"The Decision-making Process"-

Biographical Sketches tarodale orom a not secure

The Seminar

The Antioch Washington Field Seminar has been set up by the college's Personnel Department in cooperation with instructors in the Social Science Area.

The Seminar is intended to implement the opportunities which the Antioch student has as a result of his co-op job placement under the workstudy program.

In particular, it is designed to join more closely the strictly academic phase and the cooperative work phase of the curriculum.

It's hoped that by talking in an informal setting with a variety of men in public life-government servants such as Senators, Representatives, Justices, middle- or high-level executives, and non government people, such as lobbyists, newspapermen or experts—the student will have an opportunity to learn about governmental processes from a point of view which ordinarily is beyond his reach.

It was the experience of the students who attended the first Seminar that the two factors important in making the experience a valuable one are

(1) an adequate understanding of what is meant by the decision-making process and its relation to public policy formation:

(2) the ability to ask questions pertinent to the Seminar theme.

It is suggested that the student consult other sources for a more elaborate analysis of the impor-

concerned with the decision-making process as it

tance of the decision-making process. The following suggestions may be of some assistance: Paul Appleby, Be Democracy Policy and Administration; other authors recommended: Nother Guide, Mersert Simon, etc.

It is important to phrase questions in a manner that will elicit a response that will help determine the factors involved in the decision-making process; such factors as personality, pressures, etc.

Questions are usually indirect. Rather than ask a senator what the various pressures were that influenced his decision in a particular issue, it might be wiser to be more specific by asking what weight he gave, in making his decision, to the flood of letters he received from his constituents.

The students participating in the Seminar are required to prepare a report which should summarize what they think they might have learned, and which should include a critical evaluation of the educational aspects of the Seminar.

J. Dudley Dawson

Director of the Cooperative Program

Antioch College

The decision making process

This year's Washington Field Seminar will be concerned with the decision-making process as it affects the formation of public policy.

It is a topic which in recent years has quickly come to occupy the attention of political scientists. In fact, "decision-making" is rapidly displacing other concepts as the most appropriate tool of political analysis.

Decision-making, it seems, is the very core of the behavior of those who determine public policy-legislators, executives, judges, and administrators.

In the past, we have been accustomed to emphasize the differences in their behavior, and the traditional doctrine of the separation of powers lent authority to the customary type of analysis.

Fit more recently, greater emphasis has been placed on what the decision-making process in various teaches and on various levels of government operations has in common than on what differentiates it. That, then, does decision-making mean?

Decision-making involves a conscious choice of one behavior alternative from among two or more alternatives. An individual must become aware of as many as possible of these behavior alternatives which are relevant to the decision. He must define each of these alternatives, i.e., he must anticipate as many as possible of the consequences related to each alternative. And he must exercise a choice between the alternatives, i.e. make a decision.

Davidson Sommers

General Counsel, International Bank for Reconstruction and Development

Mr. Sommers, has a broad background and perspective on world events, and has held several high and responsible posts in public life. His fields and law and international relations.

Since 1949 he has held the position as general counsel for the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

Sommers was educated at Harvard. He graduated in 1926 and received his law degree in 1930. Immediately upon receiving his law degree, Sommers began practicing in New York City with the firm of Parker and Duryee. This lasted for twelve years. Nearly two years of this period was spent as assistant corporation counsel for the city of New York.

During World War II Sommers served as an army officer. For a considerable portion of this time he was stationed at Wright Field, and lived in Yellow Springs. In 1946 he served as Special Assistant to the Secretary of War.

Paul David

Research Staff, Division of International Studies, Brookings Institution

Although technically an economist, Paul David has had a career that is as varied as it is impressive. After graduating from Antioch in 1928 he completed his !'A and PhD at Prown University.

At Brookings David has directed the survey and preparation of a report on "The Administration of Foreign Affairs and Overseas Operations" and prepared the background paper which served as a basis for discussion at one of the three round tables at the Institute of Manpower Utilization held at Stanford University.

There is hardly space for a detailed account of his many positions, but a few should be mentioned. In 1933 David became a member of the staff of the House Committee in Interstate and Foreign Commerce investigating utilities. Later that year he became an Administrative Assistant to the Chairman of TVA where he played an important part in the first employee-employer agreement put into effect in the Authority. David served as a staff member of the President's Committee on Administrative "anagement, co-authored the personnel report for the Provmlow Committee, helped draft the final reports of the U.S. Advisory Committee on Education (November, 1936 to June, 1939) and the American Youth Commission (July, 1939 to February, 1942), served in the Fiscal Analysis Division of the Pudget Pureru, and served as a member of the Secretariat at the International Civil Aviation Conference in Chicago in 1944. In the spring of 1949, David went to London as chairman of the U.S. delegation to the ICAO Joint Financing Conferences. He returned to the States to join Brookings in April 1950.

HUMPHRALL HUMPHRALL

- diguos bas assayan U.S. Senator from Minnesota

"I was born over a drugstore and was raised inside one." This is Hubert Humphrey's description of a childhood starting in 1911, in Wallace, South Dakota. He has come a long way from his drugstore days, all the way to being the first democrat elected to the Senate by Minnesota.

After attending the University of Minnesota and Louisiana as a student in political science, he returned to the U of U to teach political science, while earning a PhD.

Fascinated by politics he left his academic pursuits and became a supervisor with the Works Progress Administration. We subsequently worked in the Adult Education, War Production Training, and War Service Programs of Minnesota.

