UTNROTC

1940-41 ~ 1990-91

Legislation enacting the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps program was signed into law in 1926 for the "training and instruction of naval subjects to further the cause of national defense." The University of Texas at Austin was selected to receive a Naval ROTC unit in June 1940 by then Rear Admiral Chester Nimitz of the Bureau of Navigation, who expressed in a letter to UT President Rainey that UT would offer "... the most effective service to the national defense program." Through the help of a Texas alumnus, Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson, President Roosevelt signed an appropriations bill in September 1940 that established a Naval ROTC unit at the University of Texas.

When Captain Underwood arrived at his office early that morning in September, 1940, he found a long line already waiting. These were the first of the three hundred odd boys who attempted to get into the newly organized Texas Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps Unit.

The hundred and ten who succeeded found themselves in a new world — that of the Navy — with a great many things to learn. They were guided and instructed in this by their officers: Captain Herbert W. Underwood and Lieutenants Charles A. Whiteford and Robert F. Martin.

The first freshman class in the fall of 1940 numbered 110, the maximum permitted by law. In addition to their regular course load, these students enrolled in the requisite Naval Science and Tactics classes, and during the summer went on a battleship cruise. A special provision by the Naval ROTC program allowed midshipmen to complete their academic work at UT in only three years, in order that they could be quickly commissioned and stationed in the wartime fleet.

The fifty years of Naval ROTC at UT have

Campus circa 1950. Noticeably absent are Jester Center, the stadium upper deck, and the PCL. been marked by several changes in the program. Perhaps the most significant change was the entrance of women into the program in 1974. The Navy unit was originally located on the third floor of the old Journalism building, but moved into the Littlefield Home during World War II to accommodate its increased numbers. The unit moved into its present location on the first and third floors of Steindam Hall in 1957. The 1980-81 school year was marked by the integration of the NESEP and MECEP students into the midshipman battalion in order to strengthen it, and to enhance leadership development.

The fortieth freshman class in the fall of 1980 numbered 60, a noticeable increase from previous years that suffered from the blight of anti-militarism that followed Vietnam. Total battalion enrollment was 140 for 1980-81, in comparison to the peak 1942-43 enrollment of 362. Yet, the battalion's determination and effort in its endeavors, from the drill field to the playing field, yielded rewards for each of its members.

In spite of the wavering social attitudes that accompany the passage of the decades, the spirit and tradition of the Navy endures. The Naval ROTC program at the University of Texas continues to fulfill its mission of providing military and leadership training for the future officers of the United States Navy and Marine Corps; thereby serving to "further the cause of national defense."

LEATHERNECKS: ENTERTAINMENT AND EXERCISE . . . THE MARINE CORPS WAY!

“The Leathernecks are a student organization composed of Marine Option Midshipmen, MECEPs, PLC and those Navy Option Midshipmen interested in becoming Marine Options who are bound together by a common goal: The attainment of a commission in the U.S. Marine Corps. The primary purpose of the organization is to help its members achieve that goal. For this reason, Leathernecks meet at 0630 3 days a week for morning PT sessions. These PT sessions are designed to develop both the physical and leadership skills of the Leathernecks. However, in the interest of doing as much as possible to help those members who have not yet completed OCS, the Leathernecks have other activities, too: conditioning hikes, FTXs (Field Training Exercises), obstacle courses, reaction courses and classroom instruction on military topics relevant to a Marine Officer Candidate.

