

Speak Honest Journal Prompts

When was the last time you held back from being vulnerable, and what stopped you?

What's one small way you could be more vulnerable in a current relationship?

How can you get clear on your needs before your next tough conversation?