I'll Give You Something to Chew On

Back in my day, snacks were few,
If you were hungry, you chewed what you drew.
No fruit rolls, no chewy pack,
Just patience and a snack-pack of lack.

Now lunch bags burst, they're stacked to the brim,
With gummies and crackers and bars to the rim.
You whine for more candy, you crunch and you fuss,
We drank melted snow chasing after the bus.

We scavenged for anything salty we could,
Which came in the form of graphite wrapped in wood.
So the next time your bag of snacks is gone,
Here's a No. 2 you can chew on.
