Century Farms
1265 Snelling Avenue North
St Paul MN 55108-3099

My name is Anne Catherine Dickie. I am the fourth generation to reside on my family farm just North of Waterville MN. I have written a brief family history to honor my predecessors and the vital role they played in shaping not only our community but also our Great Nation and way of life. I have included it in our application for a Century Farm Plaque in rememberence of them and all the brave pioneers of our beautiful state.

My Great Grandfather, Peter Daniel Dickie, was born in Cleveland MN on March 11, 1859 to Scottish immigrants John William and Margaret Ann Watt Dickie, who settled near family on Scotch Lake just a couple of years before. Lured to America by the prospect of work in a sawmill operated by his sister and her husband. After several lean years and many hardships they purchased forty acres and became substantial farmers. It is important to note that John William enlisted in the Union Army in 1865, where he became a member of Company E, Forth MN Volunteer Infantry.

Peter married Margaret Jones, Grand daughter of Welsh Matriarch Margaret Hughes Davis, on March 12, 1883 without gaining Ms. Davis' complete confidence in the match. Seven years later she was, however, persuaded to finance the purchase of seventy three acres of would be farm land near the city of Waterville for the couple to work on their own. Moving some twenty miles away the couple felt freed from the constant scrutiny of this powerful women.

Peter and Margaret set up housekeeping by moving two existing buildings together to create a two room farmhouse. The kitchen would be the home's center and the children slept in loft built above it.

Despite the distance there were still occasions for the formidable Ms. Davis to make the trip from Le Sueur to check on her grand daughter's progress. On one such visit her attentions were set on the number of rocks still in the field. "When are you going to get rid of those rocks?!" she demanded. Peter, the story goes, calmly replied "Well we lifted the biggest rock today" referring to paying her the final mortgage payment. By paying off the money owed, the couple declared independence for their family and seven years later added sixty adjacent acres to their farm.

My Great-Grand Parents used their independence and resources to create a place where Sunday Dinner was offered freely to friends and strangers alike. My Grandfather told me that even peddlers, shunned by most in the community, and hobos, fresh off the train that ran past the farm, found a hot meal, a place to sleep, good conversation and perhaps even a book. Their substantial library, supplemented by heritage and community, was well known in the region. At one time their home was known as a "Mental Place" reflecting the reputation of book lending and philosophical, scientific, as well as theological discussions.

Peter and Margaret had three surviving children, having lost twins in infancy, daughter Anna Luella and sons Peter Lewis and Owen Reese. All were expected to go to and excel in local schools and benefit from the education and experiences of their frequent visitors.

It was one such visitor that coached young Anna in the Oratory Arts. A fast and eager learner, Anna acquired skills in the art of speaking she would hone so masterfully she would later be called "one of the worlds fastest speakers" by Literary Digest, a popular news magazine of her time.

Anna married Dutch immigrant Peter Olsen on June 8, 1905, a school principal. Mr. Olsen noticed Anna years before while selling books in the region to support his education. Three years later they moved to Cloquet, Minnesota where Peter served as the superintendent of schools. Not housewife material, Anna spent her time organizing and speaking to women's clubs. Spreading her cause for women's voting rights with her powerful, forthright and elegant manner that attracted much attention and inspiration on the part of her listeners. A true suffragette, she played an active role in the passage of many social reforms, such as, women's voting rights, the passage of the Children's Code in Minnesota, and later the Social Security Act. While serving as President of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Minnesota 8th Congress District she attracted the Governor's appointment for delegate to the International Child Welfare Congress in Washington, D.C..

Her reputation spread to the Democratic Party and repeatedly invited to speak statewide in many prestigious and previously male forums.

When a disastrous forest fire devastated her small town in 1918 it took virtually everything from it's victims. Anna lobbied endlessly for public compensation from the government. Not until 1934, after six years of legislation, was a settlement made that gave only fifty cents on the dollar, and not all residents would be eligible. Not satisfied Anna tenaciously held her convictions. Finally, in Roosevelt's' second term, she persuaded Congress to pass a bill for their complete compensation. She never gave up a worthwhile cause, and her honest, forthright approach entrusted her to the public.

