

Letter from Jack Schulman, Computer Scientist and Physicist Rutgers University Graduate, Former President of American Computer Science Association, Formerly contract consultant with AT&T Bell Labs, CitiCorp, IGM, US Dept. of Defense

"In thirty years I have never seen anything running on computers that will provide beneficial side effects. However, after looking at the EESystem technology for over one year, there are no flaws or deception of any type.

There appears to be some form of inter-dimensional or high super scalar energy being generated, which when a person sits in a room with the EESystem technology running, their entire life force improves.

When we looked at water, after it had been charged in the EESystem room, its fundamental nature had changed. Its permeability index increased, and the surface tension decreased. Food energized by this technology will be treated by the body as more absorbable.

When we processed the hydrologist test, we found that something very interesting was happening to the hydrogen atom in the water. The energy covalent level of each hydrogen atom had increased when measured by our spectrographs. In fact the hydrogen was exhibiting some of the characteristics of heavy hydrogen, although the aspects were very positive.

After I personally sat in an EESystem room, I felt very revitalized, refreshed, invigorated and relaxed."
