Privacy Policy

"This Privacy Policy applies to all business operations, digital platforms, services, and assets owned or affiliated with Bobby Terry Jr., Falecia Terry, and any related companies, entities, LLCs, affiliates, or assets (collectively referred to as “the Company”).

By using this website or engaging with any of our digital products or services, you agree to the following:

- Information Collection and Use: The Company collects limited personal data for transactional and operational purposes. This may include your name, email, and billing information to fulfill your purchases and maintain compliance.
- Data Protection: All reasonable measures are taken to protect your data from unauthorized access or misuse.
- Third-Party Access: Information is only shared with technology or processing partners essential to operations (e.g., payment processors).
- Cookies and Analytics: Cookies may be used to improve functionality and track site performance metrics.
- No Liability for Third-Party Links: The Company is not responsible for the practices or policies of linked external sites.
- Policy Changes: Updates may occur without prior notice; continued use indicates acceptance.
- Contact: Direct privacy concerns to the contact details available on our site."