FELLOWSHIP IN FAMILY MEDICINE

The Fellowship in Family Medicine will help you develop skills in diagnosing common medical conditions, making timely appropriate referrals, and effective counselling. Family physicians must understand the patient in the context of both the family and community, across multiple disciplines and patient demographics.

Family health is a key catalyst for community health and you can lead that change while building your career. This fellowship course will help you elevate your career by upskilling and growing your knowledge base.

The fellowship program is accredited by the Academy of Family Physicians of India (AFPI) and Medvarsity Online Limited, and has been created under the guidance of Course Faculty, Dr. Raman Kumar.

This 12-month course covers all common medical and surgical topics and allows practical application of theory. It is designed to build academic and administrative knowledge for family physicians.