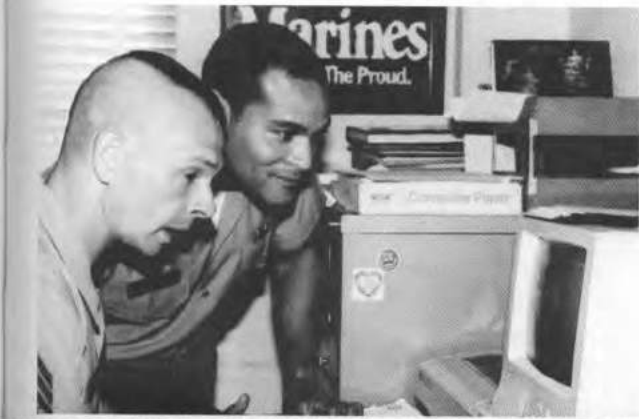

But being a multi-faceted organization, the Leathernecks also have another purpose: To breed camaraderie and esprit de corps among its members, and to develop their social skills. Toward this end, Leathernecks throw numerous parties during the year, foremost among them the USMC Birthday Celebration. To pay for these parties and all the other expenses incurred during the year, Leathernecks engage in frequent fundraising activities. Taken together, all these diverse activities have made the Leathernecks into a well-rounded, responsible and close-knit group."

ANCHORETTES BOOST MORALE

Anchoresses is a support organization for the NROTC at The University of Texas at Austin, who make sure that morale is up within the unit. The organization began in 1973, with just a few girls, and has grown throughout the years. With this growth, the importance and strength of the organization have also grown. Anchoresses have Cookie Calls, host parties, set up regular mail call, and cheer the battalion members on at PRT, drills, and Jim's Haircuts softball games. Each semester brings a new group of rushees to add to the already existing actives. More than anything, though, Anchoresses provide friendship and a smile. You won't find more patriotic women anywhere on campus.

NAVY FOOTBALL PUMMELS ARMY ... TWICE.

The disappointment of not making the I.M. playoffs was lessened by two crushing wins over Army in the fall of 1990. The Navy/Marine Corps team first beat the cadets in intramural play, and then destroyed them in the annual Navy/Army game. We stopped keeping score at 35-7.

JIM'S SOFTBALL

*Team Mudfest '90.
Lounging around.*

Jim Hanen does more than give great, sharp haircuts for the NROTC. He also generously sponsors and supports two Navy/Marine Corps softball teams. In 1990, Jim's support allowed several midshipmen to travel to the 'Ole Miss. University softball tourney, which came to be known as "Mudfest 90." Jim Hanen's support gives the battalion a chance to relax and prove that Navy/Marine Corps softball is second to none.

AVIATION INDOCTRINATION

Spring 1991 saw several Midshipmen taking a road trip south for the aviation indoctrination field trip. Tom Comfort, David Walt, Joe "Buster" Fauth, Paul Milne, Sara Biddle, Denny "Boncrusher" Payne, Rich Lofgren, and Harald "Leif" Aagaard saw the sights in beautiful Corpus Christi, Beeville and Kingsville. The photos tell you which Mids had the camera.

SAILING/SWIM QUALS.

Four teams competed at the UT sailing regatta on 20 April 1991. The battalion outdistanced OU, University of New Mexico, and Prairie View A&M to take home the Cup. Team members included James Brown, Clay Hinton, Paul Jack, Dave Klump, Paul Mueller, Brett Padgett, Launtz Rodgers, and Tracy Shay.

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST
OF BUSINESS

"Pioneering innovative products and services is a USAA tradition. In order to serve our members better, we're utilizing new portable computers

that allow us to provide them with faster and more efficient service."

KEN MASON
USAA FIELD
APPRAISER
ORANGE COUNTY,
CALIFORNIA

For almost 70 years, USAA has been driven by the philosophy that superior service is the key to customer satisfaction. That's why we're always among the first to develop new ways of doing business.

Take, for instance, our new automated on-site appraisal program—one of the few of its kind in the insurance industry. Using portable computer workstations, our field appraisers have direct access to claims information from anywhere in the U.S.. So, they're able to provide members with accurate damage assessment and repair cost appraisals within minutes of seeing your car. As a result, repairs start sooner, saving you time and money. What's more, in most cases, they can issue a check right on the spot. That's how fast and simple we make it. But, that's exactly what our members have come to expect.

So whatever your needs—insurance, investments, banking or merchandise—you can count on USAA to provide the very best. Because at USAA, service is our first order of business.