In 1945 Humphrey captured the Minneapolis mayoralty. Here he gained recognition by his spearheading of the Mayor's Council on Human Relations which established the Fair Employment Practices Commission of Minnesota. Re-elected mayor in 1947 he was nominated the next year to run against Republican Senator Joseph Pall for the senatorial seat.

1949 found Humphrey sitting in the 81st Congress, named to the Senate Labor and Public Welfare and Joint-Labor Committees. The Senator's activities in the Senate, his position on the Executive Board of Americans for Democratic Action and a host of state and national organizations to which he belongs keep him a busy man and soughtafter speaker on radio and TV. Currently Humphrey has been concerned with legislation on the Missouri Valley, federal aid to education and Mutual Security.

Max Kampleman

Legislative Counsel to Senator Humphrey

I'r. Kampleman is by profession an attorney, a political scientist, and an educator. He has taught on the faculties of Bennington College and the University of Minnesota. His association with Senator Humphrey dates back to the Senator's political career in l'innesota.

Richard Strout

Washington Correspondent, The Christian Science Monitor

Mr. Strout is familiar with political affairs generally and is constantly in the midst of events in Washington. The newspaper business is nothing new to him. Strout is currently the Washington correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor. The has been on the staff of the Monitor since 1921 and in the Washington Pureau of the Monitor since 1925.

Strout was educated at Harvard, receiving both his AB and MA degrees there.

During World War II Strout was a War Correspondent. He was co-author of "Farewell to Wodel T", written in collaboration with E.B. White of the New Yorker.

Dear Max,

On behalf of the officers of Syracuse University, as well as of Mr. Rogers and me, may I say how very greatly we appreciate your generous contribution to the 1955 Workshop in Public Affairs.

The group gained a good deal from meeting and talking with you as evidenced by their comments in ensuing discussions.

It is through the willingness of members of our government, like yourself, to meet with citizens and to give them a sense of the purposes-and the quality-of our public service and democratic way that we can best insure its preservation.

Faithfully yours,

Phillips Bradley

Dear Arthur:-

Thank you very much for the opportunity to address the lawyers' conference in Los Angeles earlier in the month. I enjoyed the experience very much and found the discussions that went on through the evening and next day thoroughly stimulating. There is some doubt as to whether my contributions to the conferences have led to any "conversions", but there can be no doubt but that they have been provocative. It must be the teacher in me.

A statement of my expenses in connection with the conference is attached.

Best wishes and Season's Greetings.

Al Wirin San Francisco, California

Dear Sir:

I have Art Goldberg's notification of October 15 about the lawyers' meeting in Los Angeles and also a note from him suggesting that I get in touch with you gentlemen to work out an equitable division of labor.

I think that perhaps we could minimize the labor — a move which is always desirable — if Joe Rauh discussed the Defense Department security procedures, with which he is painfully familiar, and if Max Kampelman and I discuss the recent Communist Control Act, of which we have some special knowledge. (Max practically wrote the statute, while I observed his activities with pain and mortification.) Al Wirin, I take it, has special knowledge of recent court decisions affecting civil liberties and it would seem appropriate for him to cover that.

I don't know what Herman Cooper has been up to lately. I have my suspicions but they may be wrong, in the light of the inevitable working of Malloy's law. Herman will, of course, want to disagree with anything Max says but some additional assignment would also be desirable. What are you prepared to volunteer for, Herman? Perhaps you could cover recent legislation other than the Communist Control Act, or divide court decisions and administrative actions with Al Wirin.

If it is agreeable with the rest of you for Max and me to handle the Communist Control Act, I will get together with Max before we prepare our manuscripts in order to avoid duplication. I would suppose that Max would want to defend the law, while I view it with a certain measure of trepidation.

Please let me hear from you.

Dear Max:

Thankyou very much for sending me Herman Cooper's letter of November 27th to you, and your reply.

I shall look at a copy of "To Secure These Rights" and a copy of Felix Cohen's article in the University of Chicago Law Review.

I hope your sending Cooper's letter to me with your reply does not indicate that you thought I took offense at your proposal in Chicago. True, I did not agree with it, but I did think it very original and stimulating. No matter whether I agree with an idea, I always appreciate one that is new, and can cause men to re-examine all their basic beliefs on any subject. Besides, from what I have been able to learn about you since the Chicago meeting, I am sure that you and I are working toward the same objectives.

It was a real pleasure to meet you at the Chicago meeting, and it was again a real pleasure to see you in Washington. I am sorry that we could not get together for lunch on Tuesday, but I had to get back to Birmingham immediately.

With warm personal regards, I am

Although our initial meeting was under circumstances which should not endear me to you, I hope that future occasions will remedy the situation.

In the meantime I recognize that my indignation last Saturday night should not have been personalized toward you. Obviously, had I the same advantage of knowing you that is enjoyed by your many friends and admirers, my reaction would have been less charged.

Some day, under calmer circumstances, I would like to exchange views with you on what I regard as the most pressing problem confronting liberals of all dimensions and persuasions.

Dear Herman:

Thank you for your letter of November 27th. I returned to Washington this week to find it on my deak. I was pleased to receive it. I want you to understand that I appreciate your motivation in sending it. It is regrettable that our first meeting resulted in an explosion. I trust we will have an opportunity to become better acquainted on future occasions. In the meantime we can take solace in the fact that we apparently succeeded in breaking up a late Saturday night's illicit affair between Norpheus and her lawyer lovers!

You will be interested in examining a copy of "To Secure These Mights," the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, of which Jim Carey was a member. I find on page 16h of the United States Government Printing Office's edition, that one of the unanimous recommendations of the Committee calls for "The enactment by Congress and by the State Legislatures of legislation requiring all groups, which attempt to influence public opinion, to disclose the pertinent facts about themselves through systematic registration procedures."