Anna's talent for speech writing and delivering found a national platform when she became a featured speaker at Chat aqua, a popular entertainment troupe of the era. A position that would earn her fame and fortune as well as powerful allies in support of her socially conscience causes. By his own request she campaigned for F.D.Rooselvelt and became a promoter of his New Deal. A moving Keynote Speaker she was invited to give the nominating speech for the Presidents' second term. In fact she remained a Delegate-At-Large for the party for years to come.

She used what she had learned on the campaign trail when she won the Democratic nomination for Senator in 1922, the first women in Mn. to do so.

Anna Dickie Olsen would be the first woman in many political appointments, which she used to influence the power of change toward her heartfelt causes. Her many achievements are documented in a publication of the Minnesota Historical Society titled "Women in Minnesota Selected Biographical Essays". Too many to mention here, her achievements all came from her desire to improve the lives of women and children. When speaking to hundreds of entranced listeners proclaiming her right to vote she improvised her closing by grabbing hold of the large American flag that shared the stage and as she draped the fabric over her small (5'2") feminine frame proclaimed, "I'd rather be a voting American than wear the robes of royalty". She brought the house down!

Brother Owen also found interest in writing and politics. His political commentary and satirical articles, usually on the topic of the plight of the small farmer, were published often in local papers submitted under the pseudonym Adam Lyre. An amateur historian, Owen once traveled to the back hills of Missouri to interview relatives of the James Gang, in an effort to answer one driving question, "Why Northfield?".

The Dickie men supplemented their farm income by selling insurance throughout southern Minnesota. Eventually, my grandfather, Peter Lewis, settled back to the farm of his youth. Owen married and moved to town and Anna would eventually settle in Northfield.

Peter Lewis married a young school teacher named Martha Mortenson and raised my father John with the same reverence to education and knowledge. Dad graduated with the highest National Honors from the U of M in Minneapolis and earned a full fellowship to the U of W Madison where he received a PhD in Biochemistry. With a career in product development, private corporate consulting, and four daughters to his credit, he has now retired to the Waterville community.

Education and public service remain important forces behind the ambitions of my sisters and I. My older sister Joan worked for her Masters Degree in Sociology during the ten years she lived on the family farm. Her restoration efforts, endless cleaning and decorating skills breathed new life into old buildings and made possible their continued use. Joan now resides in Somis Ca. with husband Randy Evans and son Christopher where she teaches college students sociology.

I received my B.S. degree in Early Childhood and Elementary Education from the University of Pgh. I intend on remaining on the family farm after relocating from Savannah Ga. to take over for my sister where she left off. Constant attention is needed in order to keep these hand crafted buildings in use and not be replaced by modern pre-fab sheds.

My younger sister Allison earned her degree in International Communications from Syracuse University and now resides in Atlanta Ga. Youngest sister Kimberly is an experienced paramedic and now serves the public as a Cardiac Nurse in a New Jersey hospital.

All strong women linked to other strong women by heritage and motive.

I am proud to be a part of a community that values heritage and history as this Century Plaque Program demonstrates.

My Sincere Thank you Al Dickil

Additional comments: I think christian and my Dad homestuled it a few years larlier but had to live on it so many yos befor they could claim it.
It was all words and brush and they cleared it by cutting the trees down and when the stumps notted they broke it up. 13 children were raised on this farm. Ten are still living today. We had a hard life but with raising own own buf, milk and chickens and big gardens we managed to survive. We also had a good supply of venison and wild birds like sharp tail and ruffel grance, In the later eyes we had our own throshing machine and did some custom threshing and grew quite a bit of grain. Farm has been in CRP for the last 11 years but the yard is Kept up by my Sister and Bro-in-low so looks like a park!!

