Description &
Name Origin

The early townsite was about the center of the present city which extends approximately 7 1/4 mi. along Lake Superior and the St. Louis River. White people lived in Duluth in 1854. Duluth was named for DANIEL GREYSOLON sieur Du LUTH in Feb. 1856 according to a contemporary, Judge John R. Carey who stated that the name was suggested by Rev. Joseph S. Wilson, a Missionary, and was adopted by the Townsite proprietors. The name was formally selected in March of that year because the name appears on the certificate signed by H. W. Williams and "dated at Oresta, March, 11, 1856". The Missionary referred to found the name in historical books which were in the settlement and he suggested it to the townsite proprietors who adopted it.

(over)

The Indian name of Duluth is ONIGUMINS, which means Little Portage. The little portage was across the narrow bar of sand now known as Minnesota Point.

H. K. Kuna → 3/16

White, English-speaking people, aside from fur traders and missionaries, lived in Duluth as early as 1852. In that year George R. Stuntz had a trading place on Minnesota Point, and before that time Edmund F. Ely was a missionary at Fond du Lac. With him and before him were French pioneers who had been at the Head of the Lakes for a long time.

Name Origin

Named after President James Buchanan.

Buchanan withered away, and as Judge Carey, an early Duluthian, writes of it, "it never amounted to anything." Possibly a few holes in the ground might be found indicating the site, but that is all that remains. The U. S. Land office for all the North Shore was located here in 1857 but moved to Portland in May 1859.

Description &
Name Origin

Name was suggested by Rev. J. G. Wilson of Logansport, Indiana. It was named for Sieur Daniel Grayson Duluth, a French traveler, and who was one of the first whites to set foot on the North Shore of Lake Superior. The name in some of the Jesuit Relations, is spelled Du Luth, and in others Dulud. The spelling of the name of the place has not followed these "Relations." The zenith City of the unsalted sea today retains the spelling that was first applied to its name.

Description: Name now applied to extreme western suburb of Duluth. French Name Origin name, meaning, roughly "the head of the lakes," It (?) is found on the river, now the St. Louis, on the Franquemelin map of 1688. This river is named on an English map of 1783 "River of the Bottom of the Lake," a liberal translation of the term Fond du lac. Name was applied for generations to all the region at the Head of the Lakes, including the present sites of the cities of Duluth and Superior. The Northwest Company had a stockaded trading post on the (over) sits of the present city of Superior as early as 1792 which was the centre for all the Fond du Lac region.

On one old map the whole western end of Lake Superior is named Bay of Fond du Lac. About 1826 the name began to be localized to the area where the suburb of Fond du Lac now is. In the same year a great meeting of Indians was held at that point and the treaty of Fond du Lac was made.

The American Fur Co. had a post there succeeding the Northwest Co. In regard to this Folwell says - "The following year (1793) a depot of which vestiges may still be traced, was established at Fond du Lac, near the mouth of the St. Louis River. This is about 20 mi. from the suburb now bearing this name. - Folwell says also that Dugluth passed Fond du Lac on his way to Mille Lacs Lake.

Description &amp;

Name Origin

The town plat appears to have been owned by M. W. M<sup>r</sup> Cracker, Ryan H. Bacon, and Edmund F. Ely.

The name is not from the Ojibway but rather a glorified form of an Indian name brought from the Iroquois. It was probably suggested by <sup>Henry W.</sup> Wheeler who was a native of Oneida County, New York.

It is one of the many villages joined with the settlement at Minnesota Point and has long since become a part of Duluth.
