Mr. Dick Little
Executive Director
Community Circles on Housing, Education and Race
2211 Riverside Ave, CB 185
Minneapolis, MN 55406

Dear Mr. Little:

I am writing to invite you to participate in a panel discussion on innovative approaches to our nation's racial problems as part of a National Issues Forum entitled "Race in America: New Approaches to Bridging the Divide." The Forum will be held at the Brookings Institution on May 6 and 7, 1999, with your panel scheduled for the morning of the latter day. The audience will include members of the Brookings Board of Trustees and the Brookings Council as well as staff, policymakers, scholars, journalists and opinion-makers with a strong interest in the issue.

We have invited the distinguished historian Dr. John Hope Franklin to deliver an opening keynote address. Your panel would immediately follow Dr. Franklin's remarks. Other panelists will include representatives from the Pacific Institute for Community Organization in Oakland, the Television and Race Initiative in San Francisco, and A Better Chance based in New York City.

A second panel will address broader approaches to racial problems confronting the nation, examining trends in economics, politics, human welfare, the legal system, and advocacy. Invited participants include Harvard sociologist Orlando Patterson, University of Pennsylvania professor of sociology Elijah Anderson, economist and syndicated columnist Julianne Malveaux, Washington Post columnist William Raspberry, and Elaine Jones, director of the Legal Defense Fund, Inc. An address by Ben Johnson, newly-appointed director of the President's Initiative Race outlining the President's agenda on race, will follow the second panel.

The program begins on the evening of May 6 with a dinner and violin concert for Forum participants to be held at Brookings. Rachel Barton will perform material from her recent compact disc recording of Violin Concertos of Black Composers of the 18th and 19th Centuries. We invite you and your spouse to join us for dinner and the concert.

I hope you will accept our invitation to participate in this important Forum. We will defray your air travel and hotel expenses in accordance with the enclosed guidelines. If you have any questions please