If you care to pursue this question further, I would also like to refer you to Felix Cohenja article for the Institute of Living Law, which appeared in Volume 10 of the University of Chicago Law Review.

My best wishes to you.

Mr. Max Kampleman Office of Senator Humphrey U. S. Senate Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Max:

This is to confirm our telephone conversation last week regarding your lecture at my American University class. I am very pleased that you will again be able to talk with my students.

The class meeting in which your lecture would be most timely, in terms of course organization is Thursday, April 22 (I may have inadvertently mentioned the 29th over the telephone). The subject of your talk, as on previous occasions, is: The Legislator Looks at Hobbying. The class meets at 8:20 in the basement classroom at 1901 F Street.

If there are any changes in your plans which makes this date inconvenient, or if you would like further information about material previously covered in the course, please let me know.

Cordially yours,

Martin Kriesberg

Dear Dr. Kampelman:

I want to thank you for meeting once again with my Washington Semester students. It was indeed a privilege to have you with us. As you no doubt gathered by the students' reluctance to let you go, you succeeded in stimulating them greatly, and completely fulfilled the difficult task of gathering the threads of their preceding sessions on Congress into a comprehensive picture.

The student chairman of the group, who may have caught you as you were leaving, has said to me that the session with you was by far the best seminar so far in our program.

I hope that I may call on you for a repeat performance in the Fall, when we will probably have some Minnesotans again. I especially appreciate your meeting with us this semester since it was above the call of duty in this sense.

Dear Max Kampelman:

May I say for all the students how much they enjoyed their meeting with you last Thursday afternoon.

Your presentation and answers in the discussion period gave the students a wonderfully personalized view of the choices and decisions that a Senator must make. For many of the students, it was the rare opportunity to see generalizations made specific in a very understandable and sympathetic way. It meant a great deal.

Again, our thanks for taking time out from your own responsibilities to meet with us.

Dear Mr. Kampelman:

I wish to express my most sincere appreciation for your meeting with our students on October 28 and speaking to them on Congress' relation to parties and interest groups. It was most instructive and presented the Washington Semester students with a new view of government in action. The students have particularly remarked upon your relation of specific examples of pressure group activity to fundamental problems of governmental organization. The position of the legislator seems to have been presented to them in a new light.

I hope that we may have the privilege of calling upon you again for aid in the Washington Semester Program. Your contribution is most valuable to us.

Outline of Remarks
by Max M. Kampelman
before health meetings sponsored by Group Health Association at Minneapolis, Minnesota
May 20, 1953

- 1. Group Health Association is the extension of the voluntary principle to the field of health. It is in harmony with the American tradition. The American people is a people of joiners: Rotary, churches, labor unions, Kiwanis, Farmers Union, Farm Bureau, sewing circles. Voluntary association is the essence of democratic society. This is what fosters the democratic spirit. It is the inspiration of practical democracy.
- 2. We believe in the voluntary system for meeting our health needs, but we don't thereby minimize the accomplishments of medical science.
 We are in fact proud of those accomplishments.
 - 3. Our nation's health is one of the best:
 - (a) Life expentancy since 1900 increased from 49 to 68.
 - (b) We made enormous strides in combatting disease.
 - (c) is the second highest in the world. (Sweden is the first)
 - (d) We spend today nearly 10 billion dollars annually for research, public and private.
 - (e) We have 6,000 hospitals in the United States with a total of 1,500,000 beds.
- 4. But we know that there are inadequacies in America's health as well.

- (a) Some Americans get the best medical care; but others get none or at great financial sacrifice. It is estimated that perhaps one-third get no care at all.
- (b) Our doctors are mal-distributed in the United States. There are many counties that have no doctors at all.
- (c) /One-third of our 3,000 counties there is no single fulltime nurse available.
- (d) Specialists are also mal-distributed in the United States. Take pediatricians, for example. Only four percent of the 3500 pediatricians are in small towns or rural areas, where 60% of the children live.
- (e) Forty percent of the counties in the United States have no acceptable general hospital.
- (f) No state in the United States has a sufficient number of hospital beds to meet the standards established by the National Health Assembly (4.5 per 1,000).
- 5. To meet this need we meet together and join together in voluntary associations. We also ask our government to be our partner. We say that America's quality of health care is high, but many in the United States are unable to use it. The same may be said for fur coats, diamonds, or Cadillacs. Their quality is high, but not many Americans are able to take advantage of that quality. Yet the lack of health is much more serious.
- 6. We are not ashamed to say that we want the government to be our partner. The argument of socialism doesn't concern us. What about the railroads and newspapers and magazine publishers receiving government subsidies today? None of them will admit that their moral fiber is destroyed even though they will argue that the Minnesota farmer or worker will be tainted if he receives government assistance.

- 7. The campaign against the partnership of the people with their government is dangerous to our democracy. It serves to undermine the faith of the people in their government. It separates the people from the area where decisions are being made, and it leads to irresponsibility and anarchy.
- 8. That all that have striven for human progress and social justice have been similarly attacked as socialists. Early in the 19th century, for example, men and women who advocated public school system were attacked. Let me quote from one of the historians:

"In New York State, the law for tax-supported schools was declared to be infidel socialism in its principles. Unjust and oppressive in its operation, immoral in its tendency, irreligious in its consequences, and injurious to the cause of education."

