Dear Sir:

I hope that there will be no failure in your coming next week, and that we may at once make a disposition of matters that will prevent, or make unnecessary, any bothering you any more with my private matters. My repeatedly broken promises to Father embarrasses me and discourages him. He is annoyed more by my troubles than I care to have him. Of course I feel that these several delays and postponements in our programme have been unavoidable and no fault of yours but the effect has been terrible to me and my nerves.

The $2150⁰⁰ now due

Mrs Woods is a subject of conversation now about every time I meet Pa. so that I am always dreading to see him, especially when I am getting further favors of him.

I want to take the Parmelee lands into our names as soon as possible and our new purchases.
