V - The Fire Marshal will have general supervision over the apparatus, and the measures taken for the protection of the post from fire. He will have at least one fire drill a month at such times as may be decided upon in each case after conference with the Commanding Officer.

The senior assistant in each district will have charge at any fire within his district, subject to the orders of the Fire Marshal and the Commanding Officer.

Near the end of each month the Fire Marshal will cause his assistants to inspect all fire apparatus within their districts, and to make a written and detailed report as to the condition thereof. These reports will be laid before the Post Commander by the Fire Marshal with such recommendations as he may deem fit.

The senior officer present will assume charge at any fire until the arrival of the Fire Marshal or of one of his assistants.

On an alarm of fire, all organizations will proceed to the scene thereof taking with them all fire-buckets and axes and such special apparatus as is assigned to them by section I of this order, (except Company C, 28th Infantry, which will join its cart at the fire.)

In case of fire, the commander of the guard will have the reveille gun fired three times, will unlock the engine house, and will cause the musician of the guard to sound fire call. Musicians of organizations will take up and repeat the fire call until it is apparent that the garrison has been aroused, but they will not confuse matters by continuing to sound the calls after that has been done.

Any one discovering a fire will immediately give the alarm, arouse the occupants of the building, and call up the central operator from the nearest telephone. Sentinels may quit their posts to carry this regulation into effect.

A prolonged ring on the telephone will be used when sending in an alarm of fire and will receive immediate attention by the operator on duty. Anyone so reporting a fire will give the operator the location of the same and any other information considered necessary. It will be the duty of the corporal of the guard, whose relief is on post, at the sounding of the alarm to give notice to the telephone operator. The operator will stay at the switch board and notify the Commanding Officer and all of the fire marshals that have telephone connection, also the lower guard house and the stable guards, as to the location of the fire. One man connected with the telephone office will sound the alarm by the bell in tower; if none is in the vicinity, the operator on duty will call anyone in sight to do so.

The following signals will be used to indicate the locality of the fire:

One stroke—repeated at short intervals—First District.

Two strokes—repeated at short intervals—Second District.

Three strokes—repeated at short intervals—Third District.

The Quartermaster will give such orders to the engineer at the pumping station, with respect to increased pressure, as the emergency requires.

WATER SIGNALS.

One long blast of the trumpet---Turn off water at hydrant.

Two short blasts of trumpet---Turn on water at hydrants that have hose in readiness.

VI. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

1. The first duty of those first at the fire is to enter the building and remove every living thing, people and animals.

2. Clear the house of smoke by opening windows at the top or at the hatch door leading to the roof; this may increase the fire at first, but a fire cannot be fought in smoke.

3. Locate the fire. Never follow a fire up but try to head it off.

4. Don't talk and shout, keep quiet so that you can hear commands; your chiefs are responsible for your conduct and efficiency.

5. To open a fire plug, place the wrench on the plug, place left hand on top of the plug over the wrench, take hold with the right hand and pull toward you.

For the truck with the extension ladder, Company B, 28th Infantry.

For the horse cart, Company C, 28th Infantry—This cart to be sent to a fire by the quartermaster.

For the hand hose carts—To the one in the engine house, Company D, 28th Infantry, At the infantry barracks, Company I, 28th Infantry,

At the artillery barracks, Battery D, 5th Field Artillery.

Salvage Companies are detailed as follows :

For the First District—Band, 28th Infantry,

For the Second District—Company G, 28th Infantry.

For the Third District—Company L, 28th Infantry.

The extension ladders will be in charge of the organization at whose barracks they are located. Those at A, C, E, G, I and L company barracks will be taken to all fires.

V. The Fire Marshal will have general supervision over the apparatus, and the measures taken for the protection of the post from fire.

There will be frequent drills in order that officers and noncommissioned officers be made thoroughly proficient in the use of the fire apparatus, and familiar with the interior of the buildings and property in them.

The senior assistant in each district will have charge at any fire within his district, subject to the orders of the Fire Marshal and the Commanding Officer.

Assistants will make frequent inspections to assure themselves that all equipment in their respective districts is in order for immediate use. All deficiencies or repairs needed will be at once reported to the Fire Marshal, who will have the defects remedied if possible. Otherwise he will report the facts to the Commanding Officer.

Assistants will also from time to time inspect all basements of buildings within their respective districts where furnaces are located to see that the proper safeguards against fires are being taken by the officers responsible.

The Fire Marshal and each of the First Assistants will select and instruct at least four men to report to them at fires to act as messengers. Those for the Fire Marshal will be company musicians, who will bring their trumpets with them.

The senior officer present will assume charge at any fire until the arrival of the Fire Marshal or one of his assistants.

On an alarm of fire, all organizations will proceed to the scene thereof, taking with them all fire buckets and other receptacles that can be used for the same purpose, all fire axes, and such special apparatus as is assigned to them by section 4 of this order (except Company C, 28th Infantry, which will join its truck at the fire).

Organizations having charge of hose carts will detail by name, two spanner men, two wrench men, and two substitutes for each of these, and will see that they understand the use of the spanner and wrench.

Organizations will be instructed frequently in the handling of equipment, or in duties assigned in this order. Organization commanders will be held responsible that the equipment or duties can be efficiently handled or performed in their respective commands.

Company officers upon an alarm of fire will join their commands at the earliest practical moment, either at their barracks or at the scene of the fire.

Officers will keep their men in hand at fires and avoid confusion. To this end organizations upon arrival thereat will be reported to the Fire Marshal or to the assistant in charge, and will then be held in ranks, accompanied by their officers, until told to do some specific thing.

