AWARD MESSAGE

We are thrilled to award the DDS team for 100% completion of DDS V2 Vanilla, Angular, & React Component Libraries. With this milestone, we've launched accessible digital experiences that not only expand our reach to all customers, but also safeguard Dell Technologies through compliance and inclusive innovation. Faced with rising licensing costs from third-party vendors, fragmented component libraries, accessibility gaps, and technical debt from outdated frameworks, our product teams needed a scalable, future-ready solution. The Dell Design System team rose to the challenge by delivering 46 reusable components across Vanilla, Angular, and React libraries—including a robust Table component with nearly 20 advanced features that empower teams to transition away from AG Grid, significantly reducing software spend. The team also introduced over a dozen data visualization charts, enabling richer insights across Dell applications. Every component underwent three rounds of Accessibility CoE reviews, ensuring full alignment with WCAG 2.1 AA standards. To accelerate adoption and drive consistency, the team provided comprehensive enablement resources, including Figma kits, Storybook documentation, and implementation guidelines that support both designers and engineers. The impact is enterprise-wide and measurable: 521 applications now benefit from consistent, compliant, and scalable components—delivering better customer experiences, reducing costs, and ensuring global accessibility compliance. This work exemplifies how technical excellence, inclusive design, and cross-functional collaboration can drive meaningful business outcomes at scale.
