U.S. Port Fees Chinese-owned, -operated, or -built vessels

Overview & Policy Background

- ✓ WHAT'S HAPPENING? The United States will impose new port entry fees on vessels that are Chineseowned, -operated, or -built, under a Section 301 trade action announced in April 2025.
- ✓ WHY? China's state-backed expansion in shipbuilding and extensive control in maritime logistics are seen as threats to U.S. industrial base and supply chain security:
 - China's global shipbuilding share surged from <5% to ~50%
 - Chinese entities own ~19% of the world's commercial fleet
 - COSCO Shipping (state-owned) expanded via mergers and government support
 - U.S. shipbuilders, logistics firms, and port operators struggle to compete

More on Port Fees

Preferential Order for Determining Fees (Fees are Not Cumulative)

- Annex IV Vessel for international maritime transport of liquified natural gas (LNG)
- Annex III Vessel identified as a "Vehicle Carrier" on CBP Form 1300
- Annex I Vessel operated or owned by a Chinese entity
- Annex II Chinese-built vessels not covered by Annex I and Annex III

Fee Caps

Annex I and II fees will be charged up to five times per year, per vessel.

Implementation of Port Fees

- Anticipated guidance/FAQs
- Roles of U.S. Government agencies
- Ability to pay port fees prior to vessel's arrival
- Mechanisms associated with waivers or exemptions
- Availability of CBP protest process

"Best" Practices and Mitigation Strategies

- Conduct complete analysis of vessel ownership and operator, and build of vessel fleet
 - Review of Certificate of Financial Responsibility (COFR)
- Clearly assign responsibilities for port fees in charter party or other legal document
- Utilize Canada, Mexico, and Caribbean hubs for purposes of supplying the U.S. market
- Strategic deployment of fleet, including concentration into fewer U.S. port calls and higher use of non-China linked vessels for serving U.S.
