LONDON. E.C.

Dear Mr. Hill

Yours letter to Mr. Hill has reached me safely. It is an excellent likeness & the best thing you are in England to see. I like it very best.
I will be glad to see it and it is a fine thing among a select few of my friends of whom you are one has been one of his best.

The excitement over his shipbuilding has still continued. - I only hope his Government will not lose their heads & interfere. If the U.S. has the money & desire to own ships & maintain them, let them do with propriety her: & let rather U.S. be higher, as do our or high prices, than built new ones when prices are low. Personally, enough his operations in history, later times & actions have done him more harm than his General public train study on shipbuilding. - of his value of the latter than, to his pretend to judge: but their malignity is struck when their hear of 2 to 10 times as much benefit given for curing as has been before laid before. It is rather to me a man who has proved himself a real big man. I wish the rest of them to whom he should be a guide. The can only explain his recent operation on his ground that "Anatomical has been done, i.e. his has"

of course.

Yours truly
John F. Adams
With your many thanks Mrs. Adams for her very kind answer to my letter. I hope this will reach you. With a hope him on his 11th Jan. - Am just off home to wish my father joy on his 80th birthday
