ATTACHMENT B

For some time now, Hennepin County and the Minneapolis Housing and Redevelopment Authority have been in disagreement regarding certain definitions concerning tax increment financing pursuant to Minnesota Statutes 462.585. The County interpreted the law that the "original taxable value" was to be calculated as follows:

- (a) in order for a parcel of property to qualify for increment financing within a project, the Authority must own or have owned the parcel;
- (b) the valuation of the property so owned when last taxable prior to such ownership is the "original taxable value" of the property.

The Minnesota Legislature has not amended M.S. 462.585 to better define "original taxable value" as used therein. However, the 1974 Legislature did act regarding tax increment financing in business development districts in Chapter 485, Laws of Minnesota, 1974. It would appear to be in the interest of easier administration to treat all tax increment districts in a similar manner. Therefore, in view of the expressed legislative intent of Chapter 485 regarding tax increment financing, the County will:

1. Alter its interpretation of the "original taxable value" so that all parcels of property within a tax increment district when certified shall have an "original taxable valuation" at their most recent taxable assessed valuation.
2. Alter its treatment of Authority-owned exempt property. Property exempt from taxation at the time of the certification shall be included in the original taxable valuation at zero unless it was taxable when the tax increment financing plan was approved. In that case, its most recently determined assessed valuation before it became exempt shall be included.
3. The County's altered interpretation of these matters will be effective as of January 2, 1973 assessment and will relate to incremental taxes payable in 1975.
4. The County will work with the Authority and the Mayor to seek legislative action so as to enact into Minnesota property tax law uniform definitions and limitations on all tax increment projects consistent with those listed above.

Commissioner Ticen offered the following resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the County reimburse the St. Paul Insurance Company in the amount of $1,500 from the Self-Insurance Fund for the claim of Carol Ann Johnson.

Commissioner Ticen moved, seconded by Commissioner Robb, to refer the matter back to the Ways and Means Committee.
