GEOGRAPHIC NAMES REPORT

NOTE: Names in local usage, whether they are shown on existing maps or not, on which no confusion or duplication exists, are sanctioned by the United States Board on Geographical Names, and need not be submitted for official approval unless clearly unworthy of perpetuation.

1. Feature (Lake, River, Etc.) Lake
2. Location: State of Minnesota County Itasca
Township 59N Range 24W 4th P.M. Section 29,32

3. Description of feature (Area of lake in acres, length of stream in miles, elev. of mt., peculiarities in shape, etc.)
The lake has a regular shore line with less than average amount of marshy shoreline, and about 85 acres in size. Maximum depth of lake is 50 feet.

4. Does this feature have a name? YES - ~~NO~~ (Cross out one) (a) If so, give name or names, history of each, & source of information.
Cedar Lake - According to John Hoyt, early logger, this name has been used since about 1904, has appeared on Forest Service and other maps of the area, and is listed in the Gazetteer. There is no Cedar timber near the lake at present and therefore the name is not appropriate from that angle. This name is duplicated on other lakes in the area.

5. Name recommended for approval Barwise Lake
(a) Origin and meaning A man named Barwise (deceased) homesteaded considerable land around the lake about 33 years ago. He settled on the land and logged the timber. Descendants of the original homesteader still occupy part of the land. The recommended name is intended to perpetuate the name of one of the early settlers of the region.

(b) Source of information if not given under 4a The information regarding the history of the recommended name was supplied by John Hoyt, the State Ranger, the County Commissioner and other local residents.

6. Reasons for the change recommended To reduce the number of Cedar Lakes and to perpetuate a name associated with the early history of the area.

1. Feature (Lake, River, Etc.) Lake

2. Location: State of Minnesota County Itasca
Township 57N Range 26W 4th P.M. Section 6, 7

3. Description of feature (Area of lake in acres, length of stream in miles, elev. of mt., peculiarities in shape, etc.)
The area of this lake is 40 - 50 acres. It is comparatively shallow, most of the shoreline being marshy.

4. Does this feature have a name? YES - ~~NO~~ (Cross out one) (a) If so, give name or names, history of each, & source of information.
Dutton Lake - This name has been used on Forest Service maps since about 1935, has appeared on Itasca County maps and is used in the Gazetteer of Meandered Lakes of Minnesota. (1928) Local people do not recognize this name.
Dalton Lake - This name is used locally. Verified by County Commissioner, Lester Voigt, guide, and other local people.

5. Name recommended for approval Dalton Lake
(a) Origin and meaning A man named Dalton (deceased) was foreman of a lumber camp on this lake about 40 - 45 years ago. The lake was named for Mr. Dalton and this name has come into general use locally. The name Dutton as shown on various maps probably is the result of faulty pronunciation of the correct name.

(b) Source of information if not given under 4a Local residents and sportsmen.

6. Reasons for the change recommended To bring map usage into conformity with local use and to more firmly establish a name connected with the early history of the area.