Just a Personal Note

My brother, Ervin Cordes Jr., encouraged me to wait with the recognition of the Cordes Family Farm until this year. At this time the entire section 20 of Elm Creek Township would be a Century Farm owned by our parents, Ervin & Emma Cordes, and their three children & spouses: Ervin Jr. & Sharon Cordes, Larry & Eileen (Cordes) Fringer, and Earl & Charlotte Cordes.

On September 16, 2002, my brother, Ervin Jr., died of a heart attack. Our family is now planning to celebrate his dream of the Cordes Family Century Farm on the weekend of his 60th birthday, July 12, 2003. His love for his Lord, his family, and the farm will be remembered by all of us.

Eilen E. Fringer

That is no longer the case. Much of the uninhabited. They have fond memories of years gone by when they had many more neighbors than they now have.

It is, perhaps, the "lament" of the

Additional comments

This is where both Pat & Carole lived and helped farm until going to college. They both worked hard on the land driving tractors plus helping milk the dairy cattle. Our father, Carl, was the farmer who helped the neighborhood with harvesting. First he had a threshing machine and later a combine. He also was the one who did "custom baling, corn picking, etc". Since he only had girls, it became imperative that they be able function as farm hands. Carole remembers driving the tractors for her father's threshing crews throughout the neighborhood prior to being in 6th grade since she pulled by racks past her rural elementary school that fall before school started again. All the daughters were able to drive tractors and trucks plus handle cultivators, rakes, bale loaders, etc. in order to get the crops planted, cultivated and harvested.

Our parents, Carl & Alma Lea, purchased one of the first irrigators in Lake Johanna. Carole & Pat recently replaced the old rig with a new one. The farm has ample water to supply the irrigator. It is as though the land sits on top of an underground lake.

We have always felt we wanted to keep the "family farm" in the Lea name. Our sister, Val, mortgaged her 1/3 for a loan and lost it. However, Carole immediately purchased the 1/3 so the land could remain not only intact but in the family name.

Pat & Carole also own the adjacent 80 (really 79.14 because of easements). However, their father did not purchase this portion until 1941 so it cannot be included in the "Century Farm" category.

The early immigrants often changed their name during their early years in America. Some of the documents we have found in other places had our family name spelled: Halvorson, Halvorson-Lia, Liah, Leah, and Lea

Additional comments:

Thomas A. moved to Redwood County from Wisconsin in 1893 following three older brothers who had established farms here. He farmed for seven years about three miles northwest of this farm, in Delhi Township. Robert Stewart built the original house in 1897. This is confirmed by dated graffiti on a 2x4 wall stud and by a letter from a D. Campbell - McGregor of Scotland to Robert Stewart ("My dear old Bob") which was in the wall space above an upstairs window both found during the 1990 remodeling. Great grandpa Tom added to the house in 1905, doubling its size and adding a pressurized water system with running water both upstairs and downstairs. He must have not wanted to be trapped in the house as it then had five outside entrance/exit doors on the main floor. In 1908 he built a Class A concrete barn. The barn was all cement from the ground to the peak of the roof. Even the hayloft floors over the outer thirds of the structure were cement with trolley car track girders. The only wood used was in the door and window framing, the hayloft floor over the center section and the roof with its post and beam supports. Tom and Hattie retired to town in 1918 living there until they passed away in 1955 and 1954 at the ages of 95 and 91 years. Hubert and Anna (Simpson) then took over the farming, Hubert having graduated from the U of M farm school. He developed a herd of Guernsey milk cows, made the transition from horses to tractors and brought electricity to the farm. In 1945, after serving in WWII, Robert and Grace (Stevenson) took over and Hubert moved to Redwood Falls marrying Emma Carity. Bob continued the dairy herd and also raised Duroc hogs. Steven joined his father in 1975 and lived on and farmed on the old Stevenson family farm in Delhi Township. He moved to this farm in 1990 with Robert and Grace retiring to town. The farmland is now rented out to the neighbors.