- All of us know what government partnership can mean in the struggle against disease and death.
 - (a) It means longer life in that a baby born in 1953, for example, can live to the year 2021 -- 68 years. In 1932 the life span was only 60.
 - (b) It has produced the lowest death rate in our history -- 9.7 per thousand.

- (c) As a result of government research and education, deaths from typhoid is down 97%; deaths from diptheria 91%; deaths from tuberculosis 56%; deaths from dysentary down 47%; deaths from syphilis down 49%.
- (d) It has helped mothers and babies. During the 1920's, for example, more than six American mothers died in childbirth per one thousand. Today the figure is less than one. In the 1920's again, between 60 and 70 babies died per thousand. Today the figure is 30.
- (e) Government's partnership with people has produced the U. S. Public Health Service which has done splendid work in malaria control and in community water supply.
- (f) More than 80 million people today live in communities where the Public Health Service restaurant facilities protect them. None lived in those communities in 1932.
- (g) This partnership has produced a school lunch program which helps to nourish nine million school children.
- (h) It has produced a social security system to help crippled children, the blind and the handicapped.
- (i) It has produced the Hill-Burton Hospital Construction Act of 1946 which helps rural communities. By 1951, for example, it produced 82,000 new beds, and 323 health centers.
- (j) We today have seven national institutes of health doing research and working through federal funds to develop new cures. Federal funds, for example, developed penicillin which treates syphlis today. It developed vaccines against mumps and typhus.

This research developed terramyicin against amoebic dystentary, and oriomyicin as a cure for the whooping cough. It is today studying cures for heart, cancer, arthritis, and mental illnesses.

10. Our needs are today great.

- (a) Doctors -- by 1954 it is estimated we will have a shortage of 22,000. We will need 210,600 doctors by next year.
- (b) Nurses -- we will have a shortage of between 40,000 and 65,000 nurses this year.
- (c) Medical schools -- we need $40 million a year plus $330 million for new construction to take care of existing functions without adding to its responsibilities.
- (d) Hospitals -- we must extend hospital care to farms and small town areas.
 - (e) Research
 - (f) Cost of sickness.
- 11. Let me describe the Humphrey bill and the Ives-Flanders bill as examples of legislation which will help meet these health needs.

I would like to write this note to let you know how very much we all enjoyed your talk yesterday evening. It was a perfect example of the kind of meeting we have been striving for in these Coffee Hour Talks.

Your brief introduction gave our students a fine insight into the general operation of the American Congress and the question period allowed them to seek the answers to some of their own special interest problems.

Thank you very much for coming, and we hope that both you and Mrs. Kampelman will be guests at our House again.

Dear Max Kampelman:

I want to thank you for taking time to meet with the group of high school seminar students last Friday morning.

I think in their meeting with you they got a fairly good idea of what not to expect of Congress in the near future, and, even more so, the real importance of work at the community level to help create needed conditions and to elect men interested in civil rights. Several students particularly made mention of the last in group discussions.

Again, may I thank you for your willingness to share your time and knowledge with the students.

GUESTS AND PUBLIC INVITED

February 21, 1952

Mr. Ray Hartsough American Friends Service Committee 20 South 12th Street Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania

Dear Ray Hartsough:

I appreciate very much your letter of February 11 and want to apologize for the delay in replying to it. I was out of town for a few days. I now hurry to write you and to set forth my fear that it may be difficult for me to go through with my original intention to be with you during the whole week in June. It was my intention to spend the whole week with you and it still remains my hope, but I am no longer as certain of it as I was some months ago.

The Senate session will undoubtedly continue up until the beginning of the Republican convention the first week in July. This means that it may be difficult for me to leave Washington for as long as seven consecutive days. I don't think there is any question but that I could be in the session during the first week end and then would make an effort to stay for as long as I could, but I would hate to commit myself for the duration now in view of the changing picture here in the Senate.

I well appreciate your preference for a faculty willing and able to remain for the duration of the Institute. If that means you would prefer to look elsewhere for awhile before saying that it would be satisfactory for me to plan on the week end that would be perfectly understandable to me. I am sorry this complication arose, but it is unavoidable.

Your letter of February 11 requests my first and second choice of topics to talk about at the Institute in relation to the theme "What Can We Do To Help Bring Peace Now". Since my participation in your program is now in question I am not certain whether you would want to list me in the brochure, but in the event you do, I would like to suggest a topic related to my activities here in the Senate. It is not that I prefer talking about what Congress will do about foreign policy, or what the outlook for a new foreign policy is from the vantage point of the Senate, but my experience tells me that seems to interest audiences most. Wherever I go I usually find the question period directed toward just that curiosity in people about the operations of organisms of specific therefore might be "What Foreign Policy is Likely to come the Congress". If you have any other preferences, way please tell me. I should like to suit your needs.

Best wishes.

Dear Max Kampelman:

Many thanks for correcting us in regard to the spelling of your name. The following are some paragraphs as to the plans for the Institute, and about our need for speech topics from you.

"The Planning Committee has set up the following plan for the development of the Institute Program:

- lst: Each faculty member is to send to me by February 29th the first and second choice of topics upon which he would most wish to talk to the Institute group in relation to the theme "What Can We Do To Help Bring Peace Now", and related to the faculty member's particular field of study and interest.
- 2nd: Some of these topics will be listed in the final program which is to go to the printer on February 29th.
- The Program Committee will meet with the Dean the day before the Institute and work out a tentative program for the first two days of speeches, panels and group discussions. With the help of suggestions from the other students and faculty, the Program Committee and Dean will decide when the various faculty members, panel groups and students shall make presentations, and when there shall be buzz sessions or "informal sessions with one or two faculty members on a special topic.

