

Arvada Dog Bite FAQ

Answers to common questions about dog bite incidents in Arvada.

Based on Arvada Dog Bite Lawyer by McCormick and Murphy

Q: What should I do immediately after a dog bite?

A: Seek medical attention right away, even if the wound seems minor. Dog bites carry a high risk of infection and may cause deeper tissue damage than is immediately visible.

Q: Is it important to see a doctor even for a small bite?

A: Yes, it is crucial. Dog bites carry a high risk of infection and can cause deeper tissue damage that might not be immediately apparent.

Q: What is the next step after getting medical care?

A: After receiving medical care, report the incident to Arvada Animal Control. This helps create an official record of the dog bite.

Q: What information should I try to collect at the scene?

A: If possible, gather the dog owner's contact and insurance information. Also, take photos of your injuries and the scene, and get contact details from any witnesses.

Q: Why is it important to document my injuries and the scene?

A: Photographs of your injuries and the incident scene serve as important evidence. Documenting your recovery process also helps build your case.

Q: Should I talk to the dog owner's insurance company?

A: No, you should not speak to the dog owner's insurance company without consulting a lawyer first. They may try to minimize your claim.

Q: What kind of damages can I seek after a dog bite?

A: You may be able to seek compensation for medical expenses, lost wages, pain and suffering, and other related costs resulting from the dog bite.

Q: How long do I have to file a dog bite claim in Arvada?

A: Colorado has a statute of limitations for personal injury claims, including dog bites. It is important to consult with a lawyer to understand the specific deadlines for your case.

Q: What if the dog owner claims their dog has never bitten anyone before?

A: A dog's past behavior is relevant, but it does not excuse a current bite. Previous incidents can be used to establish negligence.

Q: Do I need a lawyer if the bite seems minor?

A: Even minor bites can lead to serious infections or complications. Consulting a lawyer can help you understand your rights and the potential long-term consequences.

Q: What is the role of Arvada Animal Control in dog bite cases?

A: Reporting the incident to Arvada Animal Control creates an official record, which can be crucial for your claim. They may also investigate the circumstances of the bite.

Q: Can I pursue a claim if the dog was a stray?

A: Claims involving stray dogs can be more complex. It may depend on whether there was a known owner responsible for the animal's containment or control.
