

Terms & Conditions

By engaging in coaching services with Joseph Cyr Coaching, LLC, you agree to the following terms:

Coaching Relationship:

The coaching sessions are designed to help you achieve your stated goals and objectives. While the Coach will provide guidance and support, the responsibility for taking action and achieving results lies with you, the Client. We are here to empower you to take massive steps forward and break through obstacles.

Confidentiality:

All information shared during coaching sessions will be kept strictly confidential, except as required by law or with your explicit consent. We celebrate your journey and honor your vulnerability.

Payment:

Payment for coaching services is due according to the agreed-upon terms. Failure to make timely payments may result in the suspension of coaching sessions.

Cancellation and Rescheduling:

If you need to cancel or reschedule a coaching session, please provide at least 24 hours' notice. Cancellations made within this notice period will be rescheduled. Cancellations made outside the notice period will not be refunded.

Liability:

While the Coach will strive to provide valuable guidance, the results of coaching depend on your actions and efforts. The Coach is not liable for any outcomes or decisions made by you during or after the coaching engagement.

Termination:

Either party may terminate the coaching relationship with 30 days' written notice.

Intellectual Property:

All materials, resources, and content provided by the Coach are protected by intellectual property rights and may not be copied, distributed, or shared without prior permission.

Governing Law:

This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of Massachusetts.

By participating in coaching sessions, you acknowledge that you have read, understood, and agreed to these terms.