"Each faculty member will give one major presentation, be in certain panel presentations, be a resource person in buzz sessions, and be available for informal sessions with the students. In addition to the announced informal sessions between faculty and students there will undoubtedly be many unannounced sessions. This is one of the most important parts of the Institute and one of the reasons why it is urgent that full staff, faculty and participants be there for the full period.

"You may be interested in knowing how the schedule worked out at the Institute last year:

8:30 Breakfast

9:30 Group Meditation

10:30 Morning address of discussion period

1:00 Lunch

2 -4 Recreation

4:00 Informal session with one or more of the faculty members 6:00 inner

7:30 Evening address, panel, or discussion period

9:30 Recreational programs such as square dancing, etc.

"Faculty and students will be arriving Saturday afternoon, June 7, and the first session will be that evening. Close to the time of the Institute we will be expecting to hear just when you plan to arrive. And as we get out material for the students on travel and preparations for the Institute we will be sending you copies"

We will be expecting to receive your first and second preference for a speech topic. We will need this by February 29th.

Sincerely yours.

I am writing to ask if you might be willing and interested to take part in a College Camp near Cornell, June 7--14, on the general subject of international peace.

It is hoped that Morris Rubin and Otto Klineberg, Bayard Rustin, Jack Powelson, and others may also find it possible to participate. I give you their names so you can see in what company you would be.

During the past several years the Ithaca College Camp has been a great success, and while the office here is only able to supply expenses (there is no honorarium), a number of the most qualified people have been willing to participate.

How would you feel about joining us in this effort? If you can include it on your summer calendar, Ray Hartsough, the college secretary for this area, will write you more particulars about program, pliving, and the travel there and back.

I hope your old interests keep up and that you can help us out.

Dear Mr. Kampelman:

I want to thank you for your lecture last Wednesday in our course on pressure groups and propaganda. Your fresh, on-the-scenes approach to the problem of pressure groups and the legislative process was stimulating. I know the spontaneity of the discussion, and the participation by so many of the students was eloquent testimony of their interest in what you had to say.

As I indicated, there is an honorarium of $15.00 for guest lectures. It usually takes several weeks for such vouchers to be forwarded from the University.

Again, let me thank you and Senator Humphrey for your cooperation.

Washington SDA Up to Now

This fall has seen steady growth in the Washington Chapter. our first meeting this summer there were approximately 12 members present. Each meeting since then has been larger than the last. We now have about 40 members and several dozen more interested friends. Present officers are: Oliver Popenoe, Chairman

Marshall Hudson, Vice Chairman

Erma Flores, Secretary
Roger File, Chairman, Point 4 Committee.
We constitute the Foreign Policy Committee of the National Students Democratic Action. At present we have two subcommittees: one for Democratic Action. working on the Point 4 Program under Roger File, and one working on ways in which citizens can influence foreign policy, which is temporarily without permanent chairman. Our reports will be mimeographed and distributed to chapters throughout the nation. Next year we will work on a comprehensive foreign policy report to present at the SDA National Convention.

We plan to work actively with ADA on the problem of segregation C. This week's ADA meeting will be valuable to us in chartering our direction.

Next February elections will be held to pick a new Chairman, Vice Chairman and Secretary. In the meanwhile, we want to devote all our effort to increasing our membership so that the chapter next year will be established on a firm base. We ask all of you to discuss SDA with your friends and invite them to our meetings.

Every member bring a friend.

Olie Popence, Chairman.

Dear Mr. Kempleman;

I am indeal happy to lave this opportunity to express our thanks on belief of the Washington student Citizenship Seminar for the evening you willingly gave to give an excellent talk on willingly gave to give an excellent talk on the pertinent topic, "The President's Civil Rights Program." In addition to your task of giving In addition to your task of giving us the scoop on civil rights, yours was the position of getting the seminar under way "ince you were our first speaker.

That your delivery was excellent can hardly be questioned, that the subject matter was appropriate cannot be denied, and that your humor was delightful cannot be doubted. Your definition of politics and the two party gystem with its functions and the part played by the citizen was particularly pertinent, for it tris in well with the theme of the Seminar — active Christian participation as a loyal citizen. You will without doubt be remembered as one of the "top" speakers of the Seminar. Thank you for coming.

Dear Max:

Ever since the ADA Summer School was completed I have wanted to send you a note to tell you of the deep appreciation we felt for the effort you made to get there and the magnificent contribution you made to the discussion of liberal strategy during your stay at the School. I think you know from talking with the students there that the School was considered to be a very definite success and certainly the credit for that success is shared by the stimulating lectures that were given by persons like yourself. as well as the attitude and spirit of the people who enrolled in the School. As I told you in person I felt a little heartless in importuning quite so hard to have you come all the way from Tennessee, but I am convinced that it was genuinely worthwhile and certainly we were extremely gratified that you and Maggie could be with us. I hope that you meant it when you said that. once having made the tedious trip, it impressed you as being worthwhile too.

I have also wanted to ask you about the expenses involved for the trip up to Bryn Mawr. If you will let me know what the costs were I will send a check along to you to cover these costs.

I hope to see you soon, although between the Congressional pressure and the weather I am sure you are mostly interested in completing the job and a degree of escape by this time.

Cordially yours,

John F. P. Tucker

Dear Mr. Kempelman,

As president of Local 1013, Government Workers Union, I should like to express the gratitude of all our members for your very kind acceptance of our invitation to address the Local on May 24, 1949. We all enjoyed it very much and hope that you will join our meetings at any time you can or desire.