One relief of the guard will proceed to every fire and be reported by the Officer of the Day to the Fire Marshal or to the assistant fire marshal in charge.

In case of fire the commander of the guard will have the reveille gun fired three times, will unlock the engine house, and will cause the musician of the guard to sound fire call. Musicians of organizations will take up and repeat the fire call until it is apparent that the garrison has been aroused, but they will not confuse matters by continuing to sound the calls after that has been done.

Any one discovering a fire will immediately give the alarm, arouse the occupants of the building, and call up the central operator from the nearest telephone. Sentinels may quit their posts to carry this regulation into effect.

Any one reporting a fire will give the operator at central telephone station the location of the same, and any information considered necessary. It will be the duty of the corporal of the guard, whose relief is on post, at the sounding of the alarm to give notice to the telephone operator. The operator will stay at the switchboard and notify the Commanding Officer and all of the fire marshals that have telephone connection, also the lower guard house, and stable guards as to the location of the fire.

One man connected with the telephone office will sound the alarm by bell in tower; if none is in the vicinity, the operator will call anyone in sight to do so.

The following signals will be used to indicate the locality of the fire:

One stroke --repeated at short intervals--First District.
Two strokes--repeated at short intervals--Second District.
Three strokes--repeated at short intervals--Third District.

The Quartermaster will give such orders to the engineer at the pumping station, with respect to increased pressure, as the emergency requires.

One Surgeon and three hospital corps men will proceed to the scene of the fire, prepared to give medical aid, taking a hand litter with them.

WATER SIGNALS:

One long blast of trumpet—Turn off water at hydrant.
Two short blasts of trumpet—Turn on water at hydrants that have hose in readiness.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS:

1. The first duty of those first at the fire, is to enter the building, and remove every living thing, people and animals.
2. Clear the house of smoke by opening windows at the top or at the hatch door leading to the roof; this may increase the fire at first, but fire cannot be fought in smoke.
3. Locate the fire. Never follow a fire up, but try to head it off.
4. Don't talk and shout—keep quiet, so that you can hear commands—your chiefs are responsible for your conduct and efficiency.

5. To open a fire plug, place the wrench on the plug, place left hand on top of the plug over the wrench, take hold with right hand and pull toward you.

"In order that the defects noted herein may be corrected, the Division Commander directs that instructions covering the following points be issued:

(a) That during the periods of instruction prescribed by Post Commanders, no enlisted man shall be excused from attendance, except as follows:

FOR THE COMPANY—Three men only, viz: Two cooks, one man in charge of quarters.

FOR THE POST—In addition to the sick, the guard, and noncommissioned staff officers, only those men whose services are absolutely necessary, for example, for running pumping and central heating plants when civilian labor is not available and cases of emergency that may arise, all such cases to be immediately reported to Department Commanders.

Guard Mounting should be held after the period set apart for drills and instructions, so that only one guard may be absent therefrom, and all garrison prisoners should be required to be with organizations during drills.

(b) That during the periods of instruction administrative work be performed by staff and noncommissioned staff officers only.

(c) That all officers, except staff officers when their respective organizations are not at drills and instruction, be required to be present during the period set apart therefore.

(d) That progressive schemes of instruction covering both the garrison and field training, be made out by all organization commanders, and that company and battalion commanders submit to the next higher commander a brief statement beforehand of the work they propose to do on any given day, especially on full organization days.

(e) That issues and sales in the Quartermaster's Department, in the Commissary, and sales in the Post Exchange, be not made during the period devoted to instruction; that the performance of work required of special and extra men in the post and in the company be restricted to the time outside of the regular period of drill and instruction period.

* * * * *

In addition to the above, the following will be observed:

All garrison prisoners, the entire fatigue company, and that portion of the guard company not actually on guard will attend drill.

Company commanders will send a suitable detail to the guard house for the garrison prisoners of their respective companies in due time for their attendance at drills; the company commanders will become responsible for the safekeeping of the prisoners during drills, and will return them to the guard house when drill terminates.

After drill the fatigue company will report for fatigue.

The names of men whose services are absolutely necessary for other duties during drills will be published when necessary.

BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF WAR:

W. W. WOTHERSPOON,
Major General, Acting Chief of Staff.

OFFICIAL:

GEO. ANDREWS,
The Adjutant General.

POST OF FORT SNELLING,

Fort Snelling, Minn., Nov. 27, 1912

MEMORANDUM:

The following record of Summary Court is published for the information of the command:

Charge and Specification preferred against Private Oliver H. Venable, Company G, 28th Infantry.

CHARGE: Violation of 62d Article of War.

Specification: In that he did absent himself from the post, having been placed in quarantine, in violation of Memorandum Post of Fort Snelling, Minnesota, dated November 20th, 1911.

This at Fort Snelling, Minn., November 16, 1912.

FINDINGS:

Of Specification:	"Guilty"
Of Charge:	"Guilty"

SENTENCE:

"Forfeiture of fifteen dollars and two months' confinement at hard labor."

ACTION:

The sentence was approved November 18, 1912 and will be duly executed.

In the foregoing case the accused not only committed a military misdemeanor in violating the orders of the Commanding Officer, but his misconduct had a more extended effect in that he, by violating his quarantine while he was infected with a contagious disease, endangered the health, present and future, of the unprotected and probably unsuspecting persons with whom he came in contact.

A quarantine is the isolation of infected persons to limit the spread of disease, and the attention and interest of this command is directed to the vital necessity for conscientious observance of its requirements. Such observation is a moral as well as a military obligation, and every soldier who does his full duty to his Commanding Officer and to Humanity will not only observe it himself but cause it to be observed by others.
