A Proclamation by Alexander Ramsey, Governor.

Whereas by the Act of the Legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved March 10th 1860, an amendment to Section one of Article four of the Constitution of the State was proposed for publication and approval or rejection by the people in accordance with Section ¹ of Article fourteen of the Constitution:

And whereas by concurrent resolution of both Houses of the Legislature of the State, approved March 10th 1860, an amendment to Section two of Article nine of the Constitution, and an amendment to Section ten of the same Article were proposed in like manner for the approval or rejection of the people;—

And whereas in accordance with the first above mentioned act, and a general act in relation to proposed amendments to the Constitution, approved March 8th 1860, the proposed amendments were submitted to the electors of the State at the next annual election after the proposal of the same by the Legislature, held in the several election districts of the State on the 6th day of November A.D. 1860.

And whereas upon the final canvass of the returns of the votes upon said amendments, made in pursuance of law, on the fifth Tuesday, and within forty days after each election, being the eleventh day of December A.D. 1860, by the official Board of canvassers of the said State, it appeared that upon the question "Shall the proposed amendment to Article four, Section one of the Constitution be ratified," there were nineteen thousand seven hundred and eighty-five who voted "Yes," and four hundred and forty-two who voted "No."

That upon the question, "Shall the proposed amendment to Article nine, Section two of the Constitution be ratified," there were eighteen thousand six hundred and forty-eight, who voted "Yes," and seven hundred and forty-three who voted "No."

And that upon the question, "Shall the proposed amendment to Article nine, Section ten of the Constitution be ratified," there were nineteen thousand three hundred and eight who voted "Yes," and seven hundred and ten who voted "No."

And whereas by the acts before referred to, the Governor is required to issue a proclamation declaring the result:—

Now, therefore, I, Alexander Ramsey, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby declare and proclaim that a majority of the voters present and voting at the election aforesaid have ratified each and every the proposed amendments:

That Section one of Article four of the Constitution is therefore amended, so as to read as follows:

Section 1. "The Legislature of the State shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives, who shall meet at the Seat of Government at such such times as shall be prescribed by law; but no session shall exceed the term of sixty days."

That Section two of Article nine of the Constitution is amended so as to read as follows:

Section 2. The Legislature shall provide for an annual tax, sufficient to defray the estimated ordinary expenses of the State for each year, and whenever it shall happen that such ordinary expenses of the State for any year shall exceed the income of the State for such year, the Legislature shall provide for levying a tax for the ensuing year sufficient with other sources of income to pay the deficiency of the preceding year, together with the estimated expenses of such ensuing year. But no law levying a tax, or making other provision for the payment of interest or principal of the Bonds denominated "Minnesota State Railroad Bonds" shall take effect or be in force, until such law shall have been submitted to a vote of the people of the State, and adopted by a majority of the electors of the State, voting upon the same."

That Section ten of Article nine of the Constitution is amended so as to read as follows:

Section 10. The credit of the State shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association or corporation, nor shall there be any further issue of Bonds denominated "Minnesota State Railroad Bonds" under what purports to be an amendment to Section ten Article nine of the Constitution, adopted April 18th eighteen hundred and fifty-eight, which is hereby expunged from the Constitution, saving, excepting and reserving to the State, nevertheless, all rights, remedies and forfeitures accruing under said amendment."
