

Man-Made - Three out of Four

Exciting and Engaging Stories with a Futuristic Twist!

Set in the near future, man-made certified caregiving nurses with AI are the norm. Our unlikely heroine Betty, was the prototype of all the G-4s. After a coding tweak gives her newly-found emotions, it leads her on a journey of self-discovery, action, romance, and a knack for saving others in trouble. The Man-Made trilogy follows Betty as she continues to grow and change, enhancing the lives of all she meets.

About the Book

In the third book of the Man-Made trilogy, Betty and her husband Mack Schwartz, find themselves in witness protection. Mack's best friend FBI Special Agent Woody Everett is in charge of their relocation, and Betty must adapt to a whole new culture. She endures yet another trial, this time by a tribunal that will decide her ultimate fate in their new community.

Betty and Mack rebuild their lives with new names as they start a family of their own with the birth of their twin babies. These unusually intelligent children acquire additional talents, learned from their already extraordinary mother Betty, who they believe is just an average human. What would happen if they learned the truth? We watch the twins grow, and they develop their own language, which proves to come in very handy as time goes by.

See how Betty and Mack's love for each other is truly transcendent. Oscillating between humorous, exciting and dramatic, enjoy the unique and lovable Man-Made characters, as they experience many challenges and adventures throughout their lives.

About the Author

Cassie Cluster has a special love for cats, as evidenced by her previous reference book "Potty Training for REAL Cats". However, another of her affections is for science fiction. Early memories at age three, were watching the original "Lost in Space" series. She even had an animated Robot toy. She also enjoys the twists and turns of mystery and crime dramas, and had an idea to combine the genres.

Cassie combines her love of sci-fi, a fascination with robotics and AI, and a penchant for research, to ultimately create the Man-Made trilogy. She enjoys writing stories that leave just enough to the imagination. Her fictional tales contain relatable and lovable characters, and are written in a style, unnoticeably devoid of profanity or graphic violence.
