V. The Fire Marshal will have general supervision over the apparatus, and the measures taken for the protection of the post from fire.

There will be frequent drills in order that officers and noncommissioned officers be made thoroughly proficient in the use of the fire apparatus, and familiar with the interior of the buildings and property in them.

The senior assistant in each district will have charge at any fire within his district, subject to the orders of the Fire Marshal and the Commanding Officer.

Assistants will make frequent inspections to assure themselves that all equipment in their respective districts is in order for immediate use. All deficiencies or repairs needed will be at once reported to the Fire Marshal, who will have the defects remedied if possible. Otherwise he will report the facts to the Commanding Officer.

Assistants will also from time to time inspect all basements of buildings within their respective districts where furnaces are located to see that the proper safeguards against fires are being taken by the officers responsible.

The Fire Marshal and each of the First Assistants will select and instruct at least four men to report to them at fires to act as messengers. Those for the Fire Marshal will be company musicians, who will bring their trumpets with them.

The senior officer present will assume charge at any fire until the arrival of the Fire Marshal or one of his assistants.

On an alarm of fire, all organizations will proceed to the scene thereof, taking with them all fire buckets and other receptacles that can be used for the same purpose, all fire axes, and such special apparatus as is assigned to them by section 4 of this order (except Company C, 28th Infantry, which will join its truck at the fire).

Organizations having charge of hose carts will detail by name, two spanner men, two wrench men, and two substitutes for each of these, and will see that they understand the use of the spanner and wrench.

Organizations will be instructed frequently in the handling of equipment, or in duties assigned in this order. Organization commanders will be held responsible that the equipment or duties can be efficiently handled or performed in their respective commands.

Company officers upon an alarm of fire will join their commands at the earliest practical moment, either at their barracks or at the scene of the fire.

Officers will keep their men in hand at fires and avoid confusion. To this end organizations upon arrival thereat will be reported to the Fire Marshal or to the assistant in charge, and will then be held in ranks, accompanied by their officers, until told to do some specific thing.

One relief of the guard will proceed to every fire and be reported by the Officer of the Day to the Fire Marshal or to the assistant fire marshal in charge.

In case of fire the commander of the guard will have the reveille gun fired three times, will unlock the engine house, and will cause the musician of the guard to sound fire call. Musicians of organizations will take up and repeat the fire call until it is apparent that the garrison has been aroused, but they will not confuse matters by continuing to sound the calls after that has been done.

Any one discovering a fire will immediately give the alarm, arouse the occupants of the building, and call up the central operator from the nearest telephone. Sentinels may quit their posts to carry this regulation into effect.

Any one reporting a fire will give the operator at central telephone station the location of the same, and any information considered necessary. It will be the duty of the corporal of the guard, whose relief is on post, at the sounding of the alarm to give notice to the telephone operator. The operator will stay at the switchboard and notify the Commanding Officer and all of the fire marshals that have telephone connection, also the lower guard house, and stable guards as to the location of the fire.

One man connected with the telephone office will sound the alarm by bell in tower; if none is in the vicinity, the operator will call anyone in sight to do so.

The following signals will be used to indicate the locality of the fire:

One stroke --repeated at short intervals--First District.
Two strokes--repeated at short intervals--Second District.
Three strokes--repeated at short intervals--Third District.

The Quartermaster will give such orders to the engineer at the pumping station, with respect to increased pressure, as the emergency requires.

One Surgeon and three hospital corps men will proceed to the scene of the fire, prepared to give medical aid, taking a hand litter with them.

WATER SIGNALS:

One long blast of trumpet—Turn off water at hydrant.
Two short blasts of trumpet—Turn on water at hydrants that have hose in readiness.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS:

1. The first duty of those first at the fire, is to enter the building, and remove every living thing, people and animals.
2. Clear the house of smoke by opening windows at the top or at the hatch door leading to the roof; this may increase the fire at first, but fire cannot be fought in smoke.
3. Locate the fire. Never follow a fire up, but try to head it off.
4. Don't talk and shout—keep quiet, so that you can hear commands—your chiefs are responsible for your conduct and efficiency.

5. To open a fire plug, place the wrench on the plug, place left hand on top of the plug over the wrench, take hold with right hand and pull toward you.

* * * * *

"In order that the defects noted herein may be corrected, the Division Commander directs that instructions covering the following points be issued:

(a) That during the periods of instruction prescribed by Post Commanders, no enlisted man shall be excused from attendance, except as follows:

FOR THE COMPANY—Three men only, viz: Two cooks, one man in charge of quarters.

FOR THE POST—In addition to the sick, the guard, and noncommissioned staff officers, only those men whose services are absolutely necessary, for example, for running pumping and central heating plants when civilian labor is not available and cases of emergency that may arise, all such cases to be immediately reported to Department Commanders.

Guard Mounting should be held after the period set apart for drills and instructions, so that only one guard may be absent therefrom, and all garrison prisoners should be required to be with organizations during drills.

(b) That during the periods of instruction administrative work be performed by staff and noncommissioned staff officers only.

(c) That all officers, except staff officers when their respective organizations are not at drills and instruction, be required to be present during the period set apart therefore.

(d) That progressive schemes of instruction covering both the garrison and field training, be made out by all organization commanders, and that company and battalion commanders submit to the next higher commander a brief statement beforehand of the work they propose to do on any given day, especially on full organization days.

(e) That issues and sales in the Quartermaster's Department, in the Commissary, and sales in the Post Exchange, be not made during the period devoted to instruction; that the performance of work required of special and extra men in the post and in the company be restricted to the time outside of the regular period of drill and instruction period.
