The law prohibits the furnishing of any information that may be used in the prosecution of a claim against the Government, except to the proper Government officials.

3. Applications from individuals, other than historians and statisticians, for information from this statement of service should be denied and the applicant directed to apply for the information to the Adjutant and Inspector of the Marine Corps, who is the custodian of the official records of the United States Marine Corps. The law prohibits the furnishing of any information that may be used in the prosecution of a claim against the Government, except to the proper Government officials.
2. Applications from individuals, other than historians and statisticians, for information from this statement of service should be denied and the applicant directed to apply for the information to the Adjutant and Inspector of the Marine Corps. Exceptions to this rule may be made in the case of officials of patriotic and philanthropic societies and associations when it is known positively that the information is to be used exclusively by said society or association, and will not be made public nor communicated to any individual who may use it directly or indirectly as a basis for, or in the prosecution of, a claim against the Government, or to the injury of the marine.
3. Except as hereinbefore provided, all persons seeking information relative to the military and medical histories of the marine should be denied information from, or access to, this statement of service, as otherwise information legally unobtainable would be made available to persons who might perpetrate frauds upon the Government, or who might seek to injure the marine.

LOUIS CUKELA, of Minneapolis.
Lieutenant in 5th. Regiment of Marines. Because his company was suffering fearful losses from a strong enemy point near Villers-Cotterets, France in July, 1918, he crawled out to a flank and made his way to the German line in the face of heavy fire, and despite the warnings of comrades attacked a machine gun emplacement alone. He killed the crew with his bayonet. With hand grenades, he bombed out the remaining portion of the strong point.

and that the two of them often talked together in that language. He stated that Cukela claimed to have been in the Montenegrin army in 1910-1912 during the Balkan wars, and was later in the Austrian army in the first days of WWI and was captured by the French. He was interned in a camp in Africa from which he escaped to come to this country and join the Marines.

A statement of service from the Minnesota Adjutant General credits Cukela with two years of service in the U. S. Army prior to enlistment in the Marine Corps, and an interview with BGen. John Robert Doe, MC Ret. indicated that Cukela had a civilian occupation of Private Detective. There seems to be too much interpolation for this period.

Mr. Jim O'Connor who served in 24th Co. 4th Marines in China recalls that on one occasion (1937-38) when a parade was called for the polo grounds in Shanghai, Cukela decided it was too hot to march his company across the city to the parade, so he ordered all the rickshaws available and his troops rode to a parade. Mr. O'Connor also recalls that any parade running out of the parade he would be ordered out with a marching like the following:

"In the name of this company, the First Sergeant is the Name.
You can f--- the Name, but don't try to f--- the Poppy."

Nearly all sources indicate that he was a strict disciplinarian, but just. That he was always well groomed and had a very soldierly bearing. Sources also indicate that he was rather rough and lacked some of the finer social graces which are not essential in battle but go a long way in advancing the career of an officer in peacetime.
