EDWIN W. WINTER
THREE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY FIVE PARK AVENUE

Aug 30/20

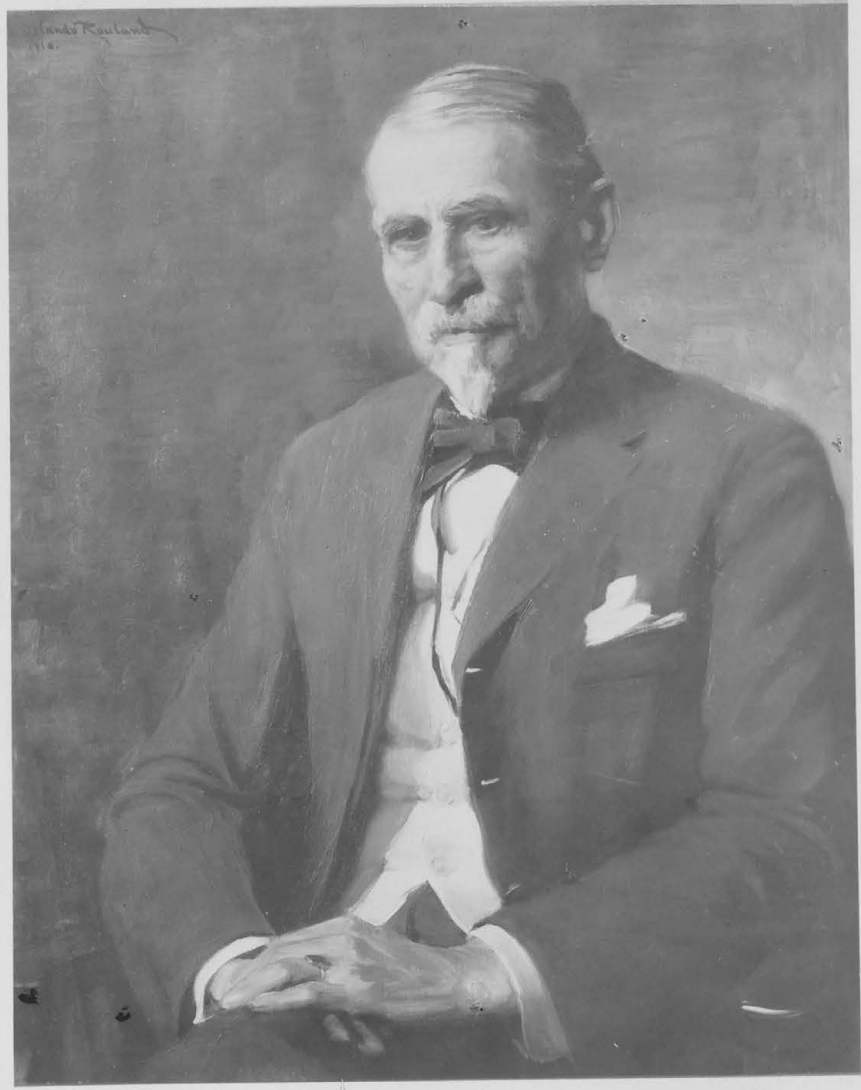

Dear Mrs Wright

I'm now going to try to tell you how interesting I have found the book of your father's letters and notes.

I have read and reread those relating to his Union Pacific experiences - and with it, lived over again a bit of my life when the world and I were young. What a side light they throw on that Vibration, crowded with human interest and to me, with troops and troops of personal memories. One treats upon another's heels, so thick they follow.

I have known and forgotten a million things since then, but the impressions of that early boy of my life are indelible, and I thought to set down a note of recognition

light they throw on that situation, crowded with human interest and to
me, with troops and troops of personal memories. One treads upon another's heels, so thick they follow.

a million things since then, but the impressions of that early city of my life are indelible, and I thought to jot down a note of recognition here and there, but soon found I was swamped with incidents of things and persons of no possible interest ^{to anyone} but me,

So I let you off with a few scraps. I will send back with the book. Just to prove I was there - day before yesterday! When you and the Daughters are back from the country. I want you - since he comes in every day, to come to luncheon with me, Almost any day will do - as they

Mr. Edwin W Winter, who, as a young man worked under

Samuel B Reed on the Union Pacific say in the Early Edition⁷ Further particulars later⁷

Yours Truly

Edwin H. Miller

Am
Since writing this, I, by accident, met Mr.
Taylor. He tells me you are in Duluth and this P.M. is to ask you, in case you go to St Paul to call up my daughter. Her Wg. Dean 415 Hennepin Ave. I shall drop her a line. but you need only say you are kindly disposed towards her father
