V. KEY CONCEPT for the Week – “CREATING PERSONAL STRENGTH”

(In life coaching, Key Concepts are the basic building blocks for personal growth and overall success. Some people use only a few key concepts; some people learn and practice all of them.)

The Key Concept I'd like you to practice this week is the concept of creating personal strength.

Here's the definition we'll use for personal strength: “The choice to instill yourself with determination and ‘self-will’, regardless of the circumstances.”

First, we will review the perceptions of personal strength that you have right now. All you have to do is answer each of these questions:

1. How would you rate your overall feeling of “personal strength,” as an individual?
(1 to 10) _____ Tell me why you gave yourself that rating?

2. In what areas or circumstances do you feel your personal strength is the highest?

3. In what areas or circumstances do you feel your personal strength is the lowest?

4. How important do you believe your feelings of personal strength are, to your success as an individual, overall? Why?

5. If you wanted to increase your personal strength in one important area of your life, what is that area, and what would you do to increase your personal strength in that area?

6. What, overall, do you think does the most to build your personal strength? (Examples: an activity, reading biographies of people who overcame difficulties, spending time with strong people, etc.)

VI. THIS WEEK: To practice the concept of personal strength this week, I’d like you to write out, in your Success Journal, any area you feel your personal strength could some strengthening – along with your ideas on how to build it.
