EPISODE 15:
OZONE: WHAT IS OZONE THERAPY?

Is Ozone Right for My Dog?

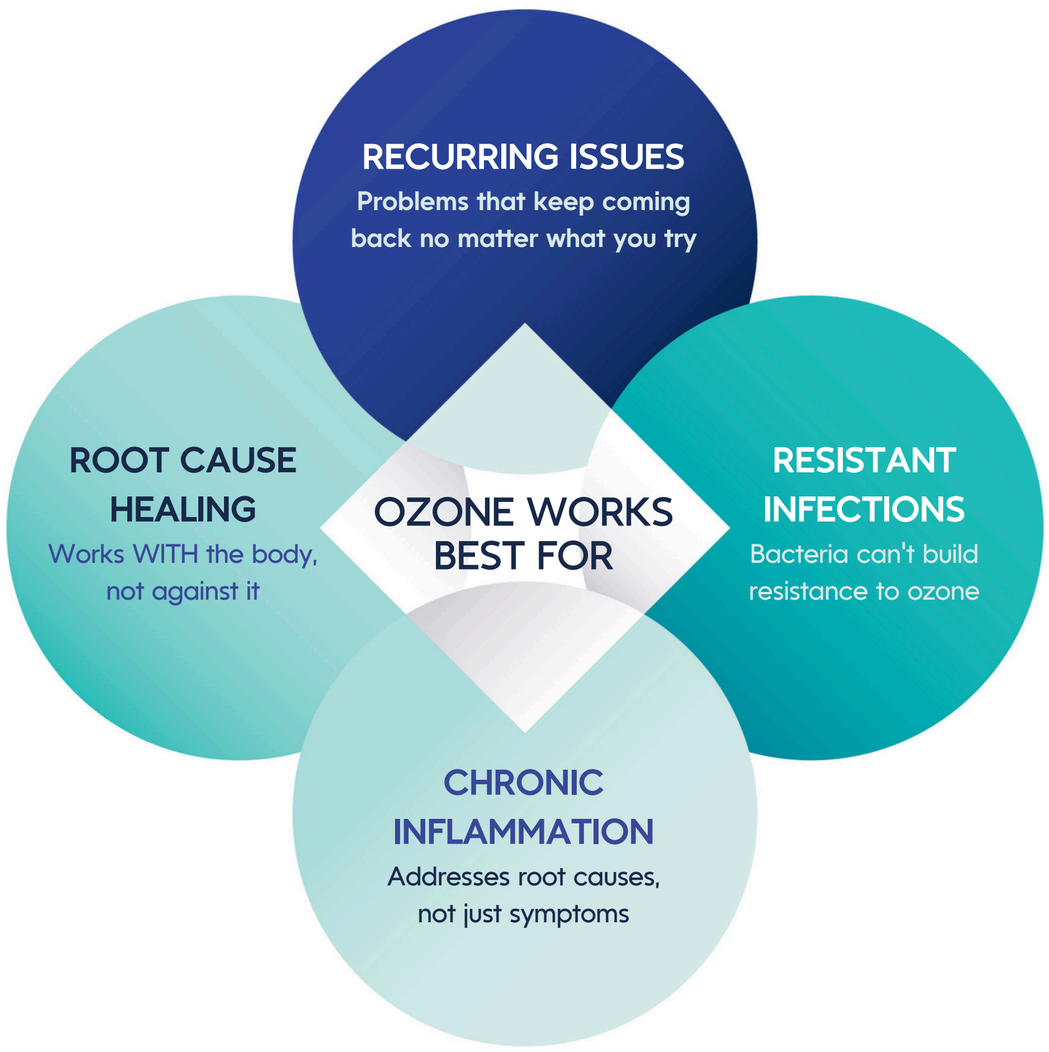

You just heard about ozone therapy - maybe for the first time. And you're wondering: could this help MY dog?

Here's the thing: ozone isn't a magic bullet. But if your dog has chronic issues that conventional medicine keeps "managing" without actually fixing, ozone might be the missing piece.

This guide helps you figure out if ozone therapy is worth exploring for your dog's situation.

CHECK ALL THAT APPLY - Your Dog's Current Situation:

- ☐ Chronic infections that keep coming back (ears, skin, UTIs)
- ☐ On repeated rounds of antibiotics or steroids
- ☐ GI issues - diarrhea, vomiting, food sensitivities
- ☐ Skin problems requiring ongoing medication
- ☐ Arthritis or chronic pain
- ☐ Arthritis or chronic pain
- ☐ Autoimmune condition (pemphigus, lupus, IMHA, ITP)
- ☐ Cancer diagnosis or cancer support needed
- ☐ Wounds that won't heal or post-surgical complications
- ☐ Weakened immune system, frequent illnesses

The Bottom Line:

Checked 3+ boxes above? Ozone might be the missing piece your dog needs.

Ozone isn't right for every dog - but if conventional treatments aren't working or you're tired of just "managing" symptoms, it's worth a conversation.
