Vocal Academy Coaches

Hannah Anders, founder and CEO of The Vocal Academy, is one of Nashville's premier vocal coaches, with over 16 years of experience shaping the voices of artists who have graced The Voice, American Idol, Broadway, and more. A graduate of Belmont University with a Bachelor of Music in Vocal Performance, she's a master of commercial voice styles. As an internationally touring artist, Hannah brings invaluable real-world expertise to her coaching.

Matthew Carrier, co-founder of The Vocal Academy, is a highly respected business and creative consultant with over 15 years of expertise in helping artists and small businesses grow. He excels at empowering creatives through mindset training, accountability, and strategic brand development, transforming their talents into measurable success. His holistic approach ensures clients have the tools, confidence, and strategy they need to thrive.

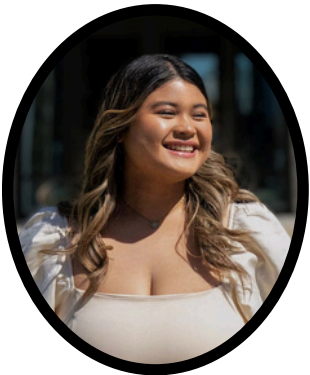

Fain Spray has been a private voice instructor for over eight years, working with singers of all ages and skill levels. Fain holds a Master of Music in Vocal Pedagogy from Belmont University and a Bachelor's from Middle Tennessee State University, she has also taught at Lipscomb and Trevecca Nazarene University. Her teaching philosophy focuses on creating a calm, focused environment tailored to each student's unique needs, helping them explore technique, expression, and performance.

Marty Lamain earned his Master of Music in Commercial Music: Vocal Performance from Belmont University. As an associate faculty member specializing in Somatic VoiceWork: The LoVetri Method™, he brings extensive teaching experience from institutions like Belmont and Trevecca Nazarene University, focusing on commercial music styles. Marty works with a wide range of students, from hobbyists to professional artists, and is dedicated to fostering each student's growth.

Danee Gorre, a recent graduate of Trevecca Nazarene University with a BA in Commercial Music: Vocal Performance, specializes in commercial vocal technique with a focus on R&B, theater, and pop. With experience both on and off the road, she emphasizes vocal health and guides students in developing sustainable techniques while refining their artistry. She nurtures each student's unique sound, helping them thrive in any genre.

Drachel earned her Bachelor of Music in Vocal Performance from Belmont University, where she honed her skills in various vocal styles and instruments. As a vocal coach, she emphasizes the mind-body connection and vocal health, aiming to help students understand their instrument and build confidence. The Vocal Academy is thrilled to have her on the team for online lessons!
