as eight qualify for nationals tournament, with a 319, but rallied back with a 305 in the second round ... As the cut line fluctuated wildly in the final round, the Lady Tigers were still in the hunt until the final two holes of a 306 final round ... LSU finished in 12th at 66-over 930, eight shots out of the playoff for the final spot, which was held up some two hours waiting to see how LSU finished.

Throughout its 71-year history, the Southeastern Conference has been a leader in the integration of athletic competition and higher education.

Since its formation in 1933, the SEC has achieved both stature and stability by designating governing/voting power to the presidents of the member institutions. They have determined the policies of the conference and through the years this involvement has been the principal source of strength in the evolution of the SEC.

Intercollegiate athletics has encountered many challenges in the 1990s and again the SEC provided guidance. In 1993, the member institutions adopted The Principles of Gender Equity. Committed to increasing the quantity and quality of women's athletic opportunities, each school provides at least two more women's intercollegiate programs than the number of men's.

SEC schools began athletic competition with one another over 100 years ago as members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The 13 members west and south of the Appalachian Mountains reorganized as the Southeastern Conference at the annual Southern Conference meeting in 1932. Charter members of the new conference were Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, LSU, Ole Miss, Mississippi State, Sewanee, Tennessee, Tulane and Vanderbilt.

The first SEC champions were crowned in 1933 in four sports. The league's inaugural championship event was a basketball tournament in Atlanta, Feb. 24-28, 1933. In the 1979-80 academic year, SEC championships for women were recognized in basketball, tennis and volleyball. The following year golf, gymnastics, swimming and track and field were added. The administration of women's athletics officially came under the auspices of the conference office in 1984.

The SEC currently regulates nine men's sports and 11 women's sports. The women's sports are basketball, golf, gymnastics, soccer, softball, swimming, tennis, track (cross country, indoor, outdoor) and volleyball.

The LSU Lady Tigers will try to get back to the NCAA Division I Women's Golf Championships after a three-year absence in 2005, while attempting to make the NCAA Regionals for the 10th time in the last 11 years.

A total of 63 teams and nine individuals will be selected and sent to one of three regional sites around the country in early May, 2005. The top eight teams and two individuals off of teams that don't advance will get the chance after this 54-hole tournament to go on to the Championships scheduled for Sunriver, Ore., later in the month.

A total of 20 of the 63 teams qualify as automatic invitees through conference championship tournaments, including the winner of the Southeastern Conference Tournament in April to be held in Tunica, Miss.

The Tigers hosted the very first NCAA Regional Tournament in 1993 at the Santa Maria Golf Course in Baton Rouge and hosted the NCAA East Regional at the University Club in 2002. Since 1995, 2003 is the only year the Tigers have failed to advance to regional play.

LSU has participated in seven NCAA Division I Championships: 1982, 1986, 1996, 1998, 1999, 2000 and 2001, finishing no worse than 12th in the last six appearances with five top 10s.

YEARS OF LSU WOMEN'S GOLF

It was the fall of 1979 and LSU was adding a new sport to its already impressive roster. A women's golf team was set to begin play and there were dreams. Long-range dreams for sure. Like a wonderful golf course to call home. A team golf house with locker rooms and meeting rooms and technology not even thought of in the late 1970s. Dreams of some day having some of the nation's top collegiate golfers spending their years at LSU. Dreams of a program that would rival any in the nation. The chance to put together a program that would host tournaments of regional and national proportions on a regular basis.

But before all that, a program that wanted so much had to crawl and walk and grow through the days when women's programs were thought of, well... were rarely thought of. It was nice to have a women's golf program, it helped the Title IX cause, didn't it. But then things happened. The Southeastern Conference and the NCAA said let's add women's golf as one of our sponsored sports. SEC teams began having success on a national level and suddenly LSU was right there among the best. That's the way dreams become reality and as LSU enters its second 25 years of women's golf, the dreams are few and the reality is that LSU's coaching staff and players now battle everyday to stay among the elites in the game.

