

7 AI Advanced Level Prompts

1. “Rewrite this to be more persuasive, using urgency and authority without sounding salesy.”

Don’t just say “better.” Say how.

This prompt makes your copy sharper, clearer, and more action-focused—without turning it into a pitch fest.

2. “Tighten this up so every sentence earns its place—cut filler, keep punch.”

Your content isn’t bad. It’s just bloated.

This prompt forces clarity and compression. More impact, less noise.

3. “Improve this by adding storytelling and emotional hooks in the first 3 lines.”

Attention is won or lost at the top.

This prompt helps you lead with emotion, story, or insight—so people actually keep reading.

4. “Reframe this argument to sound bold and contrarian, without being disrespectful.”

Safe content gets ignored.

This prompt adds edge without turning your audience off. You go from agreeable to magnetic.

5. “Edit this for a specific audience: [describe them], and make sure the tone matches their mindset.”

Your message might be great—but aimed at the wrong people.

This prompt dials in the tone, vocabulary, and values to match the reader you’re trying to reach.

6. “Turn this list into a scroll-stopping post by front-loading curiosity and simplifying the structure.”

Structure sells.

This turns a flat draft into something people want to click, read, and share.

7. “Critique this like a high-level copywriter—what would you change to make this convert better?”

This flips ChatGPT from assistant into coach.

You don’t just get edits—you get insight into why they work.
