

Nº 35 WALL STREET.
NEW YORK.

June 14th, 1897.

JAMES J. HILL, Esq.,

Present.

My dear Mr. Hill:-

By reason of an unusual number of meetings I have lost my boat and am obliged to stay in the City tonight.

I shall be at my residence, No. 455 Madison Avenue, after attending the theatre with my son and dining in the Cafe of the Holland House at seven o'clock. I shall probably be at this office until half past six.

These details simply for your guidance so that you may know where I am and my ability for a conference, if desired.

Sincerely yours,

Edward D. Adams
