The Big Tax Trick

The U.S. tax system is part of a big trick that has been going on for a long time. Powerful groups, like banks, government agencies, and courts, work together to take people's money by confusing them and changing how the laws really work.

A long time ago, the tax laws were supposed to apply only to people who worked for the federal government or lived in places like Washington D.C., Puerto Rico, or other U.S. territories. But over time, the tax system started being used on regular Americans who live in the 50 states, even though the rules were never meant for them.

The Fake Identity Trick—Exposed!

These agencies, especially the IRS, act like they have authority, but they do not. The IRS is really a private company, not a real part of the U.S. government. It uses scary letters, fake records, and confusing laws to make people think they must pay taxes they do not owe.

The IRS even makes up files about people, pretending they broke the law so they can take their money or property. The IRS gets help from another agency—the BATF—to take things by force, even though the laws don't allow them to do that.

The whole tax system is based on tricking people, changing their identity, and treating living people like fake "persons" or companies so the government can control them. This system has caused many innocent people to lose money, property, or even go to jail.

The IRS should be shut down, and everyone who was harmed should be paid back. The tax system is not honest, not fair, and not what the Founders of America wanted. It is a giant fraud meant to make powerful groups rich while regular Americans suffer.