Here's a small portion of the road traveled to get through the first 25 years:

Mary Rehling

Karen Bahnsen

Jenny Lidback

The First Coach

Mary Rehling certainly had the background to qualify her to be the first head coach of the Lady Tigers. One just had to look at her father, Conrad Rehling, who spent years as the golf coach at Florida and then at the University of Alabama.

Mary Rehling was a fine golfer in her own right, growing up in Tuscaloosa and playing golf at Alabama. If anyone had the knowledge on how to start a program, it was the 23-year-old Rehling.

The first year, while serving as a graduate assistant at LSU, she led a fledgling squad of six freshmen and one transfer. Her top four players averaged 81 or better competitively and one qualified for the AIAW Regionals. She was named to the full-time head coaching post in July of 1980.

The First Recruit

Her name was Karen Mayson from Mobile. The media information on her said, "Works very hard on game and even practices in the rain, which is one of the reasons she is a success."

She was part of a young LSU team that had to face more established teams right away. "In that first year, I remember like it was yesterday, getting in that van. We had five girls and our coach and drove 18-hours straight to Chapel Hill, N. C. We had team golf bags, but we went up to the student union and bought our own uniforms because we wanted to match. We finished middle of the field in some of the first tournaments we played in and maybe a little higher. It's just come so far ..."

Mayson quickly established the course record for women on the LSU course of 69 and there was something about her that caught everyone's eye. She was dedicated and loved the sport. Her future plans were "to play on the LPGA tour and eventually teach physical education at a high school."

But those plans would soon change.

The First Team Win

It took 17 tournaments and two and a half years, but the Lady Tigers finally tasted victory in the Eagle Scoremaster event in Memphis, in 1982. It was a momentous occasion for the team, one that wouldn't be felt again for almost three years, but things would soon begin to change in a hurry.

Coaching Changes

Beginning with the 1982-83 season, Buddy Alexander took charge of both the men and women's program at LSU. Mayson played her final year at LSU under Alexander. "He was coaching both the men and the women. That was hard. The poor man would get out of the van with one group and jump in the van and go with the other. I felt so sorry for him, but he did a great job. He was a great coach; I learned so much from him on how to do things. I learned a tremendous amount."

Obviously, Alexander felt there was something special about Mayson, who would soon marry Bo Bahnsen, who was also a student at LSU.

"Bo and I had talked about getting married," she said. "I had been studying advertising and public relations in school, but I didn't know exactly what I was going to do. Buddy called me up out of the blue and asked me if I was interested in taking the women's job. I was shocked. This was my fifth year of school and I needed to graduate and then it would be my position. Yes, I would love it."

The Bahnsen Era Begins; Jenny Lidback dominates

The Karen Bahnsen coaching tenure at LSU started in the 1984-85 season and the LSU program quickly took a new direction onward and upward.

Bahnsen's first team won two tournaments and the addition of senior Jenny Lidback in 1986 continued the progression. Lidback became the number one player in the country, winning seven tournaments. LSU won a school record five events and finished ninth in the Division I Championships.

In 1992, LSU hosted the SEC Women's Championships and Bahnsen pulled out all the stops, bringing in an electronic scoreboard, a hospitality tent and she did the little things that today seem so routine at the Championships. Everyone was excited to be at Santa Maria for the event, especially Bahnsen's team of Kristi Coats, Laurie Robbins, Julie Rigazio, Page Oeser and Jennifer Vernon as they proceeded to win the event, leading from start to finish.

The Three Amigas

It was the recruiting coup talked about around the country. Bahnsen brought to LSU three of the best high school seniors available in 1994: Michelle Louviere, Laura Moore and Ashley Winn.

"The Three Amigas was the beginning of a lot of wonderful things," said Bahnsen. "It was so exciting because I never thought I'd get all three. I was totally floored. They were everything I thought they could be and more, on and off the course."

