1           MERVYN DYMALLY: Ladies and gentlemen, may I have your 2 attention. I wish to present to you the wife of the Vice-
3 President of the United States, Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey.

4           MRS. HUMPHREY: You know, I have just been asked to 5 say hello and give my greetings to you, and to tell you how 6 happy we are to be here in Los Angeles. I am a little 7 guilty, because it is a little difficult to follow my 8 husband and to have him listen to my words. I want to tell
9 you how happy I am in these two days meeting various groups
10 and organizations all over the state. People have asked me, 11 "Why are you out campaigning again?" or "Do you like 12 campaigning?"

13                     First of all, I do. The reason I do is because I 14 have such a wonderful husband to campaign for.

15                     (Applause.)

16                     You see, he isn't really supposed to be listening.
17 It may go to his head. But the reason that I like to 18 campaign for him is because I would like for you to know 19 the hard work and goals that he has set for all of us, the 20 things that he has stood for, the bills that he has seen
21 get passed, and the things that he stands for makes it easy
22 for me to campaign for him.

23                     So, with that, I just want to say again, thanks 24 for coming out, and any help that you can give me and help
25 me to campaign for my husband, I will appreciate.

26                     (Applause.)

1           MERVYN DYMALLY: Now, ladies, the next President of the 2 United States, Hubert H. Humphrey.

3                   (Applause.)

4           VICE-PRESIDENT HUMPHREY: Senator Dymally, and my good
5 friends, let me tell you how difficult it is to speak
6 following Mrs. Humphrey. We are very happy, both of us, to 7 be here in your company, and you have truly honored us by 8 your presence, by your willingness to come and share this 9 social hour with us.

10                   I want to express to each and every one of you 11 very quickly and very sincerely my personal thanks for your 12 support, those of you who have supported us, for your 13 friendship, those of you who have blessed us with many 14 precious gifts of friendship, and those of you who will give 15 us a helping hand.

16                   You know, I am fully aware of the fact that no man 17 in public life really gets any place, or gets to his goal,
18 whatever that goal may be, without the help of the public.

19                   Senator Dymally and I were talking last night
20 about how we got started in our respective careers of public 21 life. Each one of us knows that you have got to help some-22 body else. That is the way you get there.

23                   Now, I now seek this high office which is in a 24 very real sense your office. I am only a trustee. The 25 presidency does not belong to the President; it belongs to 26 the people, and I seek to make this office belong to more

1 and more people. Frankly, some people haven't had much
2 claim on that office. What we are trying to do together is 3 to see to it that people who have never been privileged to 4 hold a claim, so to speak, on that office, and in realistic
5 terms of that claim, I want to be your representative in 6 the presidency. I want to represent all the people of this 7 country, not just some of the people; not just the white
8 community, but the black community; and not just the black
9 community, but the white community. I want to represent 10 everybody with the sense of clear purpose that you would 11 like to have if you were there in that high office, and that 12 is really what my goal is in public life. Public life is a
13 life of service. I have been talking to your representatives 14 and some of them are here in the City Council that are here 15 with you this evening, and your supervisors, and members of 16 your state legislature, and you have elected some very 17 wonderful people. I know that their satisfaction comes out 18 of the achievements in the field of legislation, or 19 administration, that affects the lives of the people that 20 they represent, and that is my satisfaction, too. It is the 21 satisfaction of knowing that maybe after you have fulfilled
22 your term of service, you have helped somebody else, and in 23 doing so, of course, you make it better for yourself.

24 Now, I want to thank in particular Dr. Woods for 25 serving as the co-chairman of my nationwide committee of 26 the Women for Humphrey. I sure must say that I did make a

1 good selection.

2 (Applause.)

3 I appreciate so much here the representatives of 4 Congress. Congressman Hawkins is here with us today. Your 5 two state senators are here, Senator Dymally and Senator
6 Dills. I don't know whether Billy Greene is with us here
7 or not, but he was with us. I appreciate the members of 8 the City Council that are here. We have just so many that 9 are here to help us today, and can I leave you with one 10 final thought. If you believe in me and what I stand for, 11 then tell your neighbors and tell your friends. This is 12 going to be a hard-fought campaign. I think this campaign
13 is at the crossroads -- I really do -- as to whether or not 14 we are going to tread water for a while, so to speak, and 15 ultimately slip back, or whether or not we are going to 16 break out into the open, and maybe open up this society for 17 the people.

18 There is so much talent in America that is yet
19 untapped; so many good people that have yet not had a chance;
20 so much to do in America for the people that want to do
21 things, and I want to help you, and I want you to help me.
22 I know we can do it. I know that we can make as great a 23 breakthrough in the future of America in the year 1968 as 24 some of us did back in 1948 when we were at the Democratic 25 convention. We stood up there and fought hard to get that 26 political party, as I said, to walk out of the shadows of

1 states' rights into the bright sunshine of human rights.
2 I know that we can do it.

3 (Applause.)

4 If we will just pull together, we will get the 5 job done. I want to pull with you, not against you, and I
6 want you to know that I am ready to do anything I can do to 7 get this job done.

8 Some of you were a little worried and came to me
9 today and said, "It is too bad that we had a little fracas 10 last night." That is par for the course. I told a group of 11 professors today that I had more commotion than that on 12 college campuses. It didn't bother me one little bit. What 13 bothers me is when people are not interested. I want people 14 to be interested, and I am going to put my faith in the 15 leaders of this community. In this room today there are 16 leaders from every part of the black community, every part
17 of it, and if we just stick together, there isn't any power 18 on this earth that can stop us from fulfilling what is the 19 destiny of this country, which is an equal opportunity and 20 a fair chance without any regard to all the false standards, 21 without any regard to race, color or creed. We will get the 22 job done.

23 Thank you very much.

24 (Applause.)
