1. What are cookies and why do we use them?

We may use cookies and other techniques like web beacons when you visit our website. Cookies are small text files used to recognise repeat users, facilitate your ongoing access to and use of our website, and track your usage behaviour to improve our website's functionality and content. The information collected from cookies helps us tailor our website to your needs, remember your preferences, and make improvements based on how you use our website. We generally do not use cookies to identify you personally, and the information collected is not used for personal identification.

2. What kind of cookies do we use?

We use the following categories of cookies:

Category 1: Necessary cookies - essential for accessing secure areas and using all features of our website.
Category 2: Performance cookies - collect anonymous information about your usage to improve our website.
Category 3: Functionality cookies - provide a personalised experience by remembering your data like username and language preference.
Category 4: Targeting/advertising cookies - deliver relevant ads and measure advertising effectiveness.
Category 5: Third-party Social media cookies - enable campaign reporting and track social network users' visits (in compliance with privacy policies).

3. How can you manage your cookie settings?

You must accept cookies to use our website. However, you can disable cookies in your web browser. Note that disabling cookies may limit access to certain features on our website.