Over the course of four years, The Amigas, a name given them by Times Picayune golf writer Dave LeGarde, teamed with Shannon Hanson and Casey Scott the first two years and Lisette Lee and Katy Wilkinson in the final two years to win nine team titles, six individual titles, make four straight NCAA Regional appearances and finish eighth and fifth place in the Division I Championships.

Lee, Wilkinson-Harris, Duncan

If Louviere, Moore and Winn were the Three Amigas, there certainly should be some name given to Lisette Lee, Katy Wilkinson-Harris and Meredith Duncan. While one or all three played in the time period from 1997 to 2001, they were able to continue and expand on the prominence The Amigas brought to LSU.

"All three were special talents," said Bahnsen. "Katy was a two-time All-American, as a freshman and senior, and may well be one of the best players in college golf not to win a title. She had so many second place finishes and was so close, but the golf coaches who voted her First-Team All-American as a senior recognized her talent."

"Lisette and Meredith both earned the Diana Shore Award from the LPGA and that's one of the most prestigious awards in women's college golf. It was so important for both of them and for our program as well," said Bahnsen. "And what hasn't been said about Meredith, a three-time All-American who won the United States Women's Amateur and represented our country and LSU in the Curtis Cup against Great Britain and Ireland."

The University Club

All those dreams of the 1979-80 season finally started becoming reality in 1998 when the LSU golf teams opened the University Club, a home course in more than name only. In 2002, more dreams became reality when the LSU Golf House opened on the team practice range.

All in all, as the 26th season begins, it has been an interesting journey. From a team just happy to be boarding a van to play anywhere in 1979-80 to a team looking to make a splash again on the national scene in 2004-05, that's the story of a very successful LSU women's golf program.

The University Club

THE UNIVERSITY CLUB

The Tiger Athletic Foundation had a goal of bringing a championship golf course to the LSU community. The LSU golf programs wanted a place to call its official home.

Both dreams have become reality. The University Club has given the LSU teams a place to call home with first-class practice facilities and the U-Club has proven to be the championship course it was designed to be.

For five years, the course has hosted the women's LSU/Cleveland Golf Classic and twice has hosted major post-season events, the 2002 NCAA East Regional and the 2004 SEC Championships. The nation's best have given the course high marks and it will only get better as a strong field will be back in March for the 2005 LSU/Cleveland Golf Classic.

The road for the University Club has been positive, especially since April 2002, when a group of local investors took steps to ensure the private course on Nicholson Drive would remain a thriving amenity to the residents of University Club Plantation and golf course members. Actions were taken to maintain the course's prosperity and its quality has risen to a new level. Also adding his support to the club is former LSU golfer, PGA champion, David Toms.

The group, led by Stirling Properties, acquired control of the course on April 15, 2002.

The 300-acre course was built in 1998 on land donated to the Tiger Athletic Foundation (TAF) and subsequently leased to University Club. The original vision that drove University Club's development was of a premier course that would provide a place for TAF members to convene and play, as well as a home for the men's and women's golf teams of LSU.

The latest transaction has allowed that vision to be realized, according to Villages developer Sinclair Kouns, himself a member of the investment group that made the acquisition.

"We are confident that we have been able to fulfill the expectations of the golf teams, the club members and the residents of University Club Plantation in making this facility one of the best in the Southeastern Conference and the region," said Kouns.

"I'm pleased that local people with LSU ties are making University Club a place LSU alumni and TAF members can be proud of," said TAF CEO General Ron Richard.

Part of the change came with the arrival in Summer 2002 of general manager (retired 30-year) Marine Colonel Joe Stewart.

Originally, from Alabama and a graduate of Auburn, Stewart for the last 10 years (including two as a civilian) was the CEO of services at Camp Lejeune and Paris Island, which included the Officers Club, beach club, hotel, food operation, golf course and retail. He led and directed an organization with 2,100 employees, of which 1,900 were civilian.

The course opened for members on Oct. 22, 1998. The swimming and tennis facility adjacent to the course, opened in the summer of 2000. The surrounding housing development continues to grow as homes continue to spring up adding to the beauty of the area around the golf course.

