April 6, 2015 - Chesapeake, Virginia, United States - Lakeisha McKnight, better known as the "Fighting Speaker" and winner of more than 40 awards (including a presidential citation from the former president Bill Clinton) is pleased to announce the official worldwide launch of her first new book in the series, entitled "WAKE Up! 24 Principles that Revitalize Purpose & Passion Within Women." This book is a must-read for women from all walks of life who truly want to live fulfilled lives.

According to Lakeisha: "The WAKE Up! Book answers common concerns faced by women who are tired of living an ordinary life; they want to become extraordinary, raising the bar for women globally. Wake Up helps bring women out of the shadows and helps them overcome obstacles so that they can live fulfilled lives."

Today, most of the women are frustrated at the goals and dreams which they have not accomplished. Some women are unfulfilled because they started towards their dream, but stopped or never got going. Besides this, other factors like fear, anxiety, discouragement, poor time management and disappointment drifted them away from their objective. However, with many known paradigms shifting and changing, the woman of today is desperately looking to succeed in new ways by finding inner fulfillment. Lakeisha through her new book wants to teach something, which no one before has put together. She wants to provide women with a perfect guide that could help them make their dreams come true, and live a fulfilled life. Those who will read the book will feel inspired and motivated, and will have the goal-recipe and effective tips to go after what they most desire.

Lakeisha coaches women globally by way of seminars, conferences, and virtual events. Most recently, she has joined women throughout the world in celebrating women during the month of March, popularly known for celebrating women who are rising stars, and those who paved the way for her success.