Thank you again.

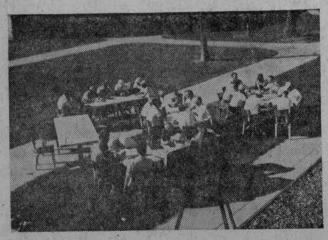

Fraternally yours,

Samuel B. Danley, President Local 1013 1. THIS IS THE SUMMER SCHOOL at Storrs, Connecticut, at the University of Connecticut, classes on a beautiful college campus beside a beautiful lake. The instructor, Max Kampelman, Executive Assistant to Senator Hubert Humphrey, is answering in detail the question Republicans always throw at you, "Just what is wrong with Taft-Hartley?"

Oh Cloudless Connecticut Clamorous Issues in Idyllic Circumstances

SEPTEMBER, 1952

2. BUZZ SESSION at the University of Connecticut. The idea is that everyone has good ideas and worthwhile experiences. In the small discussion group, everyone has a chance to make his contribution. Then the spokesmen for the small group reports to the entire group. By rotating the spokesmen everyone gets a chance to speak. Instead of one instructor, everyone teaches and is taught.

3. WORKSHOP IN POSTER-MAKING. With scissors and old magazines the students set out on the trail of an eye-smashing poster on some Political Action subject. Other workshops were conducted in journalism, union counselling, education methods, collective bargaining, time study, and political action. Altogether 100 students from the New York-New England area took part in the program.

4. ALL YOU NEED IS A PAIR OF SCISSORS and in no time you have a stunning poster. Students thought up the notion of attaching locally known names to the cut-out pictures used in the posters. The result was that people stood in line to laugh at the posters and to get the point.

5. COMPLETED POSTER ON INFLATION.

Other completed projects of the summer school: a new type discussion of foreign relations, with a 15 minute presentation by a speaker and then two panels of four, one for the position presented by the speaker, the other against. Each panel of four made its points any way it chose, by short speeches, by questions, by answers, and by interjections. Also achieved: a solid relationship with the University of Connecticut with arrangements for a cooperative winter Worker Training Program, with classes in union halls sponsored by the University of Connecticut.

Perhaps the most important achievement of the school this time, however, was the formation of a committee to elect Pat Ward, UAW member, to Congress. He is now a State Senator and the union people are anxious to move the union voice up.

AMMUNITION

Mr. E. A. Schaal American Friends Service Committee 20 South 12th Street Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dear "Red" Schaal:

Ray Hartsough suggested that I send you a statement of my expenses for the last week end at the Ithaca College camp. The railroad and plane fare plus miscellaneous expenses came to $68.71.

I was very sorry that you had to leave early on Saturday before we had an opportunity to become better acquainted. The week end sessions turned out to be excellent and most stimulating.

Best wishes to you.

Sincerely,

Max M. Kampelman Legislative Counsel to Senator Hubert H. Humphrey

Max Kampelman c/o Senator Hubert Humphrey Senate Office Building Washington, D.C.

Dear Max Kampelman:

Plans are progressing well for our College-Age Institutes. We look forward to your being with us for the first Institute June 7-14. Some of us will be there by lunch the noon of June 7th, but we hope all faculty and students will be checked in and be on hand for the first Institute meal on Saturday evening followed by the opening session of the Institute.

At least two or three weeks before the Institute we will be sending an orientation letter which will include the bus schedule to Spencer and also information on how to reach the camp by car. We can meet you either at Spencer or at Ithaca, if you let us know ahead of time when you are arriving. The address at the Institute is Ithaca Camp, Spencer, New York.

We appreciate the topics and suggestions that have been sent us. Some have been used on the Institute flyer. All the topics sent in by the faculty, along with the topics suggested by those coming to the Institute, will be mimeographed so each member of the faculty and also the Program Committee may have a copy.

The development of the Institute will be in the hands of the Program Committee, helped by such suggestions as the faculty may wish to make. The College Committee has suggested that Channing Liem present the opening address on Saturday evening to get us thinking about the nature of the situation we face as we get thinking about "What Can We Do to Help Bring Peace Now?" His topic will be "Behind The Korean Conflict". After his address on Saturday evening we will have brief comments and questions from each of the other faculty members.

We are delighted that you can be with us for the Institute. We look forward to a fine experience together.

Sincerely yours,
Ray Hartsough

Ray Hartsough College Secretary Middle Atlantic Region

P.S. We hope you can be with us for the opening session on Saturday evening, and stay with us as long as possible. If necessary, we will try to arrange for your presentation on the Washington scene on Sunday.

INFORMATION ON ITHACA COLLEGE INSTITUTES June 7-14, and 14-21, 1952

PIAN TO BRING: At least two warm blankets (most campers prefer more than two because of the cold nights), sheets and pillowcases, and a pillow if desired, sweater, sturdy shoes, bathing suit, toilet articles, towels and soap, shorts, slacks, things for rain. Keep in mind that this is a camp -- not a college campus or dormitory. Other welcome items: flashlight, Kodak, and musical instruments. If you cannot provide your own blankets, write to us and we will borrow some from our Work Camp Office for you. In bringing blankets bring plenty; last year some wished they had brought six.

HOW TO GET THERE: The camp is eight miles southwest of Danby, four miles from Spencer. To drive from Ithaca, follow Route 34 through West Danby and North Spencer to the sign "Ithaca College Camp" on the left side of the road. Turn left, follow the macadam, then dirt road to the Camp, about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles. From Waverly, follow Route 34 through Van Etten and Spencer. Just after passing through Spencer, look for the Camp sign on the right side of the road. Turn right. Follow the road and signs to the camp.