Membership in The University Club was offered first to members of the TAF and then extended to the general public, who first must become members of the TAF. Memberships are available not only in local categories, but state, regional and national categories as well.

More than anything, The University Club has given the men's and women's golf programs the practice facilities they need to be successful and the latitude to do many different things at practice, whether it be playing the 18-hole championship layout, working on the four practice holes or taking the extra time to work on short game shots from the traps around the practice green.

"It's been a great help to our programs," said Karen Bahnsen. "We have the facilities and the space to take advantage of the opportunities to work for extended periods on certain parts of a players game that may need some help. It's wonderful to have a facility like this that we can call our own."

The par - 72 layout can play to several different distances, offering golfers of all talents a test they will enjoy from the 7,274 Tiger tees to the 5,433-yard Bengal tees.

The course, under the supervision of golf pro Emily Hanchar, is also the home of the Chuck Winstead Golf Academy, located off the Club's large driving range and practice facility.

The Tiger Athletic Foundation is a private, non-profit corporation which serves as the fund-raising and development arm of the LSU athletics department. Each year, the TAF underwrites scholarship and academics awards, as well as capital development projects for LSU athletics.

THE LSU GOLF HOUSE

The LSU Golf House features a player's lounge and a much needed locker room.

It has proven to be everything it was hoped to be. The men's and women's golf teams at LSU now have the home they've always wanted right at their home course, the University Club. LSU's Golf House is a reality, offering the year-round ability to concentrate on improving the play of LSU's student-athletes.

An $850,000 facility funded by the Tiger Athletic Foundation, the LSU Golf House functions primarily as a golf-learning center for the LSU men's and women's teams.

Head coach Karen Bahnsen said the building, opened in 2003, is a great benefit to the LSU programs.

It is helping the program's recruiting efforts, since many of LSU's competitors either have similar facilities or are in the process of building a similar facility.

"Our practice area is tremendous, but having a building to go with it is great," Bahnsen said. "We have a place where we can do club repairs and where we can store our teaching aids. We have two indoor hitting bays and a room we can use for video analysis, as well as meeting spaces. So, as far as helping their game, we're just basically giving them everything in the world they need to be competitive in the NCAA arena."

Bahnsen said LSU's golf teams are already well equipped for practice at University Club, with a 100-yard-long tee box and 10,000-square-foot putting green that has bunkers around it.

TAF CEO General Ron Richard echoed Bahnsen's sentiment, saying that the building ensures the continued success of LSU's golf programs.

"University Club has been a great asset for TAF in promoting the golf teams and securing financial resources for LSU," Richard said. "This clubhouse is helping to put the golf teams at their pinnacle for years to come."

In all, the Golf House also contains locker rooms for the men and women, an office for each coach, a kitchen and indoor and outdoor storage.

2005 LSU/Cleveland Golf Classic

March 18-20, 2005

University Club - Baton Rouge, La.

In the six-plus years of the University Club's existence, it has had the opportunity to play host to three of spring golf's major women's college events - five LSU/Cleveland Golf Classics, the 2002 NCAA East Regional and the 2004 SEC Women's Championship. This year the course plays host to another LSU/Cleveland Golf Classic.

LSU has two team win (2001,2002) s in the Cleveland, with North Carolina scoring a three-stroke victory over Tulane in last year's tournament.

In the Classic, Ashley Prange of North Carolina posted a 54-hole total of 1-under 215 (73-71-71) to win the individual title over Adrienne Gautreaux of South Carolina by three shots (72-74-72 -- 218).

This will mark the 24th spring that the Lady Tigers have hosted a tournament in Baton Rouge and the sixth time the event will be held on the team's official home course, the University Club. This year's Cleveland Golf Classic features a field of 15 teams: LSU, Alabama, Auburn, Augusta State, Birmingham Southern, College of Charleston, James Madison, Louisville, Mississippi, Mississippi State, North Carolina, North Carolina State, UNC Wilmington, Tulane and Vanderbilt.
