Andrew Oates, Managing Director, Marine Money Asia

13:30 – Pace of the Energy Transition

Sam Chua, Principal Consultant, Rystad Energy

13:50 – OSV Market Prospects and Challenges 2024

Ashwin Choolun, Director – BD, Middle East & APAC,
Veson Nautical

14:10 – OSV – Growth and Investment

A renewed momentum in offshore has increased utilisation rates amongst OSVs and AHTSs. There have been no new vessels joining the fleet in recent years and it appears that there is still no appetite for newbuildings. Does this position us for a strong market for several years to come?

Introduction: Mili Verma, Senior Broker – Offshore Shipping, M3 Marine Group

Moderator: Capt. Mike Meade, CEO, M3 Marine Group

Panel

Florent Kirchoff, Chief Executive Officer, Britoil Offshore Services

Capt. Alok Kumar, Chairman, Alphard Maritime

Peter Wessel-Aas, Investment Manager, Borealis Maritime

Rory Deans, Chief Executive Officer, Sentinel Marine

14:50 – FPSO Market

The demand for FPSOs through to 2030 is stronger than ever needing massive capital investment, at a time when protecting energy security is key, yet some banks have moved away from the oil and gas sector. What finance sources are available and how do companies “market” their projects to make them attractive to financiers, both old and new?

Moderator: Kheng Sin Chu, Managing Director and Regional Head, Shipping Finance, ASEAN and South Asia, Standard Chartered

Panel

Andrew Pang, Head of Corporate Finance, Eastern Hemisphere, Yinson Production

Martin Brown, Head of Corporate Finance, BW Offshore

Christopher Ang, Group Head of Infrastructure & Project Finance, UOB

Charles Furness-Smith, Managing Partner, Samos Energy

Bruno Biagini, Executive Director, APAC EnergyIB and Head of SEA Energy, J. P. Morgan

15:30 – How can the offshore industry leverage voluntary carbon credits in its journey to net-zero?

Anna Stablum, Business Development Director, ClimeCo

15:45 – Sanctions, Challenges and Risks Impacting Marine Finance

Neil Watts, Culmen International, LLC

16:00 – Financing the Offshore Sector

Offshore for oil & gas seems to be a performing sector with demand and supply in good order. However, Poseidon Principles and other like considerations question finance to carbon projects. Offshore wind are much in fashion but are projects finance proof? How can the dilemma be solved? Is alternative finance the solution

Moderator: Andrew Nimmo, Partner, Watson Farley & Williams
