

Hi, my name is

MICHAEL NEECE

As President of Our Future is Kind, Michael teaches people how to use the power of kindness to create innovative, productive, and efficient teams.

His wide-ranging experience includes leadership and educational roles in traditional corporate settings as well as planetariums. He has delivered more than 750 sessions about team building, kindness, the wonders of the universe, and the curiosity invoked by space exploration. Michael has developed a unique approach to helping teams thrive by talking about kindness through a cosmic lens.

As host of the podcast, "Our Future is Kind," he interviews executives, futurists, politicians, artists, writers, and community leaders to help his audience ponder, "What should the future be like? Who will be there? How can we craft it carefully into what we want and deserve?"

His book, In Kind: Consciously Craft a Meaningful Life and Career, is a roadmap for leaders seeking to build psychologically safe workplaces. With practical tools and exercises, it supports anyone pursuing career success—whether starting out, starting over, or seeking a kinder way to work and live.

As a father to LGBT children and a firm believer that everyone deserves a seat at the table, Michael is committed to creating a kinder future. This passion also drives his role as co-founder of The Human Summit, an event dedicated to fostering greater kindness & connection despite our differences. .

Michael resides in North Carolina, where he enjoys playing guitar, juggling, climbing stairs for charity, and hiking. He is also an avid reader and writer.