By Train: The camp can be reached through Ithaca or through Syracuse. The Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad and the Lehigh Valley Railroad run trains from New York City to Ithaca.

Bus Service to Spencer: (as reported by the Philadelphia Greyhound Office)

Leave Ithaca (Daylight Time) 9:47 AM 4:03 PM 6:00 PM 8:48 PM

Arrive Spencer (Daylight Time) 10:21 AM 4:37 PM 6:34 PM 9:22 PM

Leave Elmira (Daylight Time) 12:30 PM 4:30 PM 8:45 PM
Arrive Spencer (DaylightTime) 1:30 PM 5:30 PM 9:45 PM
(Buses will be met in Spencer and students and baggage transported to Camp)

BEGINNING OF THE INSTITUTE: Registration and assignment to cabins will be on Saturday afternoon. We hope you can arrive between 2:00 and 4:45 P.M. Saturday afternoon.

CLOSE OF THE INSTITUTE: The Institute will close with the noon meal on Saturday. Those so desiring can get the 1:30 bus to Ithaca.

Accident Insurance: We have arranged with the Indemnity Insurance Company of North America, 16th and Parkway, Philadelphia 2, Pennsylvania, to insure all campers. This is included in your camp fee.

We are sending you material which we hope will be helpful as you make ready to come to the College Institute:

- 1. Information on what to bring, bus transportation, etc.
- 2. A self-addressed card which should be returned telling us when you plan to arrive.
- 3. A mimeographed list of those who have registered and also those who have indicated that they hope to attend. Some of you may want to get in touch with each other in regard to transportation.
- 4. The list of the topics suggested by faculty and staff members and those who have registered.
- 5. The recent leaflet "Peace Is An Achievement" which helps explain the purpose of the American Friends Service Committee in sponsoring such programs as this College Institute which you plan to attend.

We look forward to seeing you Saturday afternoon, June 7 at Ithaca College Camp. The opening talk on Saturday evening at 7:30 will be given by Channing Liem on "Behind the Korean Conflict". His talk will be followed by comments by the other faculty members.

Sincerely yours,

MORNING SESSION

The meeting reconvened at 9:40 o'clock.

PRESIDENT DUBINSKY: The convention will please come to order.

We will proceed with the report of the Committee on Institutions, and I will call upon Vice President Ninfo to continue with his report.

(Vice President Ninfo then continued with his report covering Health and Welfare Benefits.)

VICE PRESIDENT NINFO: When sick benefits were first established by the local unions of the ILGWU in the first decade of this century, they were financed by the contributions of our members. It was not until 1937, that the Children's Dressmakers of New York developed the idea of a pooled-type, employer-financed fund under their collective agreements, which provided the membership of that union with vacation benefits. The idea was then extended by the Philadelphia dressmakers to include a program of health and welfare benefits. These two victories by our affiliates provided the necessary impetus to start the movement for employer-financed benefit funds.

Last year, 13 years since the birth of the idea of the pooled fund, 351,976 members of our union received vacation benefits from union-administered funds and 35,196 additional members received vacation payments directly from their employers, thus bringing the total of our members receiving vacation benefits to 387,172.

The number of our members protected by health and welfare benefits was even greater, with 395,401 members receiving health and welfare benefits from union-administered funds and 19,175 receiving these benefits under insurance carried by employers, bringing the total number of our members protected by health and welfare benefits to 414,576. In but a single year, 1949, the disbursements of our funds were divided as follows:

Payments from health and welfare funds $19,408,383.65.

Payments from retirement funds $1,788,497.89.

Payments from the Fair Income Fund of Philadelphia $533,547.64, for a total of $21,730,429.18. This amount represents the additional purchasing power which our union succeeded in placing in the pockets of our members under our health plan, welfare and retirement programs.

The operation of our health and welfare benefit program has been carried out on a sound basis. In the final analysis, all insurance and benefit plans must be soundly conceived lest their ability to pay the benefits is impaired. Our local unions, therefore, proceeded with caution when it came to determining the benefit rates under these programs.

In order to insure the funds against any adverse eventuality, it has been planned to accumulate sufficient reserves to permit benefit payments for considerable periods of time, even if the income in these funds, based on a percentage of the payrolls, is impaired as a result of bad business or depression. This policy, which in effect insures the stability of our funds and the continuity of payments to our members, meets the approval of the committee. However, in a number of cases, there is definite evidence that the employer contributions to the welfare fund have to be raised to provide for more adequate benefits and to insure the soundness of the funds.

In the three years since the last convention, our funds have faced several problems. The passage of the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947 raised questions regarding the legality of the union administration of our funds without employer participation. Your committee is glad to note that the position taken by the ILGWU, to the effect that the existing funds, established prior to January 1, 1946, continue to operate as union-administered funds, has been sustained by a decision of the U. S. District Court.

Your committee also notes that the passage of temporary disability legislation in the States of New Jersey and New York required considerable reorganization of these funds. In New Jersey, the benefit structure of our funds has been revised in order to supplement the temporary disability benefits received by our members in that state under the law.

In New York, an unsatisfactory Temporary Disability Benefits Law was passed, in violation of sound principles of social insurance. As a result of this statute, the ILGWU locals in the state are now in the process of reorganizing their health and welfare funds in order to qualify as "carriers" under this law, with a view to providing benefits at least equal to those set up by legislation. Your committee urges the incoming GEB to study the operation of our funds in relation to New York State and other state statutes, and to recommend whatever action, either in relation to the administration of our funds or the amending of the laws, may be appropriate.

