hekatech health

Where health and sustainability meet.

The name Heka is inspired by the ancient Egyptian principle of transformative power, where medicine and creative energy were believed to unite to protect and sustain cosmic order. Drawing on this powerful legacy of holistic well-being, our conference unites modern leaders to address two of healthcare's most critical challenges: ensuring environmental sustainability and pioneering equitable access to medical innovation.

We convene influential business and community leaders to facilitate the crucial conversations that shape a more responsible corporate landscape. Our upcoming conference offers a premier platform for partners to gain visibility at the forefront of ESG innovation within the healthcare industry. We will delve into the Environmental pillar by exploring solutions for sustainable waste management in the medical sector, and champion the Social pillar by tackling the critical issue of equal access to innovative medicine. By sponsoring this event, you will align your brand with actionable change and connect directly with key decision-makers committed to building a sustainable and equitable future.
