WHAT IF JESUS WERE A COACH BY VINCENT DUBLADO

As a spiritual but non-religious person myself, I can clearly understand what Coach Michael Taylor is saying, and I am confident that those who have the same view get it as well. But what makes this book an engaging read is Taylor's experience that brings forth the idea of religious freedom. I highly recommend that you read this book if you are currently on your journey of philosophical and spiritual discovery. This book does not have all the answers, but it can shed light and somehow ease your doubts.

I'M NOT OKAY WITH GRAY BY VICTORIA BELTRAN

Coach Michael Taylor's I'm Not Okay With Gray: How To Create An Extraordinary Life After 50 is a gem of a book, a treasure trove for those who want to thrive and live a happy life at any age past 50. Coach Taylor's literary style is charming and appealing which makes for an extremely engaging read as he helps his readers tread the path to genuine happiness. What makes this book doubly unique is that it is written from the heart, not from a pulpit. I highly recommend this book.

ADVERSITY IS YOUR GREATEST ALLY BY ROMUALD DZEMO

In the heart of this book is the beautiful message that we are greater than our past, greater than our feelings and suggested thoughts, greater than our fears. In a sense, Michael Wayne Taylor uncovers the secret that we can triumph over any form of setback or adversity. This is a book I will recommend to anyone who wants to take themselves seriously.

SHATTERING BLACK MALE STEREOTYPES BY DIVINE ZAPE

Shattering Black Male Stereotypes: is an intelligently written book that combines street smarts with engaging storytelling skills to deconstruct the illusions we have been fed about black men. It is highly informative and inspiring, a gift that both black men and other races need to read.