Your committee notes with interest Resolution No. 136 introduced by Local 117 which recommends that the incoming GEB appoint a special committee to study the possible establishment of a disability benefit fund. Since our existing health and welfare funds pay benefits to members in the case of temporary disability brought about by illness or accident, we assume that the it together with the certificate we previously gave you.

PRESIDENT DUBINSKY: Take this, also. We have the written speeches that you have made, but not as good as you delivered here.

SENATOR HUMPHREY: Thanks, Dave, very much. (Applause.)

There is a committee consisting of Theresa Kernahan and Dorothy Johnson, of Minneapolis, who want to present a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Humphrey. (Applause.)

(Mrs. Humphrey received a bouquet of red roses.) (Applause.)

PRESIDENT DUBINSKY: I will ask Max Kampelman to come up to the platform.

(Mr. Kampelman came to the platform.)

PRESIDENT DUBINSKY: Mr. Kampelman is the legislative counsel and secretary to United States Senator Humphrey. But this is not the reason why I introduce him. All Senators have good secretaries and good legislative counsels.

While it is also important he was at the University of Minneapolis as Professor of Political Science, there is a better reason. While in this case it is all right with us. I will ask the other Senators not to do the same thing to us. But it was all right for Senator Humphrey to do it to us. You see Max Kampelman was formerly educational director and even a business agent of one of our locals, Local 155. (Applause.) We are very proud that one who worked for the Union is now working for one of the most important Senators of the United States. (Applause.)

Humphrey Meets Orphans

I think that it is appropriate at this time to call upon Rose De Carlo, the chairlady of Local 141, to bring a little gift to you—the children, the orphans of Europe, who are the guests of this convention. I want to present them to you.

They came from Italy, from Belgium, from France, from Russia, representing the many hundreds of orphans that our union supports. They send them as their ambassadors to our convention. You have met many ambassadors in your life, but you have never met ambassadors like these. (Applause.)

(The children were brought to the platform.)

PRESIDENT DUBINSKY: We have arranged for the report of the Northeast Department to be given at this morning's session. (Applause.)

If you read their report, you will find that this department has become the most important department in our union, representing close to 55,000 members. I remember at our convention six years ago expressing the hope that the department would reach the 26,000 mark, and I thought that would be a great accomplishment. Fortunately, we have a number of people so devoted, so conscientious, giving so much of themselves to the work in that department that the department has made splendid gains. I want to present the leader of that department, our old-time, energetic, able and devoted Vice-President David Gingold. plause.)

VICE PRESIDENT GINGOLD: Brother President, our distinguished Senator Humphrey, students of our Training Institute, fellow delegates: On the occasion of the 50th Anniversary of our union, I am very happy to bring to this convention very hearty greetings from all over the nation of the thousands of members of the Northeast Department that I am so privileged to represent.

I see and I look upon this convention as the greatest ever assembled. I see in this world. Coming from a great Mid-western state where we are proud of our Scandinavian people, let me tell you that to say that a labor government that has done certain things for its people is a socialist government, and a socialist government is the first step to communism, is an insult to every Norwegian, to every Swede, to every Dane, to every Englishman in this world. (Applause.)

Let me also say, my friends, that the work that those governments have completed or started for those good people, has not undermined their morale. The moral fiber of the people of Norway, of Sweden, of Denmark, of Great Britain is still good.

I don't happen to be a member of the Socialist Party. I am not here speaking for the Socialist Party. I am merely saying this: In a cold war, in a period of human history where we need friends abroad, what we ought to be thinking about is not how they count their money, but what kind of principles they believe in. Do they believe in human freedom? Do they believe in free speech, free press, freedom of assembly, freedom to worship God Almighty? Do they believe in intellectual integrity and human brotherhood? If they do, they are our friends. (Applause.)

It is for these reasons that I support the Fair Deal program. I believe in the people. I believe that the people of this country want a share in the goods of this earth. I believe in property enough to believe that if it is good enough for some, it is good enough for everybody. (Applause.) This democracy of ours is a great challenge to us. It is a great opportunity. There is so much work yet to be done. We have moved forward. We have lifted our standard of living to unbelievable heights, but there are still so many areas yet to be conquered.

Let us not lose faith in ourselves or in our government. There is yet the chance to make this a peaceful world, without compromise to totalitarian dictatorship. There is yet the opportunity to do what we have wanted to do all of our lives: to build the kind of a society in which each and every person can make his contribution, can be an active participant, a shareholder in the great democracy of the world.

I commend to you the program that you are launched upon in the ILGWU, because what you are doing is what needs to be done all over this world. You have placed your emphasis upon people, not privilege. You have placed your faith in the democratic process, not in dictatorship. You have placed your hopes and your faith in your ability to master the problems that confront you as an organization and as individual citizens.

May God bless you in your work, and may you keep up the job that you have so well started, until ultimate victory is not only ours in America, but belongs to the free peoples of this world.

Thank you. (The audience arose and applauded.)

PRESIDENT DUBINSKY: Senator, as usual, you were splendid. (Applause.)

Senator, it is my privilege and my honor to present the badge of this convention to one of the outstanding liberals that we have in this country, one who plays a great and magnificent part in the legislative body of our nation, one with a true heart and soul.

We, as the convention of the union of which you are an honorary member, want to express to you, not only with words, but with an expression of the spirit of our 50th Anniversary Convention, what we feel towards you. Here is the 50th Anniversary badge of the convention of the ILGWU. After the convention you can use it as a money clip. You will probably want to display
