PICTURE -
BOOK.

See this little girl,
With the pretty curl,
Right in each her bonnet of blue.

She is going to clip some posies, Off this bush of Rosie's and she's going to give them all to you. — G. S. J.

(Centula Louise Jonsson)

This little boy's name is Tommy. He has a new suit and hat. He likes the suit because it has pockets to put his hands in. When he puts his hands in his pockets he feels like a man. Tommy is watching some little sparrows in the park. They are hungry little birdies. They are pecking up seeds to take to their baby sparrows in the nests in the tree tops.

The little boy name is Jimmy.
He has a new suit and hat. He likes to play because it has good toys and his father likes to play with him. Jimmy is a little boy and he likes to play with his toys. Jimmy is a little boy and he likes to play with his toys.

Mary is the little girl with the big red balloon. The baby with the blue ball is her little brother Dick. He likes the ball very much. Mary likes to see the wind carry the balloon high in the air.

The little boy's name is William But his mama does not like the name William so she calls him Willie. Do you like the name Willie? Willie is a good little boy. He eats bread and milk for breakfast. Willie's papa sets his high chair by the window when he eats. Then he can look out doors. He can see the boys coasting on the hill with their sleds. He can see the boys throw snow balls at each other and he can see the birdies hopping around in the soft white snow.

 says to his right hand by the number when he eats then he goes out to see the sun and the boy playing on the hill with his sleds. He has all the boys there and a ball at each other and because the boys playing around in the soft white snow.

Jack has a new red white and blue top. How it runs. How fast it spins. Jack spins his top with a long top string.

Betty is very sick with a bad cold. It is such a bad cold that the doctor came and Betty had to go to bed. At first she cried because she did not like to lay in bed all day when the other little children played out doors. Pretty soon she stopped crying. She was very lonesome. Then she was very happy because her mama came in and sat on the bed beside her, and told her a lovely story about a white rabbit.

See this fat little soldier boy. His papa is going to buy him a gun. That is why he is so happy. He has some tin soldiers and a little canon and a rocking horse at home. His mama made the soldier suit for him, because he was a good boy. He likes to march with a drum.

I have a very beautiful dog named Rover. He is very proud of his long tail. He is very thirsty just now. See how his red tongue hangs out of his mouth. "Woof woof!" he barks. "I want a drink. He is a kind dog. He takes care of the children. He is very fond of bones and would like it very much if you would give him one.

These little girls are called three names are from and Kipling they have a new jumping rope they are having lots of fun with it. They had a ball the ball has a rope. It has four the rope is going they both like to jump rope. They both have new dresses on. One is red and brown in blue and the other has a number on it.

The names of these two little children are Billy and Jane. Billy has a big sack of peanuts in his hand. He got the peanuts at the store. They like to feed the soft grey squirrels in the park. Jane feeding a peanut to a pretty grey squirrel with bright black eyes. He is very glad to get the peanuts. When he gets one he scampers up a tree to sit and eat it.

YOUR GROCER

YOUR GROCER

From the dawning of the morning when the first grey streaks appear To the falling of the darkness every day throughout the year, In the Spring and in the Summer, in the Winter and the Fall, There's one who's always striving just to try to serve us all.

He rises in the Winter by "yellow candlelight" And soon the windows of his store are all aglow and bright.
When the vanguard of his customers with varied wants appear He is ready with his teeming shelves -- and a friendly word of cheer.

When the morning rush is over there is no rest for him, He must hasten to the market amid the crush and din Of rumbling trucks and tooting horns, a pushing shouting mob, There's food to buy -- for you and I -- that is the grocer's job.

Then back to meet the day's demands for tidbits from afar - Some special blend from Java and dates from Zanzibar; A keg of Norway herring, a pack of China tea, A jar of ripened olives from far across the sea.

a pack of savory spices

It's not just food he carries to fill our daily needs, He must needs gather every kind of sundry soaps and seeds.
His shelves are filled with helpers to aid the busy wife, To lighten every daily task and brighten up her life.

It isn't like the old-time store with coffee in a sack, And barrels full of crackers and sugar, in the back.
No red-hot, heavy-bellied stove now occupies the floor, No small of smoke to greet you as you open up the door.

This modern store is sparkling with counters white as snow, The glass on every show-case is glistening in the glow Of brilliant lights that flood the store and make it bright as day; The windows on the street are filled with colorful display.

Instead of bins and barrels bright packages appear In even rows on painted shelves, and all the aisles are clear.
This grocer is a merchant with modern ways and means, Who knows his merchandising as well as he does beans.

The goods he puts upon his shelves are not put there to stay, Because they're advertised and known they're moving every day.
The housewife, too, soon figures out her money buys far more, When trading with this grocer-man in his efficient store.

The Grocery on the Corner has stood for many a year, The grocer-man has seen the old go out, the new appear;
He has grown up with his neighbors in a quiet friendly way, And shares their joys and sorrows that come from day to day.

He knows when every babe is born and what the name will be He caters for the wedding feast - he brings the Christmas Tree; And when Misfortunes' shadow falls across the threshold bare, - He is the first to lend a hand of sympathetic care.

Remember, then, to list among the friends you like to meet The patient, cheerful, grocer-man whose store is down the street, Perhaps a friendly word from you when next you pass his door May help him in this job of his
-- to run YOUR Grocery Store.
